Trouble in Cuba.
Polite to Stalin.
Five Billions Untaxed.
To Eliminate Slums.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER unheaval in Cuba. Our friendly neighbor has decided that the Cespedes provisional government will not do. And in obedience to the command of soldiers, sailors and police, President Cespedes gives up his power.

No one in this country has the right to judge Cuba, her revolutions or her government.

Yesterday the United States sent four warships to Havana "to observe" and look after Americans.

EDOUARD HERRIOT, formerly French premier, is in Russia, charming the Russians, as Lefort charmed Peter the Great when he was favorite. In Russia Mr. Herriot is delighted by the ensemble, meaning "everything."

He finds that Stalin, Russian leader, shows the highest intelligence and courage, admires his regime, admires especially Russia's public school system, which now educates every Russian child at government expense, where once 90 per cent could not read.

YOU REALIZE how polite all this is when you remember that Russia has defaulted on six thousand million dollars' worth of French bonds, money lent to the czars.

It is important to France to do business with Russia, infinitely more important to have Russia on the side of France again should any trouble come with Chancellor Hitler's "new Germany." And what is important to FRANCE is what every French statesman has in mind.

MR. UNTERMYER, seeking money to run the City of New York, suggests that tax-exempt property might properly yield at least twenty-five millions a year in taxes.

It is startling to read that five thousand million dollars' worth of city property pays no taxes. And the property that pays no taxes also pays no assessments, other property owners being taxed to build sewers, pave and widen streets, etc., for the tax-free property.

New York announces a plan to increase revenue by proposing taxes that will "yield the most feathers with the least squawk."

IN ENGLAND on the outskirts of Manchester, where the ship canal brings in traffic from all over the world, a new city for 100,000 population is building. It is a model city built by Manchester's City Council for workers' families. The plan is to have workers properly housed and eliminate slums.

A similar plan is under way in London, backed by the Prince Wales.

It is pleasant to announce that Mr. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, as head of the government's building program, advocates spending millions in eliminating disease-breeding slums in big American cities.

That will be a "self-liquidating investment" not only because the money will come back, but because it will mean a diminution in disease and infant mortality.

MR. HARVEY BAILEY, of Oklahoma, frequent jailbreaker, accused of kidnaping and murder, was locked up in a Texas jail, and the world was told that he would never escape from jail again.

A photograph showed him with ankles chained together. Then he secured a pistol, through bribery, presumably, kidnaped one of his jailers, and went away in an automobile, taking the kidnaped jailer with him.

He wrecked his stolen automobile, found himself looking into the barrels of three "automatics," surrendered meekly and is back in jail. He said defiantly:

"Well, I got out, didn't I?"

But he did not use his pistol when the three automatics were pointed at him.

A desperado is at his best, usually, when the other man is unarmed.

AN Associated Press report from Copenhagen says Col. Lindbergh plans "to buy a house near Copenhagen in which to live during flying seasons."

Perhaps he has in mind finding a home for his remaining child in a country with a government strong enough to discourage kidnaping. Ours is the only country in the world in which kidnaping, blackmailing, racketeering, gangsterism and bootlegging have all been established as profitable and fairly safe industries.

After losing one child under horrible circumstances, Col. Lindbergh could not be criticized if he decided to find a safe residence for the other child.

Postmaster General Farley cheers the hearts of post office workers by announcing that compulsory furloughs, without pay, will end after September 30th.

This means much to thousands of families, and Postmaster General Farley as well as the letter carriers are to be congratulated.

The biggest store in Louisville, Ky., showed in the first part of August an increase in business of 40 per cent as stated here on the authority of Mr. Clarence M. Woolley.

Now Mr. Ben Mushkin wishes you to know that "J. Bacon & Sons, of Louisville," oldest department store in Kentucky, shows an August increase of 187.6 per cent. Mr. Mushkin is merchandise manager for J. Bacon & Sons.

ROOSEVELT ACTS IN COAL CODE FIGHT

White House Parley To Thrash Out Dispute

By JOHN P. COWAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—President Roosevelt today is taking a hand in the dispute between operators and union representatives in efforts to put the bituminous coal code under the NRA.

The President told newspapermen that after a conference with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, he hoped that steps could be taken toward the establishment of agreement on the check-off and features of the collective bargaining clause in the Recovery Act. He said it would involve the question of dealing with non-union as well as union miners.

The administration has not receded from its position taken two and one-half weeks ago, the President said, and stands by the strict interpretation of section seven of the Recovery Act, which stipulates the plan for collective bargaining. He referred to this clause as "the alpha and omega of the whole thing."

Another meeting between Gen. Johnson and the operators and union representatives was called this morning, but no progress was reported. The entire matter will be laid before the President at a conference tonight, it was stated at the White House.

As the bituminous question was taken up the proposed code for the anthracite coal industry was laid before NRA officials.

The code was presented to Deputy Administrator K. M. Simpson and his associates by W. W. Inglis, president of the Glen Alden Coal Company, of Scranton, Pa., and Albert Jessup, vice president of the G. B. Markle Company, of Hazleton, Pa. Both are members of the code committee of the Anthracite Operators' Association.

Rabbis Order Boycott on Nazi Goods

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—A "charen" ordering Orthodox Jews in the United States and Canada to boycott German goods was approved today by the sixteenth annual convention of the Assembly of Hebrew Orthodox Rabbis.

Under the order, the boycott would be effective until the withdrawal or "repentance" of the Hitler regime in Germany.

The boycott becomes effective today and Orthodox Jews were cautioned against handling anything German, regardless of whether it is to be used for personal purposes or for a profit.

FORD CASE UP TO ROOSEVELT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The administration's policy toward Henry Ford, who has thus far refused to come under the Blue Eagle of the NRA, will be discussed at a conference tonight between President Roosevelt and officials of the recovery administration.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, returned to the capital last night and reported to Mr. Roosevelt this morning he has had no word from the Detroit manufacturer.

Technically, Ford becomes liable to $500 fine for every day he remains outside the wings of the Blue Eagle.

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—A wage revision was in progress today at the Ford Motor Company plant, interpreted generally as part of a plan by Henry Ford to "go the NRA one better," but from another quarter came an indication that Ford and the Blue Eagle might eventually get together.

It was indicated that some 10,000 of the estimated 40,000 Ford workers have received increases from $4 to $4.80 a day.

TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO 14 PROBED

Eye-witness story of fatal train collision and a list of the known dead appear on Page 4.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Arrests may follow the wreck here last night of the Erie Railroad crack flier, Atlantic Express No. 8, in which 14 were killed and nearly 100 injured, 25 of whom were in hospitals today, officials indicated. The number or the names they declined, however, to divulge.

Meanwhile, Coroner Frank J. Hitchcock and Capt. Michael J. Hanifin, of the city police, began to bring in for questioning the members of the crew of the freight engine, whose switching operations forced the passenger train to halt just before it was struck by a fast milk train at the city limits. The Coroner said:

"No blame will be placed anywhere or upon anyone until the inquest."

HURRICANE TOLL 32 DEAD

EDINBURG, Tex., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Thirty-two dead, approximately 1,500 injured and damage estimated at millions of dollars was the known toll exacted by the great tropical hurricane which devastated the prosperous lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas and Mexico Monday night and Tuesday.

Crashing in from the Gulf of Mexico at midnight, the mighty storm spread death and desolation over one of the richest agricultural areas in the United States, and only the fact warnings had been broadcast a week in advance prevented much larger loss of life.

Despite the warnings, fears were expressed the death list would grow as crippled communications made it possible to gather the complete story of the catastrophe.

There were 20 known dead in Brownsville and vicinity, 10 in Harlingen and two in Rio Hondo. Six of the dead in the Brownsville area were accounted for in Matamoros, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville.

Whether the storm snatched additional lives from the many

AMERICANS FLEEING HAVANA

Disorders Spreading Fear on Island Following Coup

International News Service.

HAVANA, Sept. 6.—American residents of Havana took refuge in the National Hotel and prepared for partial evacuation of the island republic today as disorganization and uncertainty followed Cuba's latest revolutionary coup d'etat.

Disorders broke out as the new revolutionary junta strove to reorganize the government.

Two persons were arrested for looting after soldiers had opened fire on them while they were in the act of attempting to pillage a store. There were no casualties.

In an atmosphere of apprehension and tension, knots of Americans gathered in the lobby of the National Hotel, from whose windows the American destroyer MacFarland, one of four warships sent to Cuba by President Roosevelt, was visible.

LEAVE BY PLANES

Pan-American Airways planes leaving Havana were booked to capacity by Americans fearful the new revolutionary junta would be unable to maintain order.

NAVY HEAD RUSHES ON CRUISER

Secretary Swanson to Take Charge in Emergency

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. — (AP.) — President Roosevelt ordered a concention of the warships in Atlantic waters around Cuba today after another canvass of the disorders on the island.

He directed his Secretary of the Navy, Claude Swanson, to proceed directly to aHvana aboard the cruiser Indianapolis.

Meanwhile, more than 1,000 marines were ebing mobilized at the Quantico (Va.) base in readiness in case of danger for foreign life and property that would warrant their presence in Cuba.

Secretary Swanson will sail from Annapolis at 4 o'clock today and will arrive in Havana Friday morning.

Leaving a White House conference on the Cuban situation, Swanson said he would go directly to Havana.

He added he had no specific orders.

It was emphasized at the White House that the President is withholding on intervention as the last step to be taken to restore order.

A spread of the disorders throughout the island to the faraway points of Guantanamo and Santiago is causing the precautionary measures.

The battleship Mississippi was ordered from Norfolk this morning to take a station off of Key West, Fla.

The battleships New Mexico and Wyoming are stationed at Philadelphia and Newport, R. I., respectively, but they have not been ordered to Cuba.

The next step, it was said at the White House, is contingent upon conditions in Cuba. President Roosevelt is watching the situation closely through Secretary Hull and Ambassador Welles at Havana.

Mr. Roosevelt is going to make sure that American lives are protected. It was emphatic that there will be intervention only if it is required.

He went thoroughly over the situation at a lengthy conference with Secretaries Hull and Swanson, Admiral Standley, Assistant Secretary Caffery, of the State Department, and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, of the Navy.

Asked how quickly the Marines could be moved to Cuba, Admiral Standley said that depended on whether they were sent by sea or air.

He said a squadron of planes could put the Marines in Cuba in six hours.

It was indicated the movement out of Quantico would be by train rather than on the slower Transport Henderson.

Secretary Swanson will be accompanied by his aide.

WOMAN LOSES $3,000 GEMS

A three-carat diamond ring, valued at $2,250, and a diamond dinner ring, valued at $750, either fell or was taken from the pocketbook of Mrs. Besse Scholnick of the William Penn Hotel, detectives reported today. The loss occurred in a downtown bank yesterday afternoon, she told detectives.

Her husband, E. A. Scholnick, manager of a downtown restaurant supply business, said she was taking the rings to a jewelry store to have them fixed.

The woman made the report at 10 o'clock last night, detectives said, although the loss was said to have occurred around 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

VERMONT 25TH IN WET PARADE

International News Service.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 6.—The wets in Vermont, in rolling up a 2-to-1 vote to repeal prohibition at the state special election yesterday, had a majority of 20,218, revised final figures from the 248 cities and towns showed.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by the first week in December appeared a certainty today as the vote of Vermont placed a majority of the states on record against national prohibition.

Girl Believed Fleeing With Cash in Plane

A missing 19-year-old Etna girl, suspected of leaving Pittsburgh in an airplane with $800 of her grandfather's money was being sought today by state police.

The girl, Jean Foden, of 19 Ann street, was described by her father, Robert, Foden, as being "crazy about aviation."

The father said he had been informed she had taken a plane at Bettis airport Sunday for an undetermined destination.

She was graduated two years ago from Rankin High School, the father said

State police at Greensburg, notified by the young woman's parents, last night broadcast by radio and teletype a notice to police authorities to apprehend her.

The broadcast stated she had disappeared Sunday "taking $800 belonging to her grandfather."

The girl was reported by relatives to have been seen in Greensburg yesterday, the father stated.

International News Service.

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The seven-point buck deer got himself safely off the high ledge today from which his mate had fallen to her death, and ended the nine days' wonder which brought thousands to the glen.

Early this morning Frank E. Edminster, Jr., animal expert from Cornell, and Frank Haight, superintendent of the park, lowered themselves from the top of the cliff to the highest part of the ledge on which the deer has been imprisoned.

The ledge slopes from the high point at which the deer was discovered, which is about 100 feet above the foot of the canyon, to a narrow spot where it disappears about 20 feet above the stream.

The deer proceeded slowly and sure-footedly to this point and then leaped.

He landed in the stream with a silvery splash, on all fours.

But he was up. And as he trotted upstream with the water flashing from his thin fetlocks and his antlers proudly held high, a cheer went up from the audience of five, which echoed and reverberated against the walls of the canyon.

55 COUNTY SLEUTHS TO EYE TOMORROW'S REGISTRATION

PINCHOT MAY ORDER STATE POLICE HERE

Books Under Suspicion Face Confiscation; 'Big Wigs' Confer

Fifty-five county detectives and county park police have been assigned to the Registration Commission for special duty tomorrow, when the first of three registration days is held in the city. The officers will tour the city in county automobiles and be kept available to answer any emergency call.

Word also was expected here today from Gov. Pinchot on whether State Troopers would be available for registration day duty here. John K. Morrow, secretary of the Pittsburgh Registration Commission, has asked for State Police protection.

A conference was held yesterday, attended by the County Commissioners, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, County Detective Chief George Murren and William E. Rucker, head of the park police.

Murren and Park offered 25 detectives, and 30 park police will be available. It is planned to have 10 automobiles containing the police patrol the organization wards. Each car will contain three county police, a county detective and one investigator of the commission.

In addition to the patrols, the remainder of the police officers will be available at the Courthouse for emergency calls. If any state police are sent into the city they will augment the 55 detectives and park officers.

In addition to watching for any disturbance during the day, it is likely that the "special squads" will be utilized to bring in the registration books from suspected districts after the registration hours have passed. The books will be "confiscated" and taken directly to the offices of the registration commission to prevent any "after hours" paddi-

MASTER CODE FOR RETAILERS PUSHED

Price Control Pact May Complete Plan This Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Industrial codes reaching millions of workers in the retail and construction trades forged through NRA's machinery today as Hugh S. Johnson bundled up vital Blue Eagle achievements and problems for President Roosevelt's examination.

Encouraging were advances made in formulating charters for the retail and construction industries. Johnson's approval was needed on a price control proposal which drafters hoped would conclude a master retail code this week. The public hearing stage was reached on a single code for nine of the construction industry's most important divisions.

Awaiting Johnson's attention, and perhaps the President's, too, was the work of realigning the NRA organization for the administrative and enforcement phases of its work. These duties assumed a new importance at the close of the intensive Blue Eagle drive on Labor Day.

Threading through more than a score of recommended codes was a labor problem whose ultimate solution apparently must come from the President. It was the question raised when a provision was written into the automobile code saying employers may hire, fire or promote on merit regardless of union affiliations.

This language was assaulted vigorously by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He promised to seek its elimination and fight its inclusion in any other agreement.

Johnson, who approved the provision before the automobile code was signed by President Roosevelt, has said since he may seek an interpretation of the recovery law on this point from Attorney General Cummings.

International News Service.

BEACON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Failing to subdue four rebellious inmates with tear gas after they barricaded themselves in an isolated room, state troopers today shot and killed one of the rioters and seriously wounded another as the climax to a four-hour battle following a futile attempt by the quartet to flee the Mattewan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane here.

The dead man was Raymond Fisher, of Buffalo, sentenced to the institution on a robbery charge. Shelly Marshall, New York City, committed on a similar charge, was wounded in both legs and said to be in a serious condition.

The shooting followed a battle in which the four rebellious prisoners battled police and deputy sheriffs with chairs and broken furniture after withstanding a barrage of tear gas bombs.

Fisher and Marshall, together with James Ellis, Brooklyn, and Reinhardt Volz, New York City, made a bid for freedom early this morning when they attacked Thomas Diamond and Wellington Wolfe, guards at the hospital, as the latter made their final inspection round of the wards.

Wolfe and Diamond were severely beaten but their cries brought other guards to their aid. The four prisoners fled to an isolated room and barricaded themselves.

RIVAL ASSAILS EXPENDITURES OF CORONER

Dr. Marino Charges Benefit Tickets Purchased

A challenge to Coroner W. J. McGregor to explain expenditures charged against his office, was issued by Dr. Vincent L. Marino, Democratic candidate for Coroner, in a speech at Baxter Junior High School, last night. Marino said:

"The County Controller's records show the amount of cash turned over by the Coroner, but the amount falls far short of the sum collected. The expenditures charged against these collections, according to my information, demand explanation."

DECLINES COMMENT

Coroner McGregor said he had no comment on Marino's charges. Yesterday the Coroner in a statement said some of the audited records of his office had been mutilated in the moving of the Morgue Building several years ago and subsequently destroyed, also that his books had been audited regularly by the County Controller and he had no knowledge of any irregularities.

Marino proceeded to question:

"Why charge $80 for a Barney Dreyfuss banquet, $15 for a Wexford outing, $12 for cigars, $17.60 to James A. Freyvogel for tickets? Why ask the county to pay $40 to Rising and Radcliff for cards, $49.50 to the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, and sums for Mooseheart, Dokey Circus, and railroad time card advertising?"

ASSAILS OUTLAYS

Marino also said the records showed:

"Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell getting $20 from the Coroner for tickets. I doubt if Mr. Mackrell's tickets were much help to Dr. McGregor in his duties."

Among a long list of alleged expenditures, Marino cited:

"In 1922, September 30, $37.50 for a history of Pittsburgh; July 17, $75 loan to W. J. McGregor.

"In 1923, August 1, James E. Carroll, auto hire expense, $30; August 7, to J. J. Gillespie, picture for Republican headquarters, $10.50.

Marino said a custom existed of purchasing tickets for political affairs from office money, charging individual members of the office for their tickets, and then reimbursing the general fund. An unpaid balance, he claimed, often stood against fees collected.

MONTOUR WORK AGAIN HALTED

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Work was halted today on the much-litigated but almost completed Montour Railroad by a temporary injunction granted in Cleveland by Federal Judge Samuel H. West.

Judge West granted the restraining order late last night at the request of the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads which have been fighting the attempt of the Pittsburgh Coal Company to build the 13-mile road from Negley, O., to Smith's Ferry, Pa., ever since work was started many months ago.

He set September 13 as the date for a hearing on the temporary injunction and sent the United States marshal to Negley to post notices halting work this morning. Approximately 200 men reported for work at 8 a. m., but made no effort to lift a shovel or swing a pick after reading the notices.

All but the last quarter-mile of the 13-mile railroad has been completed and a freight train was operated last night between Negley and the coal company's loading docks on Beaver Creek, presumably to prepare for the showdown fight in the courts at Beaver, Pa., and Cleveland, O.

NRA Mediation Board Being Speeded Here

U. S. Organization Chief Due In City Today

Organization of an NRA mediation board in Pittsburgh was expected to proceed today with the arrival here during the day of Eric Palmer, organization director of the National Recovery Administration.

Palmer telegraphed Frank C. Harper, general secretary of the local recovery organization, he would be in Pittsburgh today and that the national organization will shortly send Sherman Rogers, Thomas Dixon and Deloss Walker, of the NRA's speaker staff, to further the Blue Eagle's cause in the Pittsburgh district.

Announcing action on the mediation board, Herper stressed the fact that most of the complaints of code violations and failure to come under the codes can be ironed out if the employer is talked to and shown how he can comply without ruining his business.

FAIL TO UNDERSTAND

A majority of non-code signers are holding out, he said, because they do not understand their remedy under paragraph 14 of the President's agreement, which provides that if compliance with the code would work a grevious hardship upon them because of exceptional circumstances in their particular case, they will be granted relief.

It is not the President's plan to put anybody out of business if complying with the agreement will have that result, according to a letter to the local NRA body from Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the Blue Eagle Division at Washington.

LETTER EXPLAINS

Gen. Hammond explained the purpose of the mediation board as follows:

"All complaints against either consumers or employers are to be registered with the local mediation boards. It is the duty of these boards to induce compliance by education, conciliation and mediation as far as possible. If after a thorough investigation of the facts by the local boards a clear-cut case of wilful violation is reported to Washington and no satisfactory settlement may be obtained by further mediation, the federal government will act."

'OIL CABINET' SPURS WORK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Secretary Ickes' "oil cabinet" today plunged anew into the job of organizing the petroleum industry to carry out its code of competition.

The planning and co-ordinating committee as set up by the code has yet to select its permanent chairman and to appoint the many minor committees which are to control this industry.

Raises in crude prices announced by various companies brought no official comment from the oil executives, but some of them remarked privately that the increases were normal and expected, and intimated further rises were likely.

There were reports of the formation of a special technical board to aid both the oil cabinet and the administrative efforts of Secretary Ickes. Besides this, there are authorized in the code statistical, production, refinery, marketing, accounting, labor, adjustment and transportation committees.

It was held possible this set-up might be changed, as the code is subject to alteration.

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The death toll of the recent typhoon in Southern Korea and Western Japan mounted today to 49, of whom 21 yere young athletes, en route to a track meet, who drowned when the motorboat in which they were crossing Lake Hachiro, near Akita, capsized in the high wind.

Few Houses Stand After Tropic Gale

NASSSAU, Bahamas, Sept. 6.—(INS.)—Only 12 of 180 houses of Ragged Island were left standing after last week's terrific hurricane, it was revealed today as first reports reached here. The island's salt ponds, representing its staple industry, were ruined.

MOROS, POLICE CLASH, 19 DIE

MANILA, Sept. 6. — (AP.) — Nineteen men were killed in a battle between the Philippine Constabulary and a band of outlaw Moros on the jungle-covered island of Jolo, a dispatch to constabulary headquarters here today said.

The report said a constabulary patrol led by Lieut. Juliof Barbajeran encountered a band of outlaws headed by Mahamud Kawasan.

In the fighting both Barbajeran and Kawasan were slain. Six enlisted men and 11 Mohammedan warriors were also killed. Two constabulary lieutenants and five men were wounded.

Jolo, inhabited by the fierce Moro tribesmen, has been the scene of frequent clashes between the insular police and outlaws.

WORK TO START ON BRIDGE SOON

Reconstruction of the Smithfield Street Bridge will start September 29 and will require less than a month, according to the City Public Works Department. Street cars will continue to use the bridge after tracks have been shifted to the center, but other heavy traffic will be diverted to the Point Bridge.

An innovation in bridge work, aluminum alloy, will be used in girders and beams instead of steel. The lighter material will reduce the load on the bridge and lengthen its life, engineers believe. Walter S. Rae is the contractor at his bid of $274,436 awarded July 15.

PITTSBURGHER FILM WINNER

A Pittsburgher has been notified that he is the winner in the Atlantic States district of the Warner Brothers-Paramount "Search for Beauty" contest. He is William John O'Dell, 22, of 4603 Carlton street, Lawrenceville.

Young O'Dell won the finals of the contest in this district, being selected as the winner from a finals list of 26. At his home today, he said:

"I always had it in mind to go to Hollywood and try to break into the movies."

He is a graduate of Schenley High School and attended Carnegie Tech as a dramatic student for a year. And, girls, he admits he has a sweetheart.

In company with other winners of the international competition, O'Dell will go to Hollywood the last of this month with all his expenses paid. There, he will have a part in a picture which will include all the contest winners, 15 men and 15 girls.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 6.—Franklin will vote on the retail sale of beer. A petition signed by more than 400 voters has been filed, asking County Commissioners to include the referendum on the November ballot.

BANKERS FIGHT U. S. GUARANTY

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The American Bankers' Association expressed its opposition to the federal guaranty of bank deposits today in a resolution asking the national administration to create a commission to draft new banking legislation immediately.

Under the act of 1933, the government has undertaken to insure deposits of $2,500 or less after January 1, 1934.

The resolution, sponsored by the national banking division of the association and adopted by the full convention, pointed out that there still remained time for a commission to study the guaranty act before it became effective.

Nazi Dogma Now Law Of German Church

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The Nazi dogma today is church law in Prussia as Nazi German Christians attending the general synod last night pushed through 20 motions, including one barring non-Aryans or persons marrying non-Aryans from the pulpit and from church offices.

Previously two speakers had represented Chancellor Adolf Hitler as never considering interference with the church life of his country and as desiring that "Germans shall become Godly people."

The synod of the old Prussian Landeskirche was called to discuss various church questions arising from the predominance of the German Christians and to choose delegates to a national synod who will name a Protestant reichsbishop and select the supreme leadership of the church.

The German Christians have been predominant since last July's election in which they won a sweeping victory.

"It is obvious brotherly cooperation is not wanted here, but only the ruthless use of force. The methods of the world are being carried into the church."

Uncle Sam Refuses Help In Beauty Price Row

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Uncle Sam and Aunt Columbia are not concerned over local price-fixing arrangements of hairdressers and beauticians.

Sam says he willingly will pay more for a manicure if the shoppe is attractive and the operator is one of those bewitchingly beautiful baby-faced blondes. And Columbia won't haggle over the price if her permanent stays put.

KEEPS OUT OF FIGHT

All this means that J. W. Power, deputy NRA administrator, in charge of codes for cosmetic manufacturers and beauty parlors, will take no hand in the dispute between groups of hairdressers in Pittsburgh.

Yesterday he received a long telegram from the Pennsylvania Hairdressers' Association and said that he would answer it in the same vein as his recent letter to Attorney Louis Little, counsel for another body of hairdressers.

EXPLAINS U. S. STAND

Power said:

"The government can take no part in a price squabble. If one shop charges a higher price and gives service accordingly, that is no concern of the NRA. If wages are maintained at the required standard and the hours of labor are proper, the question of fair competition will work out to our satisfaction."

HELEN GRIMES, FISHER LAUD CAMPAIGN

Many Businessmen Also Indorse Plan Boosting NRA

Joining forces with business men, labor leaders and civic organization heads, the women's division of the local Recovery Campaign Committee is carrying on a campaign to promote buying in September to implement the women's consumers' pledge drive.

Miss Helen Grimes, chairman of the speakers' committee of the women's division, yesterday urged support of the movement sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers to create jobs by buying now from merchants under the Blue Eagle.

In an address over station KDKA, Miss Grimes said, in part:

"This is your duty to do your part for NRA. It is your day to demonstrate your patriotism by buying from those stores that fly the Blue Eagle and to help the merchants to make more jobs.

"We do not consider this movement so much a battle with depression as it is a gay adventure, an uplift from the depths of doubt and depression to a sure place on the heights of belief and understanding."

FISHER'S INDORSEMENT

Former Gov. John S. Fisher indorsed the "Spend in September movement. He said:

"The NRA campaign in the Pittsburgh district has met with almost unanimous acceptance by the employers of labor. We have been singularly free from labor disturbances that have interfered with the NRA in other districts.

"This shows that labor is doing its part to make the campaign a success.

"The money problem can be solved in several ways, notably by speeding up business transactions which will put money into rapid circulation, or by use of the inflationary powers of the Federal Reserve to increase the volume of currency by loosening up the vast volume of bank resources now frozen in closed, restricted and even going banks."

WEIR O. K.'S PLAN

E. T. Weir, chairman of the board, National Steel Corporation:

"I think it is a good movement and hope it succeeds. If we stimulate buying we still stimulate employment. The only possible way of getting people back to work is through increasing production."

Edward J. Leonard, business agent of the International Plasterers' Union No. 31, said:

"We need a movement of this kind. If buying power can be increased, it will be a good thing for labor. Our union will readily back any movement of this kind."

A. L. Humphrey, executive director of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, contended:

"It is entirely a new movement, and I have great confidence in it. It is the duty of every patriotic American to go along with the President."

FAVORS CAMPAIGN

J. C. Klein, president of Klein-Logan Company, said:

"The tool business is a seasonal one, and it would be rather hard to get the people to buy tools in September. However, I favor such a movement and feel that it will eventually help all business."

W. H. Jackson, president of the Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel Company, commented:

"Why not all spend just as long as we have the money? Let's help employment."

Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, said:

"Clearly the part of the general public in the national recovery days is to buy so as to help complete the cycle of employment, production and distribution. Obviously unless distribution is provided for goods as made, it will be impossible to continue production and, therefore, employment for any considerable period."

W. F. Esenwein, of Esenwein and Sutter, merchandise brokers, stated:

"I think the Buy in September drive is a good thing. The more money we get moving the better it will be for everybody."

WIFE AND CLAIRE TO TESTIFY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—After leading off with the star witness of the defense, blonde Claire Windsor, the prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Marion Read's $100,000 love theft suit against the actress indicated the plaintiff may take the stand on resumption of the case late today.

The trial, recessed last Friday for an extended period to permit lawyers to attend to other affairs, began a week ago and Mrs. Read's counsel provided a sensation at the start by calling Miss Windsor.

After she had testified to an asserted romance with Albert C. Read, Jr., former Oakland broker, the prosecution began introduction of a series of love letters exchanged between the actress and Read.

Miss Windsor may be called in connection with some of them.

No inkling has been provided of the story Mrs. Read will tell.

During the four-day recess, Read, who met Miss Windsor on a transcontinental train trip and wooed her, so the actress testified, on a "gorgeous night" scurried about locating more witnesses.

Upon his return here yesterday he said he had found three who would appear on behalf of Miss Windsor, one being a striking brunette, Miss Clarisse Champion, San Francisco, his former secretary.

U. S. MOBILIZES BIG SALES ARMY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—A huge sales army to "invade" 10,000 communities September 20 was being quietly mobilized today for the buying campaign of National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

The campaign is to convince consumers they can help bring prosperity and save money by buying now and is patterned on the historic public drives of World War days.

NRA officials believe it will not only help business finance the higher costs of the codes of fair competition, but will clear merchants' shelves and make room for new stock.

NUDE SHOW GIRL DIVES TO DEATH

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—A party girl who grew tired of living early today brought death and tragedy to a hilarious yachting party a mile off Belmont Harbor.

The girl, Clara Moore, 24, a red-haired entertainer of Cleveland, was helping entertain tired businessmen and visiting salesmen on the cruiser Pal O' Mine when she suddenly divested herself of clothing and leaped into the lake. Her body was not found.

Albert E. Gundelach, a firm member of the Auditone Company, who was in charge of the 42-foot cruiser, told this story to Capt. John O. Anderson at the Central Coast Guard Station:

"About 12:30 a. m. this Moore girl, who was entirely sober, suddenly went goofy and began dancing around the deck and getting mad. She pulled off one piece of clothing after another and when she was entirely unclad she shouted: 'I'm tired of everything. This is my last night on earth—who in the hell cares!'

"Before we could stop her she ran screaming to the side and dived into the lake."

Weather Conditions.

The two tropical storms are still quite active. The Florida storm curved northward into Georgia, and is now over Central Georgia. The lowest barometer reported is 29.68 inches, at Macon. The storm produced 8.58 inches of rain at Tampa, 3.52 inches at Jacksonville and at Savannah 6.56 inches fell in the last 24 hours. The highest wind velocity Jacksonville was 40 miles an hour yesterday. The Texas storm is still in the Rio Grande valley. No report has been received from Brownsville since yesterday morning. Temperature changes were towards cooler over the eastern states and towards warmer over the plains states. Intensely hot weather occurred in South Dakota yesterday. The highest temperature reported was 106 degrees at Huron. Temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred over the central plains and eastward over Illinois. High pressure covers the Middle Atlantic states and westward over the Ohio valley, and another high appears in the Canadian Northwest. A low is centered over the Upper Mississippi valley.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are now falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.3 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 14.2; Pittsburgh, 12.4; Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 9.4; No. 10, 10.2; No. 12, 9.9. The dams are up. The crest stage at Pittsburgh was 12.5 feet at 6 p. m. yesterday.

U. S. AND POLISH BAGS IN AIR

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(INS.)—Whereabouts of two of the six balloons which took off from Curtiss Field here Saturday in the international James Gordon Bennett races remained unknown today.

The two bags are the American entry, Goodyear IX, piloted by Ward T. Van Orman, and the Polish entry manned by Pilot Francizek Hynek and Lieut. Zbigniew Burgzynski.

One unidentified balloon was reported to have passed over Manitoulin Island, near Gore Bay, Canada, late yesterday. Still another was sighted last night over Ottawa, Ontario.

Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle, who piloted his Navy entrant 800 miles from the starting point before landing near Branford, Conn., was conceded by officials to have an outside chance of winning the race.

The mileage negotiated by Settle was described by officials as "exceptionally good in view of prevailing sluggish winds." Settle brought his balloon down last night.

WIFE DIVORCES MATE TWICE

Mary Snyder Reineman, 24, of 615½ North Braddock avenue, was granted a divorce today from Howard M. Reineman by Judge John P. Egan. It was her second divorce from the same man.

At a hearing recently, she testified her husband was a man of high temper and that he struck her and called her vile names. On one occasion, she said Reineman demanded she get some clothing for him while she was taking a bath, and struck her in the face, breaking her nose, when she refused.

The Reinemans were first divorced in June, 1931, and were remarried July 16, 1931. Reineman was a claim agent for the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

CONVICT LOSES BEAUTY'S LOVE

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—Mamita Coleman Hayes, beautiful and exotic New York and London dancer, today had instructed an attorney to draw up a complaint to divorce handsome young Herbert Formes, now serving a term in San Quentin prison for robbery.

Miss Hayes will charge that Formes has "changed" since he went to prison and is "indifferent in his attitude" in his letters to her.

The couple was married in the county jail here last October, after Formes was sentenced. Miss Hayes then said:

"He's my man and I'll love him forever."

A few days later she attempted to commit suicide.

Today she said:

"He's in for at least five years—and five years is a long time."

ORPHAN ELATED AT RETURN TO BOYS' HOME

'Alger Story' Boy Says He Tried to Please Rich Couple

OMAHA, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Back "home" and glad to be there, Peter Christopolus hopes to find in school books a solution to his present bewildered state.

Peter has resumed class work at Father Flanagan's boys' home here instead of being enrolled in a military school as his prospective foster-father, wealthy Jear. Strengs, of Paterson, N. J., had planned.

The 14-year-old orphan, who entered the Strengs home two months ago for a trial adoption period, today awaited eagerly the return of Rev. Edward Flanagan, director of the home, from Paterson. Father Flanagan arrived in the East to learn how the trial period was progressing shortly after Strengs had dispatched the boy back to Omaha.

DID BEST HE COULD

Peter said:

"I'm sorry it didn't work. It might have meant a lot. But it's all over now. I did the best I could.

"I liked Mrs. Strengs and their daughter, Jeanne, and I wanted Mr. Strengs to like me. I wanted all of them to like me."

From Paterson, Strengs was quoted as saying the Omaha boy, an orphan since he was three, was arrogant and disobedient, and not like their own son, drowned last year, whose place in the household Peter was supposed to fill. But Peter believes Strengs expected the impossible, and officials of the local home expressed belief that the boy was not given adequate opportunity to adjust himself.

CONDUCT GOOD

Since returning to Omaha a week ago, Peter has resumed his school and office work. Officials described his conduct as exemplary.

The boy said today:

"They thought I could be like Henry right away and I couldn't.

"Mr. Strengs said I wasn't nice to Jeanne. I thought I was. I paid more attention to her than anybody else. I wasn't arrogant. I didn't have anything to be arrogant about."

STAIR TESTIFIES IN BANK PROBE

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—E. D. Stair, publisher of the Detroit Free Press and former president of the Detroit Bankers' Company, went before the one-man jury investigating bank closings today to declare that had the closed First National Bank-Detroit continued in business it would have earned between seven and eight million dollars this year.

Stair, who was bitterly criticized by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin in recent testimony before the jury, testified that at no time prior to the state bank holiday, February 14, was there ever any mention by officers of the First National or by federal agents that the bank was insolvent.

The Bankers Company, of which Stair was president, was the holding company for the First National, the Detroit Trust Company and other banks.

Donald N. Sweeny, former president of the First aNtional, testified that reports made by federal examiners to directors of the bank did not place the institution in such a bad plight as did reports made by examiners to the Comptroller of the Currency.

LAMSON AIDED IN 'TUB' TRIAL BY SISTER

Physician Denies He Cried 'Why Did I Ever Marry Her'

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—An expression of hope came back to David A. Lamson's face today as his attorneys drew upon their string of witnesses for more testimony, fashioned to offset the state's circumstantial case against him in his trial on charges of murdering his attractive wife, Allene.

Downcast and silent several days while the state produced a long series of witnesses and a collection of bloody exhibits in attempting to prove he beat his wife to death with an iron pipe because of domestic discord, Lamson cheered up yesterday.

LAMSON CHEERFUL

He seemed markedly cheerful as his attorneys announced they would call a succession of character witnesses today. The defense intimated it might call Lamson himself if the case progressed fast enough.

Foremost among those coming to his assistance yesterday was Dr. Margaret Lamson, his sister, who was among several witnesses to contradict or discount the testimony of a prosecution witness that Lamson sat in the patio of his home last May 30, while the body of his wife was being moved to the morgue, and exclaimed:

"Why did I ever marry her?"

Maurice Rankin, defense attorney, asked:

"Did Dave say 'My God! Why did I ever marry her?'"

"No. His only words were: 'She never hurt anybody—she never hurt anything.'"

DEFENSE BALKED

Efforts of the defense to bring in testimony about trays containing dishes and food found in the kitchen failed under a barrage of prosecution objections. The defense had sought this testimony from W. H. Mason, San Francisco newspaperman, and others, as support for Lamson's story his wife was not feeling well early on the morning of the tragic day and that he arose and prepared a light lunch for her.

Mrs. Brown, one of the first persons to arrive at the scene after Lamson appeared at the front door of his home and cried that his wife had been murdered, said she entered the house and heard Lamson in the bathroom calling:

"Allene! Allene! Speak to me!"

She said Lamson fainted later and she revived him by bathing his face before he went into the patio and joined Dr. Lamson. Mrs. Brown said she heard no remarks from Lamson such as the state witness, Deputy Sheriff John Moore, reported. She said she could recall neither seeing Moore in the patio nor seeing Dr. Lamson and Dr. Johnson conferring in the patio apart from the others

NORMAN DAVIS SEES SIMON

LONDON, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—American Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis today discussed the general phases of the disarmament problem with Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon.

Sources close to Ambassador Davis disclosed that he anticipates the nations will raise no serious objections to the French plan of supervision of armaments provided it is linked with a real arms reduction agreement.

Following his conference with the Foreign Secretary, Ambassador Davis lunched with United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham. He expects to rest for the next few days awaiting the return of Premier MacDonald from Scotland.

It was learned at the Davis headquarters that United States support of the supervision scheme will be maintained only if extensive reduction of weapons is assured at the end of the supervision period.

Bachelor Troops Guard 31 Bathing Beauties

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 6.—They called out the troops today to guard the 31 beauties entered in the reborn Atlantic City beauty contest.

Thirty-one lucky members of the Morris Guards, the local equivalent of the Richmond Blues, were officially assigned to escort the girls competing for the title of Miss America, the bathing queen.

Only bachelor members of the crack military troop were selected for the delicate job. They added to the prettiness of the occasion, with their blue coats and blue striped trousers.

The youthful soldiers, however, have rivals in the motorcycle policemen who accompany the beauties in their public sorties.

Today, the alleged cream of American pulchritude will meet the judges who will ultimately put the finger of fame on one of them. There has been much hush-a-by about the identity of the judges, said to be well-known artists.

There have been only minor casualties among the beauties. Three of the bathing girls went too near the water and are suffering from colds.

Several of them lost their baggage, including Gertrude Christman, Mis New Jersey. Gertrude has only three evening gowns with her, as a result, and feels she is at a disadvantage.

There wil lbe a fashion review tonight followed by the American Beauty Ball. Gov. A. Harry Moore and other high state officials are scheduled to be present.

ARRESTS LOOM IN TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO 14

Graves, of Hornell, division superintendent of the railroad. At the railroad's offices, in the absence of Mr. Graves, it was said that "no one here has authority to talk."

PROBERS ON WAY

Thus far no official statement has been issued by any person in an executive capacity with the company. One representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Joseph Bromley, of Binghamton, arrived this morning from Syracuse where he had been on official business and then immediately was ordered into Pennsylvania for an investigation there. Word was received here, however, that another Interstate Commerce Commission investigator had been directed to come here from Washington, and a fellow investigator at Elmira received similar orders.

Train's Markers Visible For Mile, Says Official

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Vice President R. E. Woodruff, of the Erie Railroad, said the engineer of the milk train which ploughed last night into a waiting passenger flyer near Binghamton, N. Y., was aware that he did not have a clear track. Fourteen persons were killed in the wreck.

Woodruff, who is in charge of Erie operations, made the statement today after a preliminary investigation of the accident.

The statement of the Erie vice president appeared to contradict quoted informal statements by Engineer M. H. King, of Elmira, N. Y., that he "didn't see the signal light in time to stop." Woodruff said:

"Investigation discloses that the milk train had stopped behind the passenger train at Binghamton station, and after departing from that point had passed two signals indicating trains ahead. Both these signals are in automatic train control territory and are so equipped that the engineer, before passing, has to acknowledge them, which indicates that he was aware that the track ahead was not clear.

"The rear marker lights on the standing passenger train could be seen for a mile. The flagman of the passenger train was out and flagging. The air brakes on the milk train were in good working order.

"The engineer of the milk train has admitted seeing the signals of the standing passenger train, and the flagman of the passenger train, and cannot explain the accident.

Walker's Nephew Accused by Girl

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(INS.)—William Walker, Jr., 29, nephew of former Mayor James J. Walker, was held today on charges of felonious assault brought by Margaret Shore, 24, a night club entertainer.

According to the District Attorney's office, Miss Shore was taken to a hospital on August 23 for an operation following a reported drinking party at an uptown hotel.

Eye-Witnesses Tell of Train Crash

Car Tossed Into Air Like Paper; Terror Reigns

International News Service.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Mothers hunting for children in the twisted steel—

The screams of the dying—

The terror of passengers, breaking windows, imploring for help—

This was pictured for Binghamton police today by survivors of the wrecked Erie express, whose two rear cars were telescoped into a shapeless mass in a rear-end collision with a heavy freight train.

An eye-witness passenger in the last car told this story:

"Our train pulled up slowly and stopped at the Binghamton city line. It was dark. I looked out of the window and saw two red lanterns swing down the track. Flagmen, I guess. Suddenly, there was a loud screech, followed by a terrific explosion.

CAR TOSSED LIKE PAPER

"Our car went into the air, as if it were a piece of paper caught in a gale, and crushed into the next one. Wood, steel and earth poured down all about me. I was tossed halfway out of the window. Somehow, I didn't get hurt. Dazed, I drew myself back and slid to the floor. I looked around.

"I couldn't see very far. It was dark. Near me I heard a baby crying. I climbed over a seat to get to it. But then a woman—she was laughing and crying—grabbed the baby and crawled out of a window. In the aisles were about 50 people. Some of them were still; they were dead. Others, unable to walk, tried to crawl to the door.

AXES TO RESCUE

"Soon the car became full of yellow smoke. It choked me and made everything hazy. I heard axes breaking windows, men and women shouted, calling for friends and children. Sometimes there was an answer.

"Finally, two men grabbed hold of me and hauled me out to the tracks."

Another passenger, Muriel Goldman, of the Bronx, who was in the second coach ahead of those wrecked, told police:

"After the crash our car filled with smoke that smelled like sulphur. It made me dizzy and I couldn't get up from my seat. The people of our coach became hysterical. Women fainted and children began to scream. Some of them dashed for the cars behind us, screaming to their children.

"Then men with axes and crowbars broke the windows and the smoke began to drift out. It settled over the train like a cloud. I think I fainted, for the next thing I knew a doctor was holding smelling salts under my nose."

INJURED GIRL HEROINE

Dorothy Terboss, 18, of Susquehanna, Pa., who was pinned beneath the collapsed seats of one of the coaches, heroically implored rescuers to ignore her and save others in the coach.

She lapsed into a coma before the arrival of an ambulance. At the hospital it was found that she had sustained several broken ribs and possible internal injuries.

Death Parts Kin; Heroism Mingles With Tragedy

KNOWN DEAD IN WRECK

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The list of known dead in the collision of two Erie Railroad trains here last night follows:

LANNON, HARRY, 38, Washington street, Susquehanna, Pa., employed in engineering department of Erie at Hornell, crushed chest.

BURNS, DONALD, Washington street, Susquehanna, employed in Erie coach shop, fractured neck.

MUSE, MURIEL, 13, her daughter.

VAVROZSKI, R., 820 Eckford street, Brooklyn, fractured skull.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

RUM CONTROL, TAXES TO VEX ASSEMBLY

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Faced by a shaky financial setup, the task of controlling hard liquor when, and if, it returns, and numerous other grave problems, Pennsylvania today prepared for another gathering of the General Assembly in November—the third extraordinary session of the current Pinchot administration.

Persons close to the administration today admitted the inevitable session is to be called shortly after the fall election and that approximately a dozen "important subjects" will be included in the proclamation.

With 25 states already flying the "wet" banner, repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment before Christmas is regarded as a virtual certainty, and Pennsylvania must prepare accordingly. Opinion differs as to what effect repeal will have on existing state laws. Because of this, the Governor will demand regulation and taxation legislation before repeal actually is achieved.

RELIEF FUNDS NEEDED

Continuation of relief work in this state hinges on the approval of a $25,000,000 bond issue by the voters in November. If this proposal is defeated, existing relief funds will be exhausted before the first of the year.

Because the NRA sent approximately 15,000 additional boys and girls back to the classrooms this fall, state aid appropriations for schools will be far from sufficient during the biennium. Even before the NRA edict, Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, estimated $5,000,000 more should have been granted educational institutions. Now he warns that thousands of students will be deprived of their constitutional right to continue their education unless the state provides more financial aid.

Renewing his campaign to "take the farmer out of the mud," the chief executive, friends claim, is prepared to make a final attempt to have 53,000 miles of rural roads transferred to the state highway system. During the recent session he was successful in having the state finance the maintenance of these only for a two-year period.

TREASURY SHORTAGE

State Treasurer Charles A. Waters recently called attention to the deplorable condition of the treasury. Unless extraordinary revenues are obtained, he predicted the state would be "in the red" shortly. Because the budget is balanced, this condition is more or less temporary, and not alarming, but at least worthy of consideration.

Other subjects in which Gov. Pinchot has displayed keen interest in the past are old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, child labor laws, minimum wage and maximum working hour legislation.

CHILD JOB LAW LAXITY DENIED

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Miss Charlotte E. Carr, secretary of labor and industry, termed as "extremely silly" charges that the department permitted child labor law violations to continue without proper check during the legislative "sweatshop" committee hearings this year.

In a letter yesterday to Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Philadelphia attorney who represented manufacturers at the public hearings, Miss Carr said data compiled by the department showed "more prosecutions under the labor laws in 1932 than ever before." She continued:

"In fact, prosecutions for all violations of the labor laws in 1932 were 53.9 per cent greater than in 1931 and 72.3 per cent greater than the next highest, year, 1926.

"The fact is there has been a steadily increasing number of prosecutions in the last six years. The trend of prosecutions for violation of laws regulating the employment of women and minors have been upward since 1926, and the rate of prosecutions for these violations during the first six months of 1933 has been higher than in any preceding year."

Arizona Delegates Quaff 3.2 While Voting Repeal

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—While delegates to the convention drank beer and clanked the empty bottles to merry tunes, Arizona formally ratified the proposed repeal of national prohibition yesterday.

The state's 14 "wet" delegates, elected last August 8, consumed 12 cases of beer—with the help of visitors—while casting the unanimous vote for repeal.

15 ANTI-REPEAL NAMES FILED

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—(INS.)—Organized drys in Pennsylvania today filed petitions with the Secretary of the Commonwealth in behalf of 15 candidates for election on November 7 as delegates to the convention which will determine the state's action on proposed repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Eleven petitions, each bearing about 3,000 names, were filed from these congressional districts: Tenth, Twenty-third, Nineteenth, Eighth, Eleventh, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-ninth, Twentieth, Twenty-eighth, Twelfth and Eighteenth.

The candidates named were John A. McSparran, state secretary of agriculture; Ralph E. Weeks, Scranton; J. Horace McFarland, Harrisburg; D. Glenn Moore, Washington; J. Audley Boak, New Castle; E. H. Bonsall, Jr., Philadelphia; B. A. McGarvey, Williamsport; J. Henry Morgan, Carlisle; Francis Taylor, Cheltenham; Minnie K. Karnell, Philadelphia; Archie E. Druggers, Kittanning; Charles C. Ellis, Huntingdon; Robert A. Hutchinson, Pittsburgh, and Henry K. Ober, Elizabethtown.

State Beer Tax Yield Increasing

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Legal 3.2 beer and wine continues to pour revenue into the State Treasury. The tax yield for last month was $524,727, an amount exceeded only by the June total of $540,465.

The tax was planned to produce $10,000,000 during the next two years to finance state aid to unemployment. But since it became effective May 5, the tax has produced revenue at the rate of $12,000,000 for the two years.

State Dry Forces File First Petitions

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The united dry forces of Pennsylvania today filed their first nominating petitions bearing 30,000 signatures indorsing the 15 anti-repeal candidates for delegate to the state convention to vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

THRONG GREETS MACKRELL IN EAST END

Before an audience of nearly 1,000, filling the ground floor of the auditorium of Peabody High School, North Highland avenue, the Progressive Republican ticket opened its heavy artillery on the East End wards last night.

Chief in a long list of speakers was Joseph N. Mackrell, candidate for Republican nomination for mayor. Mackrell declared:

"As we enter the home stretch in the primary race, I remain the only candidate denied the Mellon-Grundy-Coyne support. Looking over previous campaigns, I feel at home."

SMITH APPLAUDED

After Mackrell, the most generous applause of the evening greeted Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, who said:

"The Senator from the Fourth Ward says he's going to take me off the bench. I don't think he can do it."

Smith, as well as other judicial candidates, Judge Frank A. Piekarski, for County Court, and Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, for Common Pleas Court, stressed the importance of the bench as a guardianship of the people's rights.

Attorney H. P. Eberharter urged the candidacy of Mrs. Lois McBride for Juvenile Court on the basis of her record and understanding of children. Assistant District Attorney E. T. Adair spoke for Judge Harry H. Rowand, candidate for Common Pleas Court.

Councilman Candidates Edward M. Hough, Hugh F'fl McKnight and Joseph Stack also spoke.

Mackrell and candidates on his ticket will speak tonight at Morse School, Twenty-fifth and Sarah streets; Brookline School, Pioneer and Woodburn avenues, and St. James' School, South Main and Sanctus streets.

Don't Bolt, Woodside Urges Republicans

Asserting it was not necessary to become a Democrat to support the policies of President Roosevelt, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, chairman of the campaign for Joseph N. Mackrell for Mayor, urged Republican voters not to bolt their party, in a statement today.

An outstanding issue of the campaign was, he said, to make the Republican party representative of the people and rid it of political profiteers.

He offered the program of the Progressive Republican party, headed by Mackrell, as embodying this opportunity for rehabilitation, striking at Democrats' claims to offer the only salvation for the city.

Woodside pointed to the indorsement of Mackrell by the United American Veterans' Association as proof of the party's non-factional stand.

McArdle Denounces Job Offers for Votes

P. J. McArdle, Independent Republican candidate for Mayor, attacked vote-getting by means of job offers in an address at the home of Charles Wolff, Brighton road, last night.

Reporting that he had heard of many persons offered positions or municipal concessions to support the entrenched administration, McArdle said:

"The mere promise of a job is itself a fraud. At the most the city employs 5,500 persons. The number of available municipal positions is a negative quantity compared to the total number of voters."

McArdle and councilmanic candidates on his ticket will speak tonight at Baxter Junior High School, Brushton avenue and Baxter street; Knoxville Junior High School, Grimes avenue; Overbrook Junior High School, Library road, and at the home of Mrs. Alice Heckman, 859 Muldowney street. The meeting at Mrs. Heckman's home opens at 8 p. m., the others at 8:30.

Legion Auxiliary Leader Defends Herron

A plea against blind acceptance of independent movements was made by Mrs. Louise C. Lindeman, past president of the Allegheny County American Legion Auxiliary, in an address yesterday.

Urging the re-election of Mayor John S. Herron and candidates on his ticket, she said:

"Too often the so-called independent is simply trying to wrest from his party the advancement that has not come to him by merit, not caring how much our city government is slandered as long as he can attract notice."

Vets' Support Of Mackrell to Be Under Fire

Fireworks may explode tonight at the mass meeting of the United American Veterans' Association in North Side Carnegie Library, designed to boost the Republican mayoralty candidacy of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell.

Some veterans are not satisfied with the results of last week's indorsement meeting in Schenley High School, and intend to attend tonight's meeting and raise the issue again.

Thomas J. Dunn, chairman of the Nineteenth Ward Veterans' Association, is spokesman for the recalcitrants, who are especially angered because Robert N. Waddell, a member of the association, and a councilmanic candidate on the ticket with P. J. McArdle, was not indorsed. The Nineteenth warders have indorsed Waddell, and are circulating petitions among veterans in other wards.

RAPS M'NAIR CHOICE

Dunn charges also that the indorsement given William N. McNair for the Democratic mayoralty nomination should have gone to Henry J. Farnsworth, a veteran. In the first vote McNair received 18, Farnsworth 17, and John M. Henry 4. Dunn said some delegates tried to change their votes for Farnsworth, but were refused the chance.

Tonight's mass meeting has been arranged by Henley, with the promise that the auditorium will be filled by veterans. Mackrell is scheduled to speak, in addition to Col. Robert G. Woodside, manager of the Mackrell campaign, and Joseph Stack, candidate for City Council.

16TH WARD BOSS FOR MACKRELL

Charging that his brother was dismissed as a city detective because he refused to support Mayor John S. Herron and acknowledge the leadership of City Assessor Fred F. Dengler, Stanley K. Nowicki, political leader of the Sixteenth Ward, announced today his support of Joseph N. Mackrell for Mayor.

The dismissal of Nowicki's brother, Frank, was made public yesterday. Nowicki stated that the organization had been able to win in the last two contests in the Sixteenth Ward "only by its big payroll."

KATHRYN SUING MENJOU AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Charging that Adolphe Menjou, motion picture player, had failed to comply with the terms of a property settlement at the time of their divorce recently, Kathryn Carver, actress, was suing him today for $2,500.

Her complaint stated that under the settlement her former husband was to pay her $5,000, of which one half was to be supplied at once, and $2,500 in 10 days. She said the second payment had not been made. Payment of the $5,000 was only one of several provisions included in the settlement.

John Hoge, 45, of R. F. D. 1, Bellevue, whose car, police say, struck Whooley, took him to the hospital. Hoge was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Wife Joins Machado At Montreal Refuge

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Gerardo Machado, deposed Cuban president, who is living here after his flight from Havana, was joined today by his wife and son-in-law, Senora Machado and Dr. Bello Baldomar Grau came by train from Philadelphia.

Guarded by detectives, they hurried from the train to an automobile and were taken to a hotel where Machado is occupying the vice-royal suite.

BREAK MACHINE FOR RATE CUT, HENRY URGES

John M. Henry, candidate for Democratic nomination for mayor, gave a two-fold answer to his own question as to what should be done about the utilities, in a speech at King School, Knoxville, last night.

Henry proposed:

"First, we must establish leadership in the municipal government which will take the initiative in a fight against high rates and practices which discriminate against the consumer.

"Second, we must break the machine control of the Legislature."

ASSAILS LEGISLATURE

The people's natural leader against unjust rates is the mayor, but under a utility-controlled administration, they are "licked" before they start, he said.

Charging that the utilities were playing both ends against the middle in putting up William N. McNair as his opponent, Henry said:

"You will find M. L. Benedum as the financial angel of the Guffey-Lawrence machine backing McNair. Benedum has tremendous interests in the utility field. Names of men close to Mellon are associated with that campaign.

Henry will speak in Prospect School, Prospect street, Mt. Washington, tonight at 8:30. Attorney Charles A. Fagan, Jr., Mrs. Charles Minetti and Leo Guthrie, candidate for Jury Commissioner, also will talk.

McNair Lays Government Ills to Utilities

"Almost all of the ills of government" were blamed on utility influence in a speech delivered by William N. McNair, candidate for Democratic mayoralty nomination, at South High School last night.

Discussing the effect of such "excesses" on practical politics, McNair said:

"Part of the plunder of the utility racketeers finds its way regularly into the war chests of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, Allegheny County, and Pittsburgh.

"This is the reason why, to date, not a single candidate for office on the Republican ticket—organization or independent—has seen fit to discuss the loot of the utilities as a matter of public concern.

"Contributions to Republican campaign funds and bribes to Republican officials are the prime causes of all governmental corruption."

McNair and Ticket At Rallies Tonight

Carnegie Library, Hamilton and Lang ayes—McNair; Congressman Henry Ellenbogen; Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, candidate for Council; Dean A. Marshall Thompson, of Pitt law school, for Common Pleas Court; James L. O'Toole, Jr., for County Court; John Heinz, for Sheriff; Jury Commissioner Thomas A. Dougherty, candidate for re-election.

Spring Hill School, North Side—George E. Evans and Walter R. Demmler, for Council, and Dean Thompson.

The Rev. A. W. Sandberg, 1907 Soles street, McKeesport, was reappointed a member of the Central Swedish Conference of the Methodist Eiscopal Church today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, of the Chicago area, made the announcement. The Rev. Sandberg will be in charge of the Swedish Missionary work in the Pittsburgh district.

She's Small But Can Say 'No' To Job Hunters

SEATTLE, Sept. 6.—Patsy Ann Kelly, 5-year-old daughter of the state commissioner of labor and industries, is a "perfect secretary," her parents say.

She answers the telephone frequently, and replies to queries for her father.

She even says, now and then:

"No, daddy hasn't any jobs right now."

INDEPENDENTS PICK SLATE

Independent Republicans of the Eleventh Legislative district at a meeting last night in the home of Edward M. Skapic, made the following indorsements:

Judge of Common Pleas Court, Judge Ralph H. Smith and Alexander P. Lindsay; County Court, Judges Benjamin Lencher and Frank Piekarski; Juvenile Court, Mrs. Lois D. McBride; Sheriff, Robert K. Cochrane; poor director, Bernard L. Flynn.

Harry Watson was chairman and Charles Bernath, secretary of the meeting.

Attorney Clarence B. Nixon, candidate for judge of County Court, will speak tonight at Woodland and Cleveland avenues, McKeesport; Penn Township; Windsap school and Arsenal school.

A mass meeting of the independent voters of the Sixteenth Ward will be held in the Spring Lane School, Clover street, this evening at 8:15.

Council Candidate Talks on North Side

ASK DEMOCRATIC REGISTRATION

The importance of Democratic registration was stressed by judicial and councilmanic candidates on the ticket headed by William N. McNair, at a meeting in East End Democratic headquarters, Frankstown avenue, last night.

Attorney John J. Kennedy, candidate for Common Pleas Court, discussed the desirability of having both parties represented on the bench.

Kennedy, as well as Attorney James L. O'Toole, candidate for County Court, warned against voting for "pseudo-Democrats."

John M. Huston, Representative Thomas J. Gallagher and Walter R. Demmler, for Council; Jury Commissioner Thomas A. Daugherty, candidate for re-election; Andrew G. Smith, for Common Pleas Court, and Walter J. Friday, Eleventh Ward aldermanic candidate, also spoke. Former Police Magistrate Charles F. Papale presided.

The candidacies of Representatives John J. Kane and Gallagher, for Council, have been indorsed by the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union.

Herron Supported By Veterans' Group

The United American Veterans' Association of the First Ward unanimously indorsed the candidacy of Mayor John S. Herron for re-election at a meeting in Forbes School yesterday. The group also indorsed A. M. Maloney, First Ward aldermanic candidate. William Gleason, ward chairman, presided.

Two Seek Mifflin Commissioner Post

John F. Murtha and Joseph McCaffery have filed petitions in Quarter Sessions Court asking appointment as commissioner of the Fifth Ward of Mifflin Township, to succeed the late Charles A. Carrick. Judge Sylvester J. Snee fixed September 12 for a hearing.

Judicial Slate Loaded, Barrickman Declares

Asserts Republicans Got Places of Democrats

Attorney Van A. Barrickman, candidate for Common Pleas Court, charged Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence with hypocrisy and suppression of free speech at a meeting in Larimer School last night.

At a meeting of lawyers called by Lawrence to pass on a judicial slate, he said:

"Republican names were submitted, and Republican candidates, barring an exception or two, were selected to fill the regular Democratic column on the primary ballot."

Saying he had given years of service to the Democratic party, Barrickman attacked Lawrence as refusing to allow him to speak at Democratic meetings.

Rowand Testimonial Picnic Scheduled

A testimonial picnic for Judge Harry H. Rowand, candidate for Common Pleas Court, was scheduled this afternoon at Eddie Ray's farm, Cochran road, to be given by the United Peace Officers' Association, formerly the United Police and Constables' Association. Chris Keisling is president.

Judge Rowand will be guest of honor tonight at a meeting of Allen Camp No. 15, United Spanish War Veterans, in North Side City Hall. Judge Rowand is an active member of the organization.

Slavic League Honors Two Judges Tonight

The Central Council, Allied Slavic League, will offer a testimonial entertainment for Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, and Judge Frank A. Piekarski, candidate for County Court, in Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland, tonight. A musical and literary program will be presented.

Judge Smith will speak today at Independent Republican headquarters, William Penn Hotel, at 12:15 noon; McKinley Club Italian Society, Rankin; Keystone Civic League, Baxter Junior High School and a United American Veterans' meeting, North Side Carnegie Hall.

Negro Clergymen Indorse Musmanno

Judge M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Common Pleas Court, has been indorsed by the Conference of Negro Ministers held in Macedonia Baptist Church, Bedford avenue.

Judge Musmanno will speak tonight at Liederkrantz Hall, Eighteenth Ward; Park School, Penn Township; Baxter School, Thirteenth Ward; Schaeffer School, Twenty-eighth Ward; Arsenal School, Fortieth street, and Carnegie Library, North Side.

Haggerty Slated For Three Speeches

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak tonight at Schaeffer School, Stratmore avenue; the Dormont ball park, and a picnic at Eddie Ray's farm.

Evans to Appear At Tea and Outing

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court, was to address a tea of women political workers in McCreery's dining room this afternoon. He will also attend a picnic at Eddie Ray's farm.

Coleman Indorsed By Father Cox

William H. Coleman, candidate for Common Pleas Court, has been indorsed by Father James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church. Cox praised Coleman as a great thinker and for his understanding and sympathy.

ROUT PRESENT REGIME, PLEA OF WADDELL

Attacking the record of the present administration, Robert N. Waddell, candidate for Council, presented a three-point program for improvement of city government in an address last night.

He advocated elimination of all overlapping work; weeding out of unfit employes, and removal from the payroll of political henchmen.

Connelley Sees Proof Of Good Government

Denying that the present administration is on the defensive, Councilman Clifford B. Connelley, candidate for re-election, addressed a noon meeting at Regular Republican headquarters, Hotel Henry, yesterday. He said:

"Any city that has come through the depression as Pittsburgh has must be well governed. Otherwise the results would be vastly different."

Connelley said the present councilmen running for office were simply asking to be retained in positions for which they had worked hard and faithfully.

Downstairs Store Policies
• First quality merchandise only; no seconds, job lots, or upstairs leftovers.
• Fashion-right, dependable merchandise, worthy of the Horne label.
• Adequate selections, in complete sizes, at all times, at established LOWER prices.
• The Downstairs Store will never permit itself to be undersold for like quality.
• Charge accounts, delivery, satisfactory adjustments, and all other Horne service features will apply in the Downstairs Store.
These precepts were set forth at the opening of the Downstairs Store, a year ago, and continue its guiding principles.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

The success of our Downstairs Store, which outgrew its original quarters in its first year, is ample evidence that Pittsburgh wanted such a store and that people have found the Horne Downstairs Store to their liking.

With a year's successful experience behind us, we go forward with new confidence and increased efforts to better serve that large section of the public which must carefully count costs, and shop within definitely limited price budgets.

To these people, the Horne Downstairs Store brings the atmosphere and confidence of a good store, together with definitely established standards of good style and quality. Today, with rising prices frequently outstripping incomes, such a store is particularly needed.

To fittingly commemorate the Downstairs Store's First Birthday, we prepared a host of surprise values that will claim the attention of thrifty shoppers throughout the entire tri-state district, and acquaint thousands of new customers with the qualities and values of this store.

AMERICANS IN CUBA START FLIGHT

new authorities to do all in their power to prevent and quell violence.

As the American congregated at the famous National Hotel rumors and reports spread throughout the city, serving to cloud the actual origin and intentions of the revolt leaders, who unseated Provisional President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes only 22 days after he succeeded former President Gerardo Machado.

Most persistent was a rumor that paid agents of the Soviet were prominent in the uprising and that they were working feverishly to place Cuba in the hands of Communists.

Communistic or any other radical aspirations, however, have been denied by members of the junta, who claim their only object is to cut loose completely from all traces of the Machado regime.

The executive commission of the revolutionary government insisted that the coup d'etat had the full confidence of the public. Its position was strengthened when the ABC, student revolutionary organization, threw its full support behind the junta after hours of hesitation and uncertainty.

YOUTHS ARMED

To add to the tension prevailing, scores of heavily armed youths, most of them under 20 years of age, cruised through the streets in high-powered motor cars formerly used by members of Machado's secret strong-arm squad, the Porra.

Their only apparent object was to demonstrate their strength, but the widespread distribution of lethal weapons and large quantities of amunition in a city already verging on chaos was not calculated to reassure the general public or the foreign population.

Sensing hostility in certain quarters, ABC members circulated through the capital, checking all sources of information for the actual trend of the new movement. One of the ABC directors said:

"The destiny of Cuba hangs on the events of the next 24 hours."

Camp Columbia, La Fuerza and Atares fortresses, as well as other military concentration points, bristled with activity, but spokesmen ready to disclose the plans of the army were conspicuous by their absence.

Among the rumors which went begging for confirmation was one that certain sections of the army opposed the leadership of Sergt. Fulgencio Batista, moving figure of the revolt and now supreme military commander, on the alleged grounds he is a half-caste.

Machine-gunners stood guard today over Communist headquarters, which up to last night had showed an activity tending to confirm the reports that Red elements participated in the uprising.

LABOR SPLIT

Meanwhile, Cuban labor was torn asunder by the two successive rebellions. Members of the junta insisted labor tension would be eased by appointment of Rafael Suarez Solis as labor arbitrator, but the working class remained in a state of unrest and there was no abatement of the dockworkers' strike, which has paralyzed shipping.

At breakfast time this morning there were approximately 100 American men gathered in the lobby of the National Hotel. Many of them had remained "on guard" all night while their families slept upstairs.

The general feeling among the American colony was expressed by the head of an American rubber company who rushed his family to the hotel for safety yesterday. He said:

"The presence of destroyers is gratifying, as is also the knowledge that Ambassador Welles is 'upstairs.'

Official Life In Cuba Brief But Interesting

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Machado was smart when he tiddly-winked off the island. The new president ripened on the vine in 22 days.

We are glad to state that nobody was killed or wounded. That's because everybody was missing.

Diplomacy of this kind is reminiscent of the Bugs' conversation with a recruiting sergeant in 1918. After the usual questions the sarge asked for the name of our nearest living relative.

When we asked what he wanted it for he said he would notify him in case of accident.

We told him to notify us and there wouldn't be any accident.

MISS ARVILLA WEISEL

DESCRIBES GALE AT HAVANA

After 12½ days of rough ocean travel, Miss Arvilla Weisel, 549 Neville street, returned to Pittsburgh from a vacation cruise in the West Indies aboard the S. S. Mauretania. Miss Weisel visited four tropical countries, Trinidad, Venezuela, Curacao and Panama.

Miss Weisel is employed in the continuity department of WCAE, and is a graduate of the University of Washington.

Although Havana was scheduled as the high point of the cruise, the passengers were unable to dock because of the hurricane raging there. Of it, Miss Weisel said:

"It was magnificent—at least to me, one of the few who escaped being sick—a rolling, tossing world of green. Huge waves took the Mauretania up on a new high and then set her down on a new low."

Erie Man Commands Warships At Cuba

ERIE, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral Charles S. Freeman, in command of three destroyers and a cruiser of the United States Navy ordered to Cuba to guard American lives and property, is a native of Erie.

CUBAN STRIFE EXPLAINED BY EXPERT

By KARL DECKER

Noted newspaper correspondent and investigator of Cuban revolutions, now en route to Havana by airplane to cover the new crisis in Cuba for Universal Service.

EN ROUTE TO HAVANA, Sept. 6.—Cuba's ship of state has shifted her course again and apparently is headed straight for the port of chaos.

For the second time in 22 days a mutiny on board has put an entirely new crew and set of officers in charge.

There is no man, no matter how wise in the matter of Spanish-American politics, who can predict what will happen to Cuba now.

All the ordinary Cuban traditions and conventions have been shattered and a dozen different influences are at work. Today in the harassed island the army is the state and the army is strongly influenced by communistic hopes and ideals.

Heretofore, rivalry in Cuba has been confined solely to opposing parties but the lines of cleavage have been clear and distant. The "outs" clamoring for the rich prospects of graft have fought valiantly under known leaders to toss out the "ins."

Candidates were known personally or by long built-up reputations to every Cuban in the island. Today power is being seized by men who have never been known.

Two great forces face each other, the army and the men of the ABC. The army and their allies, the police, number 23,000. The membership of the ABC is about 5,000 but there are at least 50,000 affiliates in the island. Whether these affiliates can be held in line is yet to be determined.

Not nearly so strong as the ABC is the rival organization, the Organization Cellular Radical Revolucionario, the OCRR, and it is wholly communistic in theory and in actions and is the more closely allied with the army and police.

While the ABC has agreed to take part in the new revolutionary movement it is certain that eventually the organization will be found fighting for an orderly conduct of the affairs of the island.

SLAIN DOCTOR'S WIFE ACCUSED

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Arrested on the mumbled charges of a would-be suicide, Mrs. Lily Banka Gaines, 27, today was in jail accused of the murder of her husband, Dr. James I. Gaines, 41, wealthy sportsman and drugless physician.

Mrs. Gaines had been questioned frequently and detained once since Gaines was shot as he stepped from his automobile in the driveway of his home, August 15.

Sunday Willis B. Garrett, 40, a railroad worker, was found unconscious by police in a gas-filled room in his home. He told detectives Mrs. Gaines had offered him $5,000 to kill her husband.

Mrs. Gaines, confronted by her accuser at police headquarters, shouted:

"I don't know anything about it!"

She was arrested on a warrant charging first-degree murder.

HURRICANE TOLL 32 DEAD, LOSS MILLIONS

small towns and villages and agricultural sections, as it raked a path of terror from the mouth of the great river toward the west, moving into Mexico, was not known immediately.

Calls for relief went out from some of the stricken communities, and Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, as well as federal authorities, moved swiftly to bring them succor.

At least five relief trains hastily were equipped to battle disease and allay thirst and hunger, threatened by the temporary destruction of power plants and food reserves, and were rushed into the storm country.

At the same time, the Red Cross marshaled its forces, sending physicians, nurses, relief workers, food, water, medical supplies and clothing.

FLOOD THREATENED

A new threat appeared in the form of a possible flood as a result of torrential rains which accompanied the hurricane.

Much of Brownsville, Harlinger, San Benito and other towns was under water for many hours after the storm had begun to subside. Proximity to the gulf, affording quick drainage, offered a possible factor of safety.

Thousands of farmers saw crops valued at millions of dollars destroyed. The citrus growers probably were the heaviest losers. P. A. Hoidale, in charge of the United States Department of Agriculture citrus inspection service of the valley, estimated 90 per cent of the fruit was blown from the trees. The valley citrus crop had been valued unofficially at $12,000,000.

At the same time, there was tremendous destruction in the urban areas, where hundreds of homes were destroyed or damaged and business establishments wrecked. S. Findley Ewing, former Mayor of Harlingen, and real estate man, said in Harlingen alone there was from $500,000 to $1,000,000 damage, 80 per cent of the buildings having been damaged or destroyed.

CATHEDRAL RAZED

In Brownsville, Augustin Celaya, State Representative, said every building showed marks of the storm's violence. In Matamoros an ancient cathedral collapsed.

At Taferia a large packing plant constructed of brick was partly wrecked and a garage collapsed on several automobiles. Virtually all the packing sheds at Mercedes were blown down, and at Weslaco roofs were ripped from many packing sheds and hurled into the streets. A packing plant also was destroyed at Donna.

Throughout the territory swept by the storm, telephone and telegraph poles were broken off and laid in windrows, often across the highway. So great was the force of the wind some poles were snapped off near their tops.

Far to the North and East, Corpus Christi, about 300 miles from Brownsville, saw water blown into some of its principal downtown streets, but it escaped the full effects of the gale. Some small craft in the harbor there were sunk or crashed into piers.

NAVY LAUNCHES NEW CRUISER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—A new U. S. S. Minneapolis leaves the ways at the Philadelphia navy yard today, destined to take its place as the thirteenth of the 18 10,000-ton cruisers allowed the United States under the terms of the London naval treaty.

Named for the Minnesota city, the $11,000,000 warship will be christened with water from the lakes of Minneapolis by Miss Grace Laura Newton, daughter of Walter H. Newton, former member of Congress from that city and secretary of President Hoover.

The launching, scheduled for 3:45 p. m., is the first at the Philadelphia navy yard since the destroyer tender Dobbin made its plunge in 1924, but it signals a revival of construction. Later this month the keel will be laid for a destroyer and naval architects are working on plans for two more destroyers and another cruiser to be built here.

SAFETY AWARD FOR PENSIONS

If Pitsburgh repeats its victory of last year in winning the national safety contest, the police pension fund will receive the $10,000 reward. Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide notified his men today.

McQuaide sent notices to all police stations calling attention to September as the "No Accident" month and the last month in the annual national traffic safety contest. He urged that police be on the alert at intersections to safeguard pedestrians. Heretofore only a medal has been given the winner in the contest.

Turner Testimonial 'At Elks Tomorrow

A testimonial dinner to Postmaster William M. Turner, of Wilkinsburg, will be held tomorrow night at the Elks' clubhouse, Wilkinsburg. George Rankin and David L. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic committee of Allegheny County, will be the principal speakers. Assemblyman James L. Quinn, of Braddock, will be toastmaster.

Leisure Time Study Classes to Reopen

Since 77 per cent of the students enrolled last year are still unemployed and 76 per cent of them wish to continue their studies, the Leisure Time School of the Downtown Young Men's Christian Association plans to reopen October 2. Thirty courses will be offered unemployed men.

Unfair Women Should Get Same Treatment as Men

Not long ago, we said they shouldn't. We said that if a woman didn't shoot square, she should be treated accordingly, just as a man was. And we hinted that there were plenty of Lady Racketeers.

Which makes Paula see red.

"What of it?" she snorts. "If there are, let's cheer for them instead of swatting them! If some of them are able to even up the score with the men, more power to them!"

Is that your idea?

Listen—

My dear Miss Robinson:

Your squawk that women shouldn't stand by women, has irked me to the point of writing what I think.

Your wails of sympathy for the "poor men," and your cries of protest against "feminine racketeers," give me a laugh. If a few of the girls are able to even up the score for centuries of masculine oppression, more power to them! The men have it coming!

You have only to read of the plight of little girls and women in India, to realize what unbridled masculine arrogance is capable of. In every land, there are scores of men who do not hesitate to lie, to cheat, or steal from any woman who does not happen to have a man to take care of her.

FAVORS REVENGE

Perhaps the ratio of skunks among men and women is about on a par . . . but why shouldn't women hand a few things back to the men, to pay them for all they've done to women?

And why should we women not stand together, against the men? Why shouldn't we give each other a hand? I say that we women should back each other up. We should stick with our sex. And I think you're mighty small potatoes to go around howling in favor of the men the way you do. Men always back each other up. Why should we be traitors to each other? Why should any of us hold out against any woman, in favor of men?

I say women for women!

PAULA.

Why should any woman hold out against another, in favor of a man?

Why not, if right is on the man's side? Is it any more decent for a woman to be a skunk, or for other women to back her up in being a skunk, than for a man to go in for being crooked or for backing a crook?"

ON PAR WITH MEN

Women, nowadays, claim to be Regular People. Then they should act like Regular People. And the real "Traitor to Her Sex" is not a woman who expects them to, and refuses to stick up for them unless they do. The real traitor to her sex . . . and to life . . . is a woman who believes that women should be above criticism, and defended . . . "just because they're women" . . . no matter what they do. A woman is worth no more, if she isn't a square shooter, than the same kind of man. And she should be treated accordingly.

And as for "evening up the score" for Masculine Arrogance—hooey! Plenty of men have been mean tyrants, of course. But plenty of them are fine. And plenty of women have been tyrants, too. You may not know it, but there have been civilizations where women ruled . . . and they've been just as crooked and cruel as men, when they had the power. And—what kind of a nightmare would this world be—what would it do to you, to me, if we all set out to "get even" with each other? If we had no faith, no honor, no generosity? No human is perfect, Paula. You're not perfect. I'm not perfect. And meanness, male or female, is just meanness, and nothing more, and deserves no breaks.

Age Turns Some Pleasing Traits Into Faults, Warns Fay King

By FAY KING

Too often a trait most pleasing in youth becomes an outstanding irritation in middle age if one does not outgrow it.

For instance, the pretty girl who likes to appear unusually artistic and exotic may in time become only eccentric and loud in her exceptional taste for style and colors.

The girl delightfully young and lovely who is quite irresistible with her constant gaiety, pep and small talk may be considered quite a bore if she giggles, gads about and cackles incessantly at 40.

The angelic looking one who rather fascinates with her sharp wit and wicked sarcasm seems very sour and bitter when dimples have become wrinkles.

Youth enhances may faults, but we must develop and improve with age, if we would please.

Madge Certain Avis Can Explain About Missing Letter

There was an instant's silence after my rather abrupt request to speak to Philip Veritzen; then Avis Arlen said, in what she evidently imagined was the proper tone for a "private secretary:"

"Will you tell me your business with him please, Mrs. Graham, and I will see if he can speak to you."

Distinctly over the wire there came to me a low-toned exclamation. Then I heard the patter of quick, high heels over the floor, and the next instant the low-pitched voice of Miriam Brown, Philip Veritzen's private secretary for many years, sounded in my ears. I did not need television to know that she had taken the telephone from Avis Arlen's hands.

"Mrs. Graham, I hope you will excuse this," she said. "Miss Arlen is new to us yet, and does not understand our customs. Mr. Veritzen is on another wire. Shall I call you back, or would you rather wait now? I am sure he will be free in a few seconds."

"I'll wait, if you don't mind," I told her; "that is, if you're not too busy to talk to me. How are you?"

AVIS SENT AWAY

"Fine, as per usual," she assured me. "But I was so sorry to hear of your accident, and now so glad to hear your voice again. It means you're better, doesn't it?"

"Practically well," I said. "I'm walking around again. Would you mind answering two or three questions of mine with yes or no?"

"Not in the least." Her voice was suddenly mirthful and comprehending.

"First, is my voice carrying beyond the receiver? Can anyone else hear?"

There was an instant's pause, then she answered with irrelevance, "I'll get it for you," then spoke away from the receiver.

"Miss Arlen, will you find me a Westchester directory, please. I think you'll find one in Mr. Miller's office."

There was the sound of a closing door, as she spoke quickly.

"I've made it doubly safe. Go ahead."

"How long has she been there?"

"A week today. I don't need to do the 'yes' and 'no' stunt until she gets back."

"Please believe me, I'm not asking these things idly; but if you can't tell me—"

"You know I won't tell you anything I can't," she reminded me, "so go ahead. Ask anything you wish."

"Does Mr. Noel know she's in the offices?"

"I don't think so. He hasn't been near the offices for nearly two weeks, and I've handled no calls or messages from him."

A sudden thought made me put a query more hurried than my others.

"Does she handle any of Mr. Veritzen's mail?"

There was a pregnant pause.

"She is not supposed to," Miriam Brown said slowly. "Why? Has anything gone wrong?"

"Mr. Veritzen has not answered a very important message which I sent almost a week ago," I said, "one that called for an immediate reply. That isn't like him, you know."

"No, indeed. Let me think!"

CLUE FOR MADGE

She paused, however, only an instant, and I guessed that she had heard sounds indicating Avis Arlen's return, for she said hurriedly, in low tones:

"Better ask him about it yourself," then added more loudly, but turning away from the mouthpiece, "Oh! couldn't you find it, Miss Arlen? I'm sorry. I was sure there was one in there. Never mind, I'll manage. Ah! Thank you, Helen," as the telephone operator said 'O. K.' "I'll tell Mr. Veritzen that Mrs. Graham is on this wire. Just hold the wire, please, Mrs. Graham."

I felt suddenly breathless, as if I had been hunting frantically for something and all at once had found a clue to its hiding place. Philip Veritzen had not deliberately omitted to answer the invitation to Noel's marriage which I had sent him. He had not received it. And Avis Arlen was responsible!

"Go ahead, Mrs. Graham," the operator said, and in answer to my tentative "Mr. Veritzen," the great producer's voice said frigidly:

"Mrs. Graham, isn't it rather late for you to be calling me? I heard today from another source the news which I supposed I was to receive from you."

Household Hints

When buying net for curtains always allow for shrinkage; also make a deep hem, as this prevents fraying during washing and adds to the appearance of the curtains.

Blue serge, or cloth, which has become stained or shiny, should be sponged with ammonia and water, and in the laundry ammonia will remove stains quickly.

Correct Manners

Acknowledging Flowers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should letters be written to say "thank you" for flowers sent to a funeral? M.

Yes; such kind thoughts for us in our shadowed days should be acknowledged with a personal note. It need not be long, but it should be written by a member of the family. The note may be worded something like this:

Dear Mr. Worthy:

We appreciated very much your kind sympathy. Thank you for it, and for the beautiful flowers that brought to us the message of your sympathy and friendship.

Yours very sincerely,

Appropriate Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I always read your articles and enjoy them immensely. In fact, whenever your column appears and pertains to questions that perplex me, I clip it and paste it in a note-book.

Will you please tell me whether or not a young man of 18 should take a gift to a girl's birthday party? She is just a good friend. LEO.

If the young man knows that it is the hostess' birthday, it is gracious and thoughtful of him to make some gesture about this, but not send or take a consequential present. A gallant gift is always a lovely corsage, sent on the day of the birthday, or taken to the party. Or a book or several books, or a box of candy . . . something appropriate like that.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Harelip Not Hereditary Defect

Contrary to a popular belief, "harelip" is not an hereditary defect. It is congenital, of course, resulting from incomplete joining together of certain structures of the face. It is caused by some faulty development of the body before birth. But one case in a family does not mean that others will be afflicted in the same way.

Dr. Copeland

Occasionally harelip is accompanied by a similar defect of the hard palate. When the tissues here fail to join, there is left a cleft or fissure in the middle of the mouth. This is the deformity spoken of as "cleft palate." It is not as common as harelip, but is occasionally seen in the infant who is also the victim of harelip.

Unfortunately many parents hesitate to allow such a child to be operated upon. They fail to realize that it is only by means of surgery that this unpleasant deformity can be corrected.

Neglect of this condition in infancy may lead to marked under-nourishment of the child.

Whenever this happens there is a decrease in the normal resistance against contagious diseases. The baby has difficulty in nursing and consequently fails to receive proper quantities of food.

It is true that there are some children who suffer from this ailment yet have no difficulty in obtaining sufficient nourishment. But no one will deny that a child who is afflicted with a harelip or cleft palate enters the world with a marked handicap. He is sure to be the victim of many hours of unnecessary anguish.

Within recent years tremendous strides have been made in the perfection of this operation. No longer is it a serious and dreaded ordeal. I am glad to say that in most instances the results of the operation are more than gratifying. Often it is scarcely possible to detect any sign or trace of the scar.

The operation should be performed as soon as possible. The time most ideal for the operation should be determined by the physician. He will take into consideration the age, weight and general health of the child. The operation must be performed in early childhood since once the bones have set and become hard it is almost impossible to correct the deformity.

Every parent should take advantage of all that modern medicine and surgery offer for the correction of such birth defects as cleft palate and harelip.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Playing Safe

When a Declarer is doubled at a game contract which he has a reasonable assurance that he can make, he should disregard any greedy longing for over-tricks if it endangers the safety of his contract, and play the hand in such a manner as to guarantee the contract, as was pointed out to me by Mr. H. D. Lent, who submitted at the same time an interesting example of the application of his advice. The hand was played in the recent tournament of the American Bridge League at Asbury Park, N. J.

North, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

♠ A9854 ♡ A 106 ◇ 7 ♣ AJ82	North West East South	♠ — ♡ Q5 ◇ 9654 ♣ 10976 543
	♠ KQJ2 ♡ KJ84 ◇ KQJ82 ♣ —

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ◇	Double (1)
Pass	3 ♣ (2)	3 ♠ (3)	Double (4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Not an especially good Double, as the hand contains only the minimum number of honor-tricks. However, West is very well prepared for a spade response and can play the hand conceivably for a part-score in hearts if his partner should choose that suit.

2—East's Jump response to his partner's Takeout Double is not justified. It is true that he has very strong distributional values, but his hand does not contain even half an honor-trick. It may be very difficult to play if his length in diamonds is met by length in diamonds in the Doubler's hand.

3—With a 5-4-4 distribution, South rightly feels that he must bid again.

4—West's Penalty Double is, on the surface, rather optimistic. However, West reasons that South can not hold more than four spades, as he has shown first a minor suit. Hence it seems probable that North does not hold more than three, as West does not vision clearly the possibility of a void suit in the East hand. If this is true, then the hand may completely disintegrate if South, without control of the trump suit, is forced to ruff once or twice. The only weak spot in the analysis leading up to the Penalty Double is the failure to vision the possibility of a four-card trump suit in the Dummy hand.

In the play West laid down the Ace of clubs, and Mr. Lent, the Declarer, instead of ruffing, elected to discard a small heart. This was really a very fine play. It was based upon the broad general principle that you should give your opponents every chance possible to err in play, and upon the near certainty that West held all the outstanding trumps. If this were so, permitting him to hold the club trick and thus strongly suggesting the wisdom of a switch to another suit could not be detrimental to Mr. Lent's chance of making his doubled contract.

In actual play West, fearing the discard of another losing heart, shifted at once to the Ace of that suit, and thereafter Mr. Lent lost only two trump tricks and fulfilled his doubled contract.

Here the cheery voice of "Buttons," the Sun-Telegraph page boy. He's calling on Mrs. David Page, 5456 Northumberland street, today to give her $5. The Sun-Telegraph hopes that Mrs. Page will be home because $5 will give her an opportunity to "Spend in September." . . . Spend a Dollar. . . . Make a Job.

Mrs. Page is not the only person that "Buttons" is paging today. She tops the money list with an award of $5 and she'll get it before the day is over. "Buttons" is also paging 10 more Pittsburghers and will call on them today with awards of $1 each. You'll find this list on the Classified Ad pages of today's Sun-Telegraph.

In the meantime "Buttons" is flitting all around Pittsburgh looking for people who would like to get free cash. He's going to page 11 names and call with the money at the homes of these people every day. To one he is going to give $5 in cash—to the other 10 he is giving $1 each in cash.

"Buttons" does not know where he is going to start out in the morning or to whom he is going to make his Sun-Telegraph awards. He may be looking for you, but you won't know whether or not you have been paged for a cash award until he calls at your home.

He may be in your neighborhood tomorrow. Watch for him.

VACATION PAY DENIED LEITH

H. H. Leith, county road department engineer, dropped from the payroll a week ago, will receive no vacation pay so far as County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield is concerned.

Leith's request for the pay, made on the basis that he was dismissed without receiving his two weeks off, was tabled when Mansfield opposed it. Commissioner C. C. McGovern was absent and Commissioner C. M. Barr's motion to pay Leith was unsupported.

Three employes of Highway Division No. 1, are off the county payroll, at least temporarily. They are District Foreman Harry A. Quay, and Truck Drivers William Letzkus and Ernest Beck. Highway Director Thomas O. Hasley said he had suspended them pending investigation into reports of inefficiency.

LOCAL STARS -:- WCAE Players Knights of Harmony -:- ON THE AIR

'Penthouse' Air Drama Tonight

There's a treat in store for drama lovers tonight in WCAE'S presentation of "Penthouse," a play adapted from the novel by Arthur Somers Roche.

The gripping story of a young lawyer's dilemma—jilted by the girl he loves, and then asked to defend her new fiance in a criminal suit—is enacted by an all-star cast of radio players. "Penthouse" is scheduled over WCAE at 8:45. The complete novel will appear in the Sun-Telegraph, in serial form, beginning tomorrow.

* * *

Musicomedy

The Rhythm Kings, singing trio from Morgantown, W. Va., go on the air over KDKA tonight at 7:15 on a regular weekly commercial program. And therein lies hope for many an artist in the Pittsburgh area who gives his best to radio for little or nothing.

The trio, composed of Frank Knutti and Paul Vanney, tenors, and Earl Richard, baritone, have traveled back and forth from West Virginia to give sustaining programs during the past several months. Now they're "in the money," sponsored by a local public utility.

* * *

Harry Richman, veteran entertainer of stage, screen and air, and Milton Berle, youthful master of fast-paced comedy, bring additional speed and zest to Fred Waring's program tonight, heard over WJAS at 10.

Richman sings several popular songs, and exchanges bright banter with Berle.

* * *

"Turkey in the Straw" as a Jew's harp duet is a novel number offered on the Corn Cob Pipe Club truly rural shindig scheduled on WCAE at 10.

* * *

Miss Smith is currently appearin at a night club. Besides her stage appearance she is well known for numerous phonograph record hits.

Discussions

A full-hour NRA program, with Samuel Harden Church the feature speaker, is heard over WWSW at 6:30. Musical entertainment is furnished by Jack Davis and his orchestra, the ABC Trio, Edgar A. Sprague, tenor, the Metropolitan quartet and Walter E. Sickles, pianist.

* * *

The farmers' viewpoint on recovery activities is expressed over KDKA at 8:45, when F. H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's League, discusses the recovery act's effect on agriculture.

* * *

"The Navy as First Line of Defense," is described by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, Bureau of Aeronautics, U. S. N., in an address over WCAE at 11:30 tonight.

* * *

Morgan B. Schiller, commander of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, speaks over WJAS tonight at 6, urging voters to register in time to vote for repeal.

* * *

With the primaries rapidly approaching, nine political speakers take to the air waves tonight, in the following order:

Mrs. Joseph N. Jackson, WCAE, 5:15.
"The Voice of Mackrell," WJAS, 5:55.
John M. Henry, WWSW, 6:15.
W. Y. English, WJAS and KQV, 6:30.
P. J. McArdle, KDKA, 7:30.
James F. Malone, WJAS, 8:00.
Raymond D. Evans, WJAS, 8:45.
Dr. A. L. Lewin, WCAE, 9:15.
David Lawrence, WJAS, 9:15.

Junior Patrollers On WCAE Today

Every boy and girl within tuning distance of WCAE will want to follow the thrilling adventures of the Junior Patrol Boys this afternoon at 4:45! In addition to the excitement on the program, there will be songs and recitations by a group of especially talented boys and girls. Here they are:

Fifth Air Varie, violin solo, Richard Scheafnocker.
My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean, accordion solo, Walter Gebrasky.
Harmonica Duo, Kurt and Walter Krumich.
The Rosary, guitar solo, William Herman.
Poem, Aileen Carr.
Violin-Piano Duet, Ciara and Dorothy Hinnebusch.
Johnny's History Lesson, recitation, Murray Minster.

Public Taste Consulted On Program

When a radio sponsor holds up his plans for going on the air with a new program until he has made a survey to discover what the listening public likes best—that's news! It is probably the dawn of a new era or something when the public is consulted before a radio show is prepared, and that's why, maybe, a vote of thanks or a posey should be tossed to that firm which pioneered on the kilocycles in the early days of NBC and brought forth the famous Troubadours.

On Saturday, the prospective sponsor up and bought time, for a spell of 13 weeks, on NBC. Wednesday evenings were reserved, and the business will start some time in October. Between now and the opening date, a survey is being made of urban and rural America. Agents of the sponsor are touring towns to the right of us and burgs to the left of us, and in every one of them, the scouts ask 10 average people what their preferences might be in the way of bands, singers and other essentials to a satisfactory broadcast. All the answers will be assembled on October 1, and offers will be made to the artists thus chosen.

* * *

Harry Tighe, the gent who does the master of ceremonies stuff on the George M. Cohan bill, and "Senator" Ford, whom the customers may recall as a very witty and original lad who has held forth in vaudeville for no few years, are to team themselves into a radio offering for a coal operator who returns to the kilocycles every winter with a frolicsome show on one network and a dramatic offering on the other. Tighe and Ford, so one hears, have worked up a comedy series that should freshen up that phase of broadcasting.

* * *

Another newcomer, who will be plugging tobacco shortly, is J. C. Nugent, head of the theatrical family, and who is the newest of the stage veterans to be invited to interpret a script into the mike. The current plan is to have Mr. Nugent on the NBC waves thrice a week, beginning next month.

* * *

When that part of Radio City reserved for the microphone gets into operation, plans provide that studio guests be kept separate from the entertainers. In other words, the guests will enter on one floor and the artists on another, both also having special elevators.

In all of the larger studios galleries are to be provided with entrants on the guest floor. In addition to the huge three-story studio, measuring 78 by 135, there is another, 50 by 90 feet, with a glass curtain like that at the Times Square stage. This studio is to be known as the Radio Guild room and is to be primarily for drama.

When the public is to have an advance glimpse of these new ideas in broadcast equipment has not been revealed, nor has the opening date been set beyond the tentative time of November 15, seventh anniversary of NBC.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Paul Gannon revives the popular favorite of a few years ago, "Among My Souvenirs," as the highspot of his 6:45 broadcast.

Girl, 6, Killed When She Steps Off Bus

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 6.—Frances Warnock, 6, of Shadyside was killed today as her brother was being treated for an injured hand, crushed in a washer. As the girl stepped from a bus, she was struck by another bus.

Altoona Hears Weird Drama

With weird sound effects and music, an imaginary crash of a comet striking the earth is broadcast over WFBG at 3 p. m., Thursday.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Here's a story of a canary with an eagle's name. It was found by the children of Mrs. George Szecsay, Johnstown avenue, who saw it fluttering about the front yard. Overjoyed with their new pet, they pooled their savings, bought a cage and all the fixing (under the Blue Eagle) to make their cheerful friend comfortable. They named it Nira.

As if realizing the importance of the name, it refrained from singing until the voice of Mrs. Carol Miller, state chairman of the women's division, NRA, making a "recovery" speech was heard through the radio. When Mrs. Miller ceased talking the bird subsided once more into silence.

Election time brings numerous questions about registering and payment of poll taxes. After an earnest session with George E. Meyers, chairman of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, we undertake to answer that the board will separate the poll tax from the real estate tax, permitting property owners unable to pay the real estate tax to pay toll tax and vote.

A recent decision holds that the board is not compelled to separate the poll tax from personal property tax and therefore they are not making such a separation.

Answering further queries, in order to register, the voter must have paid a county or state tax within two years. Such tax must have been assessed at least two months before and paid one month before a November election.

You will note that the law says nothing about the necessity of paying a poll tax if you have paid a state or county tax as prescribed above.

This Little Seal Stayed at Home

With the Seals away on a well-earned vacation, Harry gives a solo sports talk, discusses a number of things in the realm of athletics, with Leland Becraft acting as announcer.

McCreery's has a code all its own

—but it's not a new one!

It's almost 29 years old—and is more effective every day of its life. It makes no pretentious claims and promises—it simply gets things done in very telling ways. To have merchandise that people want, when they want it, at the price they want to pay.

•

QUALITY is the FIRST consideration, applying to ALL articles, whether they sell for little money or for much. Service must go hand-in-hand with selling and fair prices must prevail at all times.

•

Loyalty of employees must be spontaneous and unfailing. Meaning it must be deserved, not forced.

•

"Idle talk" about rising prices is taboo. While we are not averse to making money, we refuse to yield to the temptation occasioned by the present rising market—to make unfair profit on our merchandise. Hence our pledge, in keeping with OUR CODE—that we will not profiteer, that we will maintain honest prices and honest values, as always.

•

We are not infallible. However, if we do make mistakes, they are unintentional and we quickly make amends.

•

We have built, and are constantly building, around ideals in which we firmly believe. On this firm foundation, rich in sound traditions, we shall always carry on . . .

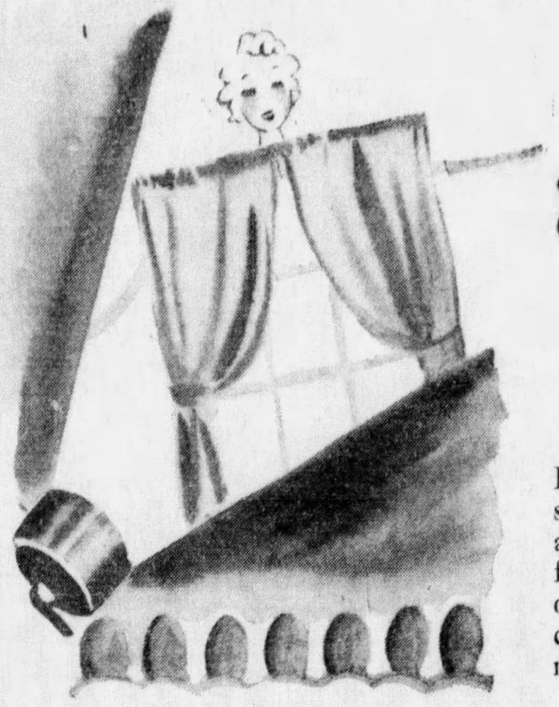
The Store That Makes No Compromise With Quality



McCreery's Announces . . . . .

a Style Show of New Trends in Interior Decorating

It's a cheery era that we're entering now . . . getting back to good old standards of harmonious living and harmonious surroundings. More and more, these days, people are recovering their appreciation of furnishings of intrinsic fineness and beauty. Realizing that it's not only good taste, but good judgment to buy things of quality, they're coming to McCreery's—which is again leading the way to brighter, more distinctive and attractive homes.

As a Special Feature . . .

Swiss Wool Embroidered Filet Net Curtains

$4.95 and $6 Pair

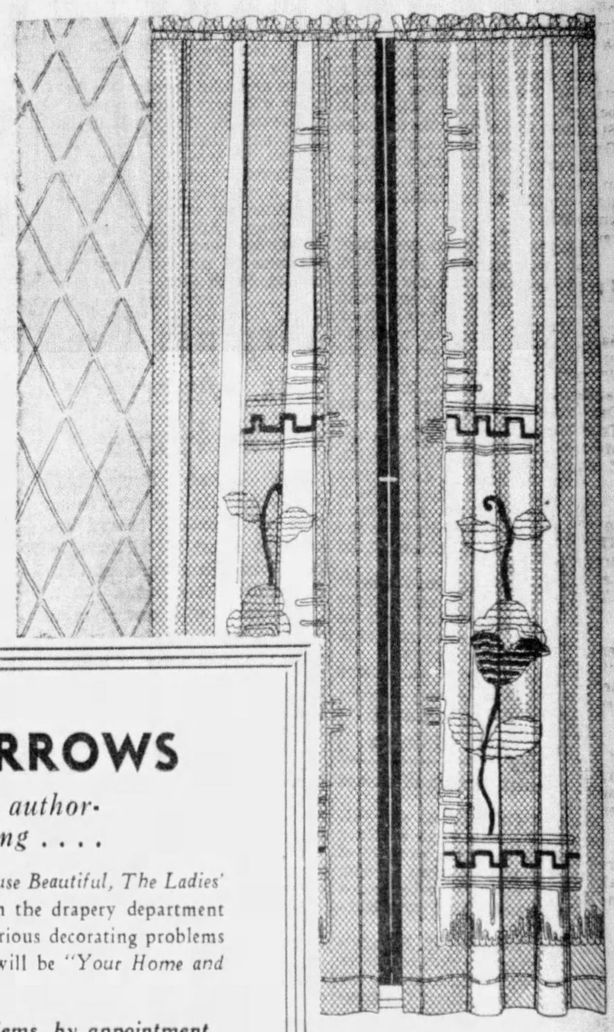
The first showing of this curtain tomorrow signals the return of the home of character. Conceived to satisfy the desire for true elegance, designed to retain the modern liking for smart simplicity, these natural color curtains embroideried in monotone colors of brown and natural wool mark a new innovation in window treatment. Also a showing of smart designs in Irish Point curtains.

(McCreery's—Draperies—Sixth Floor)



Tailored style, 36 inches wide and 2½ yards long. Embroidered on a new mesh filet net, in wool yarns . . . $6 Pair.

Sullivan Wedding

This week-end will bring many more weddings and by the time October comes, September will be rivaling June, the month that has become synonomous with brides.

Luisa Sullivan will become the bride of John Blackwell Chenault, Jr., this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the home of her parents, the J. Alfred Millers, of Beechwood boulevard. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. B. Chenault, of Maysville, Ky.

Over her bridal gown, the bride will wear an old rose point bolero jacket that her mother wore at her wedding. The jacket had a wide cape, forming sleeves.

Her gown will be of white crepe in princess style, and she will wear a Juliet cap of rose point. And she'll carry a small colonial bouquet of orange blossoms.

In Gown Of Crepe

Margery Gulbenkian, of Pelham, N. Y., who went to Knox School with the bride, as maid of honor, will wear a gown of pink crepe and white organdie and a small white hat. She'll carry larkspur.

Addison Everett, of Philadelphia, will be his cousin's best man. Only the two families and a few close friends will attend the ceremony and the reception.

The bride's mother will wear black and white velvet with a small black velvet hat, and have a corsage of gardenias; the bridegroom's mother will wear sapphire blue velvet and have gardenias.

To Wear Velvet

After the buffet supper, the bride and bridegroom will fly to New York, from where they'll motor through Canada. They'll make their home in Maysville, Ky.

Luisa is a graduate of the Knox School, and her bridegroom attended the University of Kentucky.

Marion Claus, daughter of Mrs. A. A. Claus, of Erie, and a Junior Leaguer, will marry a Pittsburgh son, Charles Shenk, son of Mrs. Wilbur Shenk, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the summer home of the bride's uncle and aunt, the Robert Hoffstetters, at Machester, near Erie.

Mrs. Smith to Present Candidates at Luncheon

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, will present the mayoralty candidates at the luncheon which the league will give Friday in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Others seated at the speakers' table with the candidates will be Mrs. A. H. Bowman, Mrs. Nathaniel Spear, Mrs. E. H. Demmler, Mrs. J. Wood Clark, Mrs. Ralph L. Smith, Mrs. W. M. Parrish and Mrs. R. P. Kennoy.

Clay Greene, Actor, Dies in West at 83

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Clay Meredith Greene, 83, actor and playwright and 11 times elected shepherd of the Lambs Club in New York, died at his home here yesterday after a prolonged illness.

He had been bedridden since he broke his hip in a fall last May.

Helen Morewood, Knoxville Man Wed Today

Miss Helen Morewood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morewood, of Perry Highway, Highland, Pa., will become the bride of J. James Grogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Grogan, of Knoxville, this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the North United Presbyterian Church, Perrysville avenue.

Officiating will be the Rev. Roderick L. Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y., a friend of the Morewood family, assisted by the Rev. William M. Hendricks.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a princess - styled gown of white satin having a train, long, tight - fitting sleeves and a high round neckline. Her only ornament will be a string of pearls. She will carry lilies of the valley and Easter lilies.

Bride in Satin

Her maid of honor, Miss Frances Tipton, will wear a gown of copper taffeta having a long, full skirt and a cape suggesting brief sleeves. Her hat, the girdle of her gown and her gloves will be of brown velvet, and her flowers will be Johanna Hill roses.

Similar costumes in peach taffeta, with brown velvet accessories, will be worn by the two bridesmaids, Miss Elsa Morewood, sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Neidhart. They will carry Talisman roses.

In Peach Taffeta

Edward M. Welty will be best man, and Alan P. Davies, John Taylor, William J. Barlow and Raymond Heineman will be ushers. A reception at the Pines and a dinner for 43 will follow the ceremony. After September 16, Mr. Grogan and his bride will be at home in the Riverview Park section, North Side.

Virginia Lees Is Married In Home

Miss Virginia Maple Lees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lees, of Oakmont, became the bride of Meryl M. McGuire, of Ford City, this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Lees home.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of orchid crepe in princess style, reaching the floor, and a matching jacket with long sleeves. She had a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Her sister, Mrs. A. C. Martin, Jr., of Oakmont, as her matron of honor, wore rust crepe and had a shoulder corsage. Nancy Lees, of Oakmont, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore an orchid chiffon frock, and Mrs. Lees, mother of the bride, was in eel gray crepe.

Audrey McGuire was best man. After a small reception, Mr. McGuire and his bride left for Chicago, and upon their return will be at home in Ford City.

GOSSIPY CHAT

By NANCY JANE

Marion Black, young drama student at Carnegie Tech, has taken to press-agenting for press-agenting's sake. She's going to do all the publicity for the Golden Triangle Players this winter—for nothing.

A group of debs will usher at the first play I hear, to be given Saturday morning, October 14, in the Twentieth Century Club. Of course the series of plays is for children—and their elders.

Press-agent Marion will give a tea in her home, Wightman street, the afternoon of the fifteenth of this month, for the young actors, the ushers, a few friends.

Back home from two months in Labrador as one of the volunteer workers in the International Grenfell movement, is Princeton student Robert Wardrop II.

Part of the volunteer work included helping to build a house for one of the new medical men in an outlying district. And the volunteer workers helped transport the lumber—carrying it on their backs.

Mr. Wardrop returned by way of Montreal.

When Louise Pershing goes to a circus, she does a bit of sketching. And from her sketches she's done some water colors of a most intriguing giraffe and of a bare-back rider. They've been added to the decorations in her studio.

Miss Eleanor M. Naser Weds Wilbert J. Whalen

A bride of Saturday was Miss Eleanor May Naser, daughter of Mrs. Della Naser, of Bryant street, when she married Wilbert J. Whalen, of Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock in Holy Trinity Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Naser, wore blue panne velvet with a matching hat and carried yellow tea roses. Her sister, Miss Gertrude Naser was the maid of honor, and wore black panne velvet with a hat to match and carried pink tea roses.

New Jersey Girl, Pittsburgh Man To Marry

Miss Georgia Clare Goodrich Appleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Courtney Appleton, of Glenridge, N. J., has named September 26 as the date for her marriage to Roy Chester Weberg, of Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Weberg, of Akron, O.

The ceremony will take place in Christ Episcopal Church, Glenridge, with the Rev. George P. Dougherty officiating. The bride-elect attended Wheaton College, and is a member of the Junior Auxiliary of the Glen Ridge Women's Club.

Mr. Weberg is a graduate of Yale, class of 1930, and he did his preparatory work at Peddie School.

Miss Helen May Kelley Marries Charles Ullery

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. P. Kelley, of Ardmore boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen May Kelley, to Charles Ullery, of Wilkinsburg, which was an event of Saturday, in Wheeling, W. Va.

Mrs. Ullery is a graduate of Indiana State Teachers' College and the bridegroom is a Carnegie Tech graduate. After a brief wedding trip they will be at home in North Chestnut street, Brownsville, O.

Miss Dorothy D. Scott Marries E. J. Saretsky

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Scott, of Wightman street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorthy Darling Scott, to Eugene J. Saretsky, son of J. Saretsky, of New York.

Westminster College Club to Entertain Freshmen at Tea

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

All the high school graduates who are entering Westminster College this year from the Pittsburgh district have been invited to a tea to be given by the Westminster College Club on Saturday in the Pittsburgh College Club.

Singularly, the majority of these girls were honor pupils in the grade schools. Upper classmen at Westminster from this district also will attend the tea, the hours for which are from 2 until 5 o'clock.

Mrs. R. C. McKelvey, new president of the club, will receive with Mrs. Scott N. Watt, the retiring president; Mrs. Carl Rankin, wife of the new dean; Mrs. Charles Freeman, wife of the former dean, and Mrs. Merle Burke, chairman for the day.

In addition to Mrs. McKelvey, this year's officers include Miss Minnie Belle McQuiston, vice president; Miss Lois Logan, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Caldwell, recording secretary, and Miss Alice McCrory, treasurer.

South Hills College Club to Hear Lindsay

"Our City and Its Corruptions" is the subject which Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for the Common Pleas bench, will discuss on Tuesday before the South Hills College club. The meeting will be in Dormont New Century Club with Mrs. J. C. Keaney as chairman of hostesses.

Assisting will be Mrs. J. R. Jackson, Mrs. G. W. Johnson, Mrs. J. Murl Johnston, Mrs. C. B. Kline, Mrs. Raymond Little, Miss Belle Long, Mrs. J. H. Lucas, Mrs. Oscar von der Luft, Mrs. W. G. Lytle, Jr., and Miss Jean MacClay. Bertha Irene Green will furnish the music.

Thurston School Girls to Wear Uniforms

Thurston School students will be in uniform this fall for the first time like girls at Winchester and many of the other private schools.

They will appear this year in dark blue jumper dresses, which can be varied with white blouses. Thurston will open September 13 at 8:45 o'clock in the morning.

The headmistress, Miss Marjorie Pratt, is back from a month in South Glastonbury, Conn. She also visited Miss Ida Allerton, of Pittsburgh, at Cedar Croft, Burke's Falls, Ontario.

Miss Elizabeth M. Long To Wed Ralph W. Miller

Mrs. Thomas E. Long, of Longacres, Allison Park, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth H. Long, to Ralph Walter Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Miller, of Apollo.

The engagement was made known at a bridge given by the bride-elect's sister, Miss Mary S. Long, Saturday.

New Garden Group Of College Club To Meet

The regular season at the College Club of Pittsburgh will begin October 6 with the annual reception in honor of the president, Mrs. George M. Swan, who is beginning the second year of her administration. Meanwhile, the clubhouse is not dull.

Mrs. Karl C. Randall, chairman of special activities, has been busy with plans for a garden club for club members and their friends, who are invited to the first meeting of the group tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay will speak on "Things to Do in Your Garden in September." Tea will be served after the program. The group will meet monthly on the first Thursday and the general topic for study will be "Gardens by the Month."

The monthly buffet supper will be held Sunday evening at 6 o'clock with Mrs. Ralph Leavenworth and Mrs. Howard H. Talbot as hostesses. Members have been asked to make reservations by noon Saturday.

Mrs. H. Lloyd Cleland, chairman of the membership committee, will have a meeting of her committee on Friday at 2:30 to discuss plans for the year. The captains of the membership teams, whose work during June resulted in an increase of 200 members for the College Club, will meet for luncheon on Friday at 12:30 o'clock. Plans will be made for a membership dinner on Monday evening, September 18, when all newly elected members have been invited to meet the officers and committee chairmen of the club.

The book review luncheons for new members will be held twice in September, the dates being September 12 and 26.

Music for 'Seven Ages' Pageant Well Chosen

A program of music has been chosen with a nice sense of the appropriate for the pageant "The Seven Ages of Woman" which the Crafton Woman's Club is sponsoring Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John P. Gangwisch, Crafton boulevard.

The pageant will be preceded by "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," played by a string trio, Mildred Hertzler Hissom, and Mrs. Ralph W. Smith, violins, and Anne Hertzler, cello. For the first episode they will play Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose," and when the little seven-year-old appears down the terraced lawn to take her place, Victor Herbert's tuneful "Toyland" will be heard.

The old familiar "School Days" will be played for the 14-year-old's appearance and the Crafton High School "Alma Mater" for the sweet girl graduate. The Lohengrin Wedding March for the bride, "Mother Machree" for the mother and "Silver Threads Among the Gold" have been chosen for the bride, the mother and the grandmother. Mrs. Howard Graham will read the poems befitting the seven episodes.

Year Book Dramatized By Juniors of Crafton

A dramatization of its year book was the rather unique program presented last night at the opening meeting of the Crafton Junior Woman's Club. It also served as a celebration of the club's tenth anniversary, and marking this, a home-made curtain in the club colors, silver and purple, was raised on the dramatized months.

September's was the lighting of birthday candles by past presidents, Miss Frances Moore, the incumbent, reading some original verses introductory to each of her predecessors. Miss Alma Jean Strasler surrounded by books was October's subject, "Leisure," and Mrs. C. Robert Anderson, Jr., with Robert III and his toys dramatized "Child Psychology." Miss Dorothy Smith at a lighted Christmas tree represented December's topic, "Religion," and Mrs. Dora B. Grim, who, in nurse's cap, was January's subject, "Health."

Culture was dramatized by Mrs. Paul Kearns, hospitality by Miss Betty Scott at a tea table, and politics by Miss Annette DeLoche armed with a ballot box. Mrs. T. Kirk Heselbarth and Mrs. Carl Brelos were two "white collar bandits," representing "Business." Mrs. Finley Weisenberger, at whose home in Oregon avenue, the meeting was held, introduced the program.

Central Branch News Promises Busy Autumn

The autumn Y. W. C. A. News, of Central Branch, is a particularly interesting booklet, what with its inviting announcements and its breezy comments. "Come and See Night" is set for September 26, from 5:30 until 10 o'clock, with the usual exhibitions and demonstrations of activities and services.

The branch is offering classes for the woman of affairs, the woman at home, the employed woman and the school girl and also will continue its school for unemployed high school graduates.

Ohio State Woman's Club Opens Season Saturday

The Ohio State Woman's Club, of Pittsburgh, will open its season on Saturday at the Pittsburgh Country Club. Mrs. J. D. Davis, the new president, presiding. Vacation reminiscences will be exchanged between the lunch hour and afternoon bridge.

Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger, hostess chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. H. Ward Ewalt, Mrs. A. J. Myers and Mrs. Carl M. Rhoads.

Woman's City Club To Hear Lissfelt, Harris Series

Among the most teresting events at the Woman's City Club this year will be a series of four lecture-recitals by J. Fred Lissfelt and Henry Harris. On four successive Tuesday evenings, beginning October 31, they will do "Some Bases of Musical Criticism," "Beethoven," "Schumann-Brahms" and "Modern Tendencies in Music."

The two Pittsburghers will also appear before the Frida- Conversational Club of Monongahela the evening of Octob 6 and the Washington Current Events Club on January 19, giving their "Modern Tendencies' program.

Mrs. Miller Honored By Butler Reform Group

BAR PROBE HEAD ANSWERS RIORDAN CHARGES

POLITICS

Registration Perplexes Both Parties

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Tomorrow, the first day of registration for the September primary, may hold the fate of numberless candidates in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Mr. Shields.

Polling places will be open in Pittsburgh from 8 to 11 a. m. and 5 to 11 p. m., the time in all cases being daylight saving.

If the experience of the boroughs and townships in their enrollments, the third-class cities in their first registration day, and the Philadelphia figures for the first day is duplicated in Pittsburgh, there will be a tremendous increase in Democratic registration, and a resultant lessening in the number of Republican eligibles.

* * *

Flow From G. O. P. To Aid Herron-Coyne

What that means is a speculative proposition, of course, with various forecasts, but it is reasonable to believe that any great flow of Republicans away from their party will be helpful to the Republican organization jointly headed by Mayor John S. Herron and Senator James J. Coyne. That would enhance the fortunes of Mayor Herron and the remainder of his ticket in the primary.

Regulars should suffer least because their forces usually are better disciplined and more inclined to stand hitched. It is the independents, generally speaking, dissatisfied with Republican bossism, who naturally would be expected to transfer their allegiance to the Rooseveltians. If that reasoning is correct, and it is the concensus of politicians, then by the defection of Republicans Councilman P. J. McArdle will be hurt most, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell next and Mayor Herron least.

* * *

Study Needed For Final Expectations

These expectations can be altered, and will not be finally accepted, until opportunity is afforded to study the registration of the various wards, learning whether the swing to the Democrats has been as great in the controlled sections as in the independent districts.

Candidates who have been speaking in various parts of the city declare that the greatest inclination to swing from the Republican to Democratic parties is found among foreign groups who are actuated almost entirely by their zeal for President Roosevelt.

The Democrats also have a perplexity as to which faction the increased registration will favor. William N. McNair is being backed by Joseph F. Guffey and County Chairman David L. Lawrence, the regular organization leaders. If the newcomers to the party are constitutionally against bosses they may be disposed to favor John M. Henry as against McNair in the mayoralty primary.

* * *

Recognize Value of Roosevelt Name

If it is principally the Roosevelt influence which motivates the converts, the situation is something different. Whatever else may be said against them, no denial can prevail against the fact that Guffey and Lawrence were first, last and all the time for Roosevelt, before and after the last Democratic national convention. It was their work which gave the President the majority of the Pennsylvania delegates, a substantial bloc and a weighty influence in determining the decision of delegates in some other states.

There is the additional fact that Mr. Guffey and Mr. Lawrence are now in high favor with the President and are recognized as his spokesmen and patronage distributors in this state.

It is no secret that both Democratic factions recognize the value of the Roosevelt name, and each is pledging itself to carry out his policies. Mr. McNair is labeled by his backers the "Roosevelt candidate," and Mr. Henry is billed as an "independent" foe of bosses.

* * *

Extent of Purifying Zeal is Awaited

There is one aspect of the Bar Association referendum on the qualifications of judicial candidates which seems to have escaped attention. It touches on the question involving the bar's opinion of the "personal honesty" of the candidate.

That interrogation is included in the questionnaire spread among the bar. Presumably its answer will in some manner serve as a predicate on which to base judgment as to a candidate's fitness. If there should be any number of lawyers who answer that they do not believe the candidate is personally honest, and thus should not be elected, then the next step is inevitable, if the promoters of the questionnaire and the respondents are sincere.

Immediately steps should be taken before the bar's grievance committee to institute disbarment proceedings against the man accused. If any attorney believes a fellow-lawyer personally dishonest to the extent that he should not be elected to office, then he should not be permitted to practice before the bench upon which he should not serve.

It will be entertaining to discover if the zeal to purify the bench extends thus far towards sincerity to purify the bar.

11 IN INSURANCE PLOT CASE TO FACE COURT

Held Without Bail At Hearing on Nation-Wide Hoax

Eleven members of an alleged nation-wide ring accused of staging fake automobile accidents to collect insurance, were held for court by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Station today.

They were held without bail on charges of false pretense and conspiracy to cheat and defraud after Assistant District Attorney Jacob Kalson had presented informations signed by Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd.

WOMAN SUSPECT ILL

One of those held, Mrs. Anna Giordano, 36, of 1211 James street, who collapsed while being questioned by detectives last week, was unable to attend the hearing. She is a patient at Leech Farm Hospital, the magistrate was informed.

The others held are Frank Gemellarro, 46, of 3466 Bates street, an insurance broker and notary public of South Brooklyn, N. Y.; his wife Rosie, 43; Elmer Hoover, 24, of 621 Mellon street; Steve Oliveri, 32; and wife, Rosie, of 3800 Frazier street; Joseph Giordano, 24, of 1211 James street; Guiseppe Rettino, 37, same address; Raphael Cirroni, 38, of 3832 Bates street; Jerome Schultz, 28, of 3201 Alwyn street, and Angelo Sampegnaro, 48, of 1211 James street.

PLOT CHARGES

No testimony was offered. Detectives had charged that the gang had collected $1,900 from insurance companies for staged auto crashes here and that the ring in the East had mulcted 60 insurance companies out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Sampegnaro, detectives charged, was the selected "slugger," who beat up members of the ring to make it appear they had been injured. A truck was driven into an empty automobile to bolster the story of the "accident," detectives said.

RAID NETS SON OF POLICE CHIEF

Paul Whalen, son of John J. Whalen, police chief of McKeesport, was among 21 held for court by Justice of the Peace Barney Volk last night.

Whalen was arrested by state police from Greensburg, who raided an alleged numbers headquarters at Fifth avenue and Hawkins street, Rankin. All were charged with operating a lottery.

Paul Whalen was arrested on a similar charge based on an alleged McKeesport lottery more than a year ago and was discharged.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 6.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See some of the papers are kinder excited over "what will Henry Ford do." Well, that's the least thing we got to worry about nowadays. He will do better by labor than anybody else, so that's good enough.

Will Rogers

There is only one drawback to this "buying in September." Women with charge accounts, and sending stuff on approval, they will do a lot of September buying, but Lord help October, when they start to returning the clothes, because they didn't look good at the party.

They say there is a hurricane down in Texas and Florida. Think I saw a little squib about it in some California paper.

Yours, WILL.

'BROOMED' MAN ASKS DIVORCE

John Mudrick, 46, of 906 Spring street, North Braddock, seeking a divorce from his wife, Mary, 30, maintained no husband has to see the honeymoon end with a broom in his face. It breaks up a game of solitaire like nothing else, he averred.

He testified before Judge James H. Gray that his wife thought he was a millionaire and married him and got a mortgage. She also threatened him, he said.

But Mrs. Mudrick claimed they were happy until her sister, husband and their two children came and lived with the Mudricks for three months. She claimed Mudrick used her rings to get a deposit for the divorce suit.

They were married February 2, 1930.

OFFICER BANDIT VICTIM BURIED

The state highway patrol at Harrisburg has announced a reward of $1,000 for the capture of his slayers.

Brantlinger was shot to death Monday morning when he interrupted gasoline thieves near Bridgeville. In attendance at the funeral besides her parents, brothers, sisters, fellow patrolmen and friends were Leon D. Metzger, state secretary of revenue, and Miss Mary Miller, of Pitcairn, to whom he was secretly engaged.

Navy Veteran Tells Thrills of Fishing On Floor of Ocean

By LIEUT. JIM HAYS
PART THREE

A good many people have asked me: "Can you see when you're down in a diving suit? . . . What does the bottom look like?"

The answer is, it all depends. Depends upon the state of the weather, the depth of the water and the nature of the bottom.

A fisherman will choose a cloudy day to go fishing, but a diver, if he had any choice, would choose a bright, sunny day to go down. And speaking of fishing, I suppose I've caught as many fish on the bottom, with a spear, as the average angler, with hook and line.

On a bright, sunny day, on a sandy bottom you can see for varying distances, according to the depth. At 100 feet, you can see 10 feet all around you.

At shallower levels you can see much farther, of course. But on a cloudy day and a mud bottom it's as dark as a dungeon, and you have to grope blindly in the darkness.

Narragansett Bay, in Rhode Island, where I first dived for lost torpedos, has a mud bottom, like most harbors. But there is seldom a mud bottom in the open sea. In some places there is clay, sand, gravel and crushed shell.

A ship can pretty well navigate around the world by bringing up samples of the sea bed. The kind of bottom, as well as the depth, is recorded everywhere on the ocean charts.

Of course, there's a certain amount of rocky bottom—boulders and crags and steep ledges that a diver sometimes has to climb. There he watches his step very carefully. If his foot slips, and he takes a sudden fall

OFFICE LOOTED, PAINTERS HELD

Sam Sukolsky, 27, of 313 Gist street, and Grady Cogburn, 17, a Negro, rear 311 Gist street, faced arraignment in Morals Court today on charges of stealing $2,000 furnishings from the office of the Star Marble and Tile Company, 1915 Boulevard of the Allies.

City Detectives John Daschbach and John Barrett reported recovering the loot in a house in Tustin street. The office was entered through a skylight and the robbers slid down a garden hose to the floor, the sleuths said.

Sukolsky and Cogburn had been painting a house nearby. Cogburn, first arrested, admitted the theft and led the way to the loot, the detectives said, and implicated Sukolsky, who surrendered.

Tank Falls, Fumes Rout Scores on Hill

The tank, being moved from the market by the Hartman Dairy, fell while being loaded, the driver, Thomas D. Conrad, said.

THRONGS SEEK ASSESSMENTS

Hundreds of persons jammed the first floor corridors of the Courthouse today, waiting to enter the offices of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes to have their names placed on the assessment books.

This is the last day in which to be assessed to become eligible to vote at primary day, September 19.

The crowds that gathered yesterday necessitated the calling of several county policemen to keep order. D. O. Jones, a member of the board, estimated that more than 1,500 persons were assessed.

The office was open until long after 5 p. m., although the regular closing time was 4 p. m. Jones said that the closing time today would be governed by the crowd.

Declaring that there were 400 residents of Duquesne who had not yet been assessed, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, appeared before the County Commissioners and asked that another opportunity be given residents of this city to become eligible for the primaries. The Commissioners instructed George E. Meyers, head of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, to have an assessor sit in Duquesne today.

WRIGHT DENIES BIAS, LAXITY IN INQUIRY

Secretary Defended On Accusation of Bill Padding

The committee to investigate professional conduct of members of the bar of Allegheny County, through Gifford K. Wright, chairman, today replied to charges made by Leo Riordan, chief county investigator.

Riordan, in a report to the County Commissioners, intimated the committee was dilatory, biased, failed to examine records of members of the committee and charged that Donald C. Anderson, secretary of the committee, had padded the committee expenses over $2,500.

Wright wrote to the County Commissioners:

"The specific charges of a very serious nature against Mr. Anderson came to us as a complete surprise. We have the utmost confidence in the integrity of Mr. Anderson and we are satisfied that such charges will be found baseless."

APPROVES AUDIT

Adding that he approved the Main & Co. audit and that the committee will make a separate investigation, Wright wrote:

"Mr. Riordan has seen fit to make serious charges reflecting upon the work of this committee. These charges are not specific, but the intimation is that we have been derelict in our duty in three regards: That we have been biased in our investigations; that we have not examined the records of the members of our own committee, and that we have been dilatory.

"As to the first two charges, it is unfortunate that Mr. Riordan did not consult with us when he began the investigation which seemed to him to disclose these facts, because had he made any specific charges against any member of the bar in regard to the matter which came within the scope of our investigation, even though such member of the bar was a member of our own committee, we would have investigated the charge very fully.

POLICY DEFENDED

"We have requested the members of the bar and the public at large to give us any information with regard to any of the practices which we have been investigating, and every specific charge brought to our attention we have thoroughly investigated. No such charges have been made against any member of our committee. In no case have we passed over any charge which we thought justified a report to the court.

"Now, as to the charge of dilatoriness. Our committee, after many months of very intensive work, filed a report with the President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County in April, 1932. The court acted upon this report on April 23, 1932, and directed that prosecutions be brought. The prosecution was not in our hands, and any delay that may have occurred therein was a matter beyond our control. In the spring of this year the committee made a second report to the court.

"The committee is still functioning, and will receive and act promptly upon any charges that Mr. Riordan, your board, or any other person brings to its attention."

REPORT TO JUDGE

President Judge James R. Macfarlane, of Common Pleas Court, and District Attorney Andrew T. Park today were to receive from County Commissioners copies of the report submitted by Riordan.

The report will contain Riordan's recommendations that criminal and civil action be started immediately against Anderson.

The Commissioners will not wait for the President Judge and the District Attorney to probe into Riordan's charges, but today will start auditors of Main & Co. on the job of making a complete check of all moneys paid Anderson. The auditors also will begin a check on the expenses of the Bar Association's committee on election frauds.

Riordan's report, a lengthy statement read at the open Commissioners' meeting, stated that

Cards, Love Combined In Divorce Charges

Charging her husband admitted he was in love with another girl, Helen McLenahan, Sheridan avenue, Bellevue, wants a divorce from Herbert R. McLenahan, Ambridge.

Mrs. McLenahan produced witnesses who testified McLenahan had thrown his wife across the room because of a misplay during a card game and that he told them he loved another girl. The libellant also informed Judge James H. Gray her husband said:

"She will make a better wife than you."

According to testimony, McLenahan also told his wife she was a poor housekeeper, but his wife's witnesses said he worked peculiar hours and that she had his meals ready at times when he should have come home.

Mrs. McLenahan charges indignities.

Wife Seeks Payments In Arrears 20 Years

Seeking to collect more than $7,000 arrears on a $5 a week order for her support, made in Quarter Sessions Court 20 years ago, Mrs. May Morgan, 60, of 2066 Dartmore avenue, Overbrook, has filed a petition before Judge Sylvester J. Snee asking a rule on her husband, David Morgan, of the South Side, to show cause why he should not pay. Judge Snee fixed October 5 for Morgan to answer.

The Morgans, who have two grown children, separated in 1904, and Mrs. Morgan, February 23, of that year, obtained an order in court for him to pay her $5 a week.

She says he paid for 12 weeks, a total of $60, and since has ignored the payments. She is living with a married daughter.

LONE SLEUTH IN TRADITIONAL BLIND PARADE

He appeared as the lone marcher in the "Blind Man's Parade," and furthermore, had a report to make, breaking all precedent.

The last Legislature abolished the parade, which for years saw a long line of shy, embarrassed constables, with fingers in their mouths, whisper to the presiding Judge of Criminal Court that their districts were "pure and untainted by those cancers on the body politic—crime and vice."

But alas, the pristine glory of the parade had gone. Ridge declared he and his new deputy, six-foot John J. Dempsey, had conducted a series of raids on disorderly houses and had prosecuted the inhabitants before three justices of the peace. Also, Ridge professed, he had made a number of moonshine raids, but added:

"Judge, there's still one bad spot out there. It's closed now but will open as soon as my report is made. The police will give no help, and the place knows my men. What'll I do?"

Judge Sylvester Snee had no solution. He replied:

the county had paid duplicated bills, had paid sums to Anderson far over the amount of the bills for the service rendered to the county and that Anderson was still retaining several hundred dollars which was due witnesses and investigators who had appeared before the bar association committee.

CHARGES DENIED

Anderson denied that Riordan had questioned him at any time regarding the expenditures. He declared that all the money he collected from the county had been used for legitimate purposes and needs of the committee.

Denying the charges Anderson said:

"I am prepared to make a full explanation of any items which he (Riordan) might question."

A paragraph from Riordan's report follows:

"It thus appears that the amount of $14,592.77 already paid by the county, Mr. Anderson benefitted to the extent of $8,465.97, of which $6,350 was represented as his salary. The amount that was actually paid over the amount of the legitimate bills being $3,115.97, of which $1,069.50 was for duplicated bills and $1,477.50 in amounts paid over and above actual expenses. The remainder, or more than $500, is still retained by Mr. Anderson, but is due divers persons."

FLAYS BAR ASSOCIATION

Commenting on the report, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern said:

"The Allegheny County Bar Association for years has been an abscess in the side of the public. It dominates the law library, the Prothonotary and Recorder of Deeds offices. It is arrogant and dominating in its character. Someone has to rise and smite these lawyers to stop their spending of people's money."

Public Safety Director Denny swearing in the jury-of-three to be appointed to sit in judgement upon a policeman. It's the first jury under the new police trial system.

NEW PLAN USED IN POLICE TRIAL

A new police trial board system provided under an act of the last legislature went into effect today.

Instead of a board consisting of high officers of the police bureau, 25 names of officers and men were placed in a box and seven drawn.

Patrolman Fred Doyle, of Oakland station, the first to be tried under the new system, was allowed two challenges and Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., the same number. Both exercised their challenges and when four had been eliminated by this method the three remaining constituted the trial board.

Those making up the first board were Capt. Thomas Gross, of Mt. Washington station; Capt. Thomas Lyons, of Forty-third street station, and Patrolman Charles Otterson, of the North Side.

After considering the evidence, the board suspended Doyle for 10 days without pay on charges of neglect of duty.

ATTORNEY FINDS TAX PAID

Attorney Edwin Doran, of the Law and Finance Building, had planned to do his duty as a citizen and vote on primary day, September 19.

Yesterday he visited the County Treasurer's office and offered to pay his tax. To his surprise he was notified that his poll tax had been paid and that someone had claimed his tax receipt. The Treasurer's office stated they were unable to issue a duplicate receipt and unless Attorney Doran can produce a receipt from 1932 or 1931, he will not be able to be registered.

Clark Tomer, of 135 Failey street, Twelfth Ward, reported a similar occurrence to county authorities. He sought to pay the poll tax for himself and wife but was informed it already had been paid.

The right of the voters is disputed between the County Treasurer's office and the Registration Commission. John K. Morrow commission chairman, contended since the tax had been paid, the legitimate voter could not pay it the second time.

Deputy Treasurer Alfred E. Anke said such voters could vote by making affidavit before the commission that their tax had been paid.

YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED TO HAVE FULL-AUTOMATIC GAS HEATING

Now the RENT-A-BURNER PLAN makes it possible

The last barrier to your enjoyment of full-automatic natural gas home heating has been swept away.

For on top of the recent reduction in gas rates comes a new plan that lets you convert your present coal furnace or boiler into a gas-fired unit without one cent of investment for equipment. Under the new Rent-A-Burner plan, we will furnish a first-quality, safe and efficient Natural Gas Conversion Burner, complete with thermostat, motor control, and safety pilot.

We will pay for its installation, by an accredited heating man, in your present coal-burning furnace, or hot water, steam or vapor boiler.

We will service and repair the burner unit when required.

And for all this, you are not asked to make one cent of investment. The only equipment cost to you is a monthly rental of $1.85—with July and August free.

$1.85 a month
JULY AND AUGUST FREE

(Right) The Gas Conversion Burner complete with Thermostat, furnished under the new Rent-A-Burner Plan

(Above) The break-away views show how the unit is installed in your present coal burning furnace or boiler

Those fortunate folks who heat with natural gas do not dread winter. Join their ranks, and learn what a pleasant season winter is, when you are completely freed from furnace cares.

No matter how the blizzard howls, the warmth of June will be prisoned in your home. A single match will be your winter's kindling. There will be no fuel dust, to soil draperies, grime rugs and clothing. No dirty ashes to handle and haul away. No endless basement trips, shoveling fuel, shaking grates, adjusting drafts. No worries, in your hours away from home, about the furnace fire.

Special facilities for servicing the specific burner furnished have so far been established only in urban areas of Allegheny County. For the present, therefore, we prefer to confine this offer to customers located in such districts.

If you live in such a district, one of our engineers will gladly make a heating survey of your home, submit an estimate of the cost of a winter's heating, and explain all about the Rent-A-Burner plan—without obligation. Just fill in and mail the coupon.

50-YEAR GRANT ON EXPO SITE SOUGHT

A contract involving another 50-year grant of the land under the Exposition Building at the Point to the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, part of a plan to put up a $6,000,000 building there, is expected to go to City Council within the next few days.

Assistant City Solicitor T. M. Benner is working on the details, but declined to comment on the proposition until it goes to Council.

That the Exposition Society has not yet acted as a corporate body to commit itself to the new plan has been revealed by the society's attorney, B. J. Jarrett.

DECLINES TO TALK

Officials of the society have been in conference, however, with P. M. Chamberlain, who has been helping to conduct a survey of the need for an exhibition hall for several months among Pittsburgh firms.

Chamberlain, last night declined to make any statement other than that the plans are still in the development stage.

PAYS ANOTHER $10,000

The city yesterday paid another $10,000 to the Exposition Society as part payment for the rental of the old Exposition Building. Council had held up payments until Controller James P. Kerr could audit the remaining debt of the Exposition Society, which is the price at which the city may take over the old building at any time under an agreement of 1919.

It is reported from well-informed sources that a proposal has been made to settle with the city for a lower figure than the amount of the remaining debt, provided the longer grant of land can be arranged.

OHIO MAN SLAIN BY MANIAC

International News Service.

DENVER, Sept. 6.—Police of Colorado and a half dozen surrounding states today sought the maniacal murderer of a man believed to be William Rheim, 74, of Barberton, O.

Rheim's body was found beside a railroad track about 20 miles east of Denver, the head battered by a dozen blows of a sharp instrument, a gag in the mouth and the left hand tied to the neck by a rope. Identity was tentatively established from papers found on his person.

The murdered is believed to be a young man seen with Rheim Monday. He is described as being about 22 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. He had dark eyes and hair and a dark complexion.

Rheim stopped at a farmhouse a few miles from where his body was later found, and asked for a drink of water. He told Mrs. Henry B. O. Watkins that he had come from California with a companion.

CAFE MAN KILLS SINGING WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—As his wife, Mrs. Peggy Danbacher, 28, concert musician, sat playing and singing "Stormy Weather," in a gesture of reconciliation, Irving C. Danbacher, formerly a prosperous cafe man, shot her to death yesterday and probably fatally wounded himself.

Danbacher left home Saturday, vowing never to return. He came back yesterday morning, asked her to cook his breakfast, which she did, and later to sing, the wife's mother, Mrs. Mattie Doerfel, said.

Mrs. Doerfel said Danbacher had lost all his money.

The shooting occurred, she said, while she had gone to get him a drink of water.

Emergency hospital physicians said Danbacher probably will die.

The couple had been married five years.

McCloskey Indicted In Poor Board Riot

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, is to face charges of inciting to riot and assault and battery as a result of a demonstration of unemployed at the Poor Board office in Johnstown.

WARNING

To All Who Wish to Register

Sept. 7—Sept. 12—Sept. 16, 1933

The Constitution of Pennsylvania provides, among the qualifications of electors, that each elector shall "if twenty-two (22) years of age and upwards, . . . have paid, within two (2) years, a State or County tax, which shall have been assessed at least two (2) months and paid at least one (1) month before election."

Therefore, tax receipts not paid for by the individual are fraudulent within the meaning of the Constitution, and all registrations based on such receipts are illegal.

THE PENALTY For Illegal Registration

"A person who applies for registration knowing that he is not entitled to be registered, ... or who knowingly offers . . . a fraudulent tax receipt to establish his claim to be registered, . . . shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be sentenced, for every such offense, to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding three (3) years, or both, in the discretion of the court."

The Registration Board has information regarding the illegal purchase of Tax Receipts and will prosecute all such cases where an attempt is made to Register.

Kay Francis' Barn Dance Big Hit

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 6.—Oh, Hollywood! Where is your sophistication? The sensation of the social season was the good, old-fashioned barn dance thrown by Kay Francis and Kenneth MacKenna.

Imagine, if you can, the proud ladies and gentlemen of the cinema riding on the back of a cow and scrambling to catch greased pigs on the floor of the Vendome cafe, one of Hollywood's most expensive eateries, transformed for the evening into a simple rustic setting.

To the eternal fame of Mark Twain, practically everybody came dressed as Huckleberry Finn. The most amusing perhaps were Gloria Swanson and her tall Irish husband, Michael Farmer. Sleek, glamorous Gloria was in a rumpled shirt and overalls and minus shoes and stockings. She was leading a scraggly pup and Farmer had a fishing pole over his shoulder.

Miss Swanson

Then there were Huckleberry Finns No. 3 and No. 4, Florence Eldridge and Fredric March. Florence's get-up was complete, even to the red wig and freckles. You'd have laughed, too, to see the usually elegant Kay Francis in a red and white gingham dress with sunbonnet to match.

And who won the cow-riding contest, Virginia Valli or Kay Johnson?

Yes, sir, it was quite a lark!

* * *

The Carnera-Max Baer fisticuffs before the camera produced at least one thrill when the lumbering Venetian landed one unexpected punch flush to Max's chin. Max let out a yell and laughed, but there was tension there, reader, for a second.

Carnera

Between shots, Carnera relaxed, apparently unconscious of the 10 cameras aimed at the ring and of the hundreds of stars, extra people and pressmen in the tiered seats. Baer was as restless as a race horse, clowning, feinting and bouncing off the ropes.

When M-G-M invited the former champion, Jess Willard, to see the match, he wanted to know how much there was in it for him.

Talk of jinx pictures! Joan Crawford sprained her ankle and now they'll have to postpone "Dancing Lady" chorus scenes for four or five days. . . . Is Gloria Stuart puffed up? Universal turned down a $50,000 offer from British Gaumont for Gloria to appear in a picture called "Ripe Cherries" . . . It's good news for Irene Dunne. Her husband, Dr. Francis Griffen, has delayed his departure another week. As soon as she can get away, the star will join him in New York.

Miss Crawford

Local Youth Winner

William O'Dell, of 4603 Carlton street, East End, 22-year-old insurance salesman, and former Y. M. C. A. swimming champion of Western Pennsylvania, was notified last night by Paramount's Hollywood studios that he was the winner of Paramount's search for talent contest, sponsored in Pittsburgh by Warner Brothers Theaters. He will go to Hollywood to appear in the motion picture "Search for Beauty," which goes into production October 23.

O'Dell appeared in one play this summer with the Summer Playhouse at Fox Chapel. After graduating from Schenley High School he became a student of Carnegie Tech Drama School. He was first selected from the Plaza Theater. The 30 winners in the contest represent all sections of the United States and seven other countries. With Anna Imsenik, of Philadelphia, he is the winner in the Central Atlantic district.

Mickey First In India

India's favorite movie star is Mickey Mouse, according to Mahomet Zahir Uddin Khan, potentate of Hyderabad, rich province of South Central India, who have been touring the United States. The Prince, 23, and his wife, 21, visited Hollywood.

"Mickee Mouse," the Prince explained in an Oxford accent, "is the most popular of all American movie stars in my country, although we enjoy all your pictures very much."

When the Prince has private showings on his estate in India a Mickey Mouse short feature always has a prominent spot on the program, and in this respect he is like America's own royal family, the Roosevelts, who have a standing order for all Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphony films for White House private showings.

Accused

Lupino's Daughter Ready to Work

After a few days of New York sight-seeing, Ida Lupino, 16-year-old British stage prodigy and daughter of Stanley Lupino, departed for Hollywood by plane for her first assignment under a long-term Paramount contract. Miss Lupino arrived in New York accompanied by her mother, the former Connie Emerald, English actress.

Although many rumors after Miss Lupino's arrival indicated that she was to be selected for the role of Alice in Paramount's forthcoming production of "Alice in Wonderland," no assignment has as yet been made for the role. The blonde young English girl was to be given screen tests for the part, and these tests were to be compared with more than a score of others already under consideration.

Lorraine Eddy Plans Return to Screen

Lorraine Eddy, who dropped out of motion pictures nearly three years ago, after her marriage to Douglas MacLean, former film comedian, and now a film supervisor, has decided to return to the screen. She will have a part in "Behold We Live," featuring Nils Asther, Irene Dunne and Clive Brook.

Miss Gaynor Revealed By Telephone

Until Janet Gaynor put in a long distance call to Hollywood, residents at a little backwoods lake in the north woods of Wisconsin didn't know they were entertaining a movie star. She is resting from work in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing."

Odd Contract Is Signed

Under the terms of this contract Olivier will have an extended option with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer giving him the privilege of returning to the coast from forthcoming theatrical engagements and resuming his picture career. The options are wholly Olivier's, whereas in the standard contract the film company reserves the right to extend or not extend a contract.

Olivier, who is scheduled to appear on the Broadway stage in Jed Harris' production of "The Green Bay Tree," arrived at Hollywood from England last month and had been tentatively selected for the male lead in Greta Garbo's "Queen Christina." When John Gilbert was given that role Olivier was offered a long-term contract to appear in other M-G-M productions. Theatrical contracts prevented acceptance of this, and the new contract followed.

At every turn of her life—MEN, showering gifts, wealth upon her—risking their freedom—daring scandal for her favor . . . but not one who could ever understand the sacrifice she made for the one man she loved. Gripping and dramatic motion picture entertainment!

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

OVER AT the Rialto this week is a litle English musical film called "Sleepless Nights." Although it's pleasant enough in its harmless way and far better in some respects that some of the musicals that have come out of Hollywood, it doesn't stand much of a chance in this country. Because it hasn't names that we know, because it must be rapped by sophisticated critics, and because before you know where it's playing—pouf, it's gone.

I mention this merely to point out the fact that, while I was in Singapore, "Sleepless Nights" was an absolute sensation in that remarkable city. It was playing in Joe Fisher's Capitol Theater, the most beautiful playhouse in that section of the world, and it was enticing capacity crowds in its third week.

The song hit, "I Don't Want to Go to Bed," was played by the orchestras in every club and hotel. Tickets—all reserved over there—were at a premium. Other theaters could have played a Garbo, a Dietrich, and a John Barrymore film against it as a triple-feature bill, and it wouldn't have made any difference.

And over here—well, it seems to be just another English picture. I guess that, as far as films go, half the world doesn't know what the other half sleeps through. . .

FROM Vincent Cullen, young and aggressive head of the National Surety Corporation, comes the story of the middle-aged woman who received a parrot for a present and then wanted to get rid of it because it swore too much. She went to a pet shop and unfolded her troubles.

The owner listened attentively and then nodded.

"I understand perfectly, madame," he stated, "you want the bird killed. But might I suggest that it is not necessary to shoot it? All you need do is seize it by the legs and swing it around and around in the air. No matter how tough the bird is, it will be dead when you put it down."

The woman said she wasn't capable of such a thing, so the pet man agreed to handle it for her the following afternoon. He arrived on schedule, reached into the cage, grabbed the tough and cursing parrot by the legs and swung it around and around in the air. When he thought the bird was dead, he placed it on a table. In a moment the bird raised itself.

"Oh, boy!" it muttered. "What a breeze!" . . .

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Folks home from vacation find the amusement map altered slightly. For one thing, there is Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon, all of a dither about the impending opening of the new season. That will be Monday, September 25, and, as you've heard, it will bring George M. Cohan, America's premier song-and-dance man, as a Theater Guild actor. George M. will head the cast of Eugene O'Neill's first play since "Mourning Becomes Electra," "Ah, Wildnerness," which, by the way, will have as few as four acts. That, you'll admit, represents considerable restraint on the part of Mr. O'Neill. Others in the cast, not completed, are announced to be Marjorie Marqquis, Elishu Cook, Jr., Eda Heineman, Richard Sterling, Adelaide Bean and Stanley Wood. This will be a subscription play of the American Theater Society, Inc., which has its office open in the Nixon Building, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Its subscription series will include two other Theater Guild plays and three of other producers.

The summer stages are winding up their activities, and there are beer and burlesque in the Variety. Not that there's any connection, the only significance being that as the season wanes in one latitude it waxes in another. Mr. George Jaffe, our well known burlesque impressario, is mixing bubbles with his entertainment, having installed a bar in the foyer of the Variety. His first show of the season, "Hello Prosperity," now current, is a combination of musical comedy, skits and variety specialties, the production numbers including "Bubbles," with a real fountain, "Telling It To the Daisies," "Springtime," "Dance of the Trees" and one that is right in line with the times, "Buy American." Principal comedians are Eddie Kaplin, producer for Mr. Jaffe, and Fred "Falls" Binder, both well known to burlesque audiences. Martha Patti, Pittsburgh girl, is among the principals of the show, which also has an ensemble of home town dancers.

While Katharine Cornell is thinking about her coming season of repertory, her husband, Guthrie McClintic, is going ahead with preparations to introduce a new play by Owen Davis, "Jezebel," in which the principal player will be Tallulah Bankhead, a stage actress who had a try at the movies. In the cast will be Cora Witherspoon, Frances Bates, daughter of Blanche Bates and fifth in her mother's line on the stage, as well as Owen Davis, Jr., son of the author. "Jezebel" has its scene in Louisiana in 1850. New York may see it about the last of the month.

Chick Chandler Wins Place in Films

Chick Chandler, young New York stage actor who excited the admiration of critics in his first screen role, in "Melody Cruise," has been signed by the new Twentieth Century Pictures Company for the important leading juvenile role with George Bancroft, Judith Anderson and Frances Dee in "Blood Money." The deal for Chandler, under contract to RKO, makes him available to Century for feature roles.

Change

Lionel Barrymore is featured in "One Man's Journey," photoplay coming Friday to the Stanley instead of "One Sunday Afternoon," originally booked for opening that day.

Beery Parks Airplane In East and Sails

After Wallace Beery arrived at Newark airport in a flight of his own plane east from California, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, whose last role was in "Dinner at Eight," immediately sailed for Europe on the Berengaria, with his wife and three-year-old daughter, Carol. Beery's plane was placed in storage in Newark while the actor is abroad, and when he returns to New York, he will fly back to the coast.

Laurel and Hardy Get New Director

For the first time since Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy were teamed by Hal Roach several years ago, an outside director will put them through their paces in one of their feature comedies. William Seiter, well-known for his many screen successes, has been retained by Henry Ginsberg, general manager of the Roach studio at Culver City, Cal., to direct the comics' next feature picture, which will go into production shortly. At the same time it is announced that Glen Tryon, erstwhile comedy star, now a writer and gag man, will assist Frank Craven with the preparation of the story which is as yet untitled.

May Robson and Polly Moran Team

FASHION HINTS FOR FRESHMEN DESIRING TO LOOK OLDER

NO FRESH young freshman wants to look like a freshman. It is her fond hope that she'll shatter the illusion that a beginner at school always looks new. To thousands of eager young girls about to become this year's crop this story is written. It is in direct answer to unspoken questions about "what to wear that will be right on the campus." We've tried to drop a few clues in the right direction.

* * *

ALL THROUGH the day you'll look, we hope, trim and neat in an effortless way. Good, hardy sports clothes can do this trick for you. Wear them as if they belonged to you—as if you've lived in hardy sports clothes most of your life. Wellbred tweed suits, with numberless sweater and blouse changes, are our suggestion. On school grounds you can fairly live in the skirt-with-sweater changes. For trips to town, the same suit with plenty of bright satin blouses will do double duty. Or, for teas and such afternoon occasions, you may wear the smart well-made woolen dress, a velveteen shirt-waist type, or a tie-silk. These are absolutely new.

* * *

SHOES? TOP on the list are ghillies and oxfords, low-heeled for comfort. Don't forget that there's often a real hike between classes. Suede pumps are for dress-up purposes. At the same time, it's a good idea to wear suede gloves matching color of the shoe. Often a monotone dress can be brightened considerably simply by adding wine-red or Hunter's green suede gauntlets. For campus wear, gloves need to be sturdy, therefore pigskin or leather are preferable.

* * *

HATS MUST be simple. That's an ABC to be sure to take back with you. Bring along your old riding hat, for you'll find it loads of fun to pull it on with slouch clothes. Two hats in the sketch are excellent examples for new ones. On the left, a sailor in felt. There's absolutely nothing to it, but that's what makes it so unmistakably correct. The other, a trick little fatigue cap, may be chosen in felt, velveteen, duvetyne or suede, for town wear and weekends.

* * *

BOTH DRESSES sketched here should appeal to you, for they're young yet sophisticated in the right way. On the left, a fuzzy ribbed woolen, simple as can be and utterly smart, but this time with a crisp, flaring touch. Good for numberless occasions.

* * *

COLORS THAT are favorites on college grounds are the browns, which come first; then greens, some of which are mustard-like, others darker and more coppery; also wine-reds, stone-blues and grays. These aren't as drab as you might think, for college girls have a way of accenting them with Chinese reds, yellows and browns, either with cravats, belts, hankies or kerchieves knotted about the neck.

* * *

* * *

IN THE EVENING forget your tailored type. Go appealingly feminine, but be svelte. From shoulders to knees there must be one slim, unbroken line. Then comes the flare below. But more about this evening picture in another story. Also a report on coats.

G. A. R. LEADER'S RITES SET

OIL CITY, Pa., Sept. 6.—Full military honors will be accorded Thursday to the memory of A. M. Breckenridge, 88, Civil War veteran and former Pennsylvania department commander of the G. A. R., who died as the result of a fall.

Mr. Breckenridge served in the 195th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. After the war he was for a time a resident of Pittsburgh, being identified with the Keystone Bridge Company. Since 1875 he had lived here, and was commander of two posts of the G. A. R. In 1925 he was elected department commander.

Wounded Coal Strike Pickets Recover

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 6.—Although nearly 50 miners were injured in clashes during the recent bituminous strike, but one death—that of Louis Podorsky, Allison World War veteran—will go down on the records.

PUPILS BARRED IN TUITION ROW

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 6.—South Brownsville High School refused admission to 126 students from West Brownsville and Brownsville Township yesterday until assured of delinquent and new tuitions amounting to more than $22,000.

Officials of the two defaulting school districts said repeated appeals to the state for financial assistance have failed. A new appeal was dispatched to Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction.

Acquitted of Charge Of Aiding in Escape

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—Foster L. Dunlap, Latrobe, tried here charged with aiding Patsy Tierno, of Salem Township, to escape from the Torrance State Hospital last May 29, was acquitted in a directed verdict.

Largest Freshman Class in Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—Greensburg High School boasts the largest freshman class in its history, with 338 entered yesterday at the school's opening. The school enrollment is 1,360.

You and your Camay Complexion—

Will Open the Eyes of the Town!

Another Beauty Contest Won!

Are you the mistress of a skin with a beauty undiscovered by the world? Then, by all means, get yourself a Camay Complexion and you will open the eyes of the town.

People who used to pass you up will be struck with admiration, for, in the great Beauty Contest of life, a clear, soft skin invites compliments and praise.

CAMAY GIVES YOUR SKIN A RADIANT SOFTNESS

Camay is made for the feminine skin—as soft and gentle as your finest cream! A 1933 soap—pure creamy-white as a beauty soap should be.

Perfumed as if it came from Paris, smart as the newest dress from Vogue, luxuriant in its lather, Camay is just made to give you a clean and girlish skin.

"I overheard two men remark the other evening how young I look," said a matron past forty. "It made me all the more grateful for what Camay has done for my skin."

"No two women have the same kind of skin," said a smart, athletic-looking girl. "But I'll warrant Camay can improve any girl's complexion. It certainly helped mine!"

TRY CAMAY NOW AND CONVINCE YOURSELF

Since the secret of the new Camay is out, startling things have happened to feminine choice among fine soaps.

Ask your friends—the best informed women you know. For Camay is a 1933 soap—the smartest looking, best feeling soap of the year. And it's amazing to note that—in spite of its low price—the smartest women, in the best society, in the most fashionable cities, were the first to embrace its use.

Write the beauty editor of any great magazine. Ask her about Camay. The choice of your soap is a serious matter and you ought to have the facts.

BUCS, GIANTS RESUME DUEL WITH DOUBLEHEADER

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Pirate Task Only Begun.
Third Win Over Hubbell.
Brave-Red Shutout Race.
Great Catchers Ranked.
Job of Replacing Heller.
Tradition Offers Hope.

NEAR-SWEEP REQUIRED FOR FLAG CHANCE

It would be hard to imagine a more encouraging start than the Pirates made in the important Giant series by trouncing the league leaders and routing the great Carl Hubbell into the bargain, but a glance at the standing of the clubs today showed that the work of the Bucs had only begun. There's a great deal more ahead if the series is to be made to count for anything. Nothing less than four out of five will do the Rovers a bit of good as far as the pennant is concerned. If the Terry's win two contests in the string, Pittsburgh will gain only one game on them in the series, and the New Yorkers will leave town Friday night with a first-place margin of six and a half games. Catching them after that would be practically out of the question.

Larry French

The baseball fates owed Larry French his success over the Giants yesterday, as the breaks had gone against him nearly all season in competition with New York, in spite of his consistently good pitching. This was only his second victory over the leaders against three defeats, and of his three reverses one was suffered in 11 innings through errors, another in 10 innings due to one of Hughey Critz's semi-annual home runs, and the third by a score of 1 to 0.

BUCS RANK FIRST AT BEATING HUBBELL

As a rule, when Carl Hubbell is beaten it's just because he has an off day on which he isn't clicking just rightly, one of those days that come to all hurlers when control is a bit shy or when other slab stuff won't work properly. The Pirates have been more fortunate than any other club in meeting up with the Giant ace on days of that sort.

At any rate they have beaten him oftener than has any other foe, for yesterday's victory was the third scored over him this year, though it was preceded by a stretch of a different kind in which he held them to one run in three straight games. Of Hubbells' seven other defeats, two were administered by the Braves, two by the Dodgers, and one each by the Cubs, Cards and Phils. The Bucs probably will have to reckon with him again on Friday.

BRAVES AND REDS LEAD AS SHUTOUT VICTIMS

The Braves and the Reds share one questionable distinction. They have suffered more shutout defeats than any other club in the major leagues. Each has been blanked no fewer than 17 times.

Only the Giants have been involved oftener than Boston in games in which one side failed to score. The Terrys have been mixed up in 30 such contests, winning 22 and losing eight. McKechnie's men have figured in 29, having dished out 12 shutouts in addition to the 17 in which they were on the wrong end. The Reds have played a part in 27 blanks, winning 10. In addition to being shut out 17 times, the Reds have lost 28 games by one run, being second only to the Red Sox, who have dropped 29 by that margin.

GIBSON RANKED WITH GREATEST CATCHERS

Frank Bowerman, who came here from the Baltimore Orioles to catch for the Pirates in 1898 and 1899, and later starred for the Giants and Braves, managing the Boston club for part of the 1909 season, paid a visit to the Detroit ball park from his home in Romeo, Mich., and fell to talking of the greatest catchers the game has known. He put George Gibson, Pirate manager, right up among the leaders.

George Gibson

The greatest of all, Bowerman said, was Buck Ewing, and next to him was ranked Marty Bergen. Present-day fans know little of Bergen, but he was a star for the Boston Nationals before his career came to a tragic end early in 1900, when, becoming violently insane, he killed his wife, two children and himself. The other great catchers of the past named by Bowerman as ranking right behind Ewing and Bergen were Gibson, for the Pirates, and Johnny Kling and Jimmy Archer, for the old Cubs. Bowerman does not consider Roger Bresnahan as having been quite as good as the others named.

FILLING HELLER'S SHOES PITT'S PROBLEM

With George Shotwell and Nick Kliskey for center, Si Meredith and Stan Olejnicsak for tackle, and Harvey Rooker for end, Pitt's football followers are not worried much about the job of replacing Joe Tormey, Paul Cuba and Ted Dailey at the positions mentioned. But Warren Heller, everybody's choice for all-America left halfback last year, has left something behind that looks uncommonly like a vacuum. How that boy could run, block, pass and tackle! Who will take Heller's place?

The outlook isn't hopeless if you have any faith in tradition. It's a funny thing about Pitt left halfbacks. When Gibby Welch was running, no one thought he would have a worthy sucecssor for quite a few years.

UANSA COMES IN TO PLUG BIG HOLE

But the following season Tony Uansa was there. As a sub for Welch, Uansa had not appeared to have much of what it takes, but as soon as Toby got the regular starting assignment he was poison to all of Pitt's opponents.

And when Uansa wound up his career the wail went up that Pitt's chances for another great team had been shot to pieces. Who was this rookie, Heller, slated for Toby's place? He had never been a regular on even the freshman team. Yet Heller rose to the heights of stardom.

O'DELL OR MALARKEY MAY BE ANSWER

It may be that Coach Sutherland has a new trump card up his sleeve for the 1933 season, or it may be that the run of good left halfbacks is over after eight years. The answer rests with two men. One of them is Howdie O'Dell. He has subbed for Heller for two seasons, sometimes as a second stringer, sometimes as a third stringer. He didn't look a bit better last fall than Uansa did when the latter was subbing for Welch. And, like Heller, he couldn't make the freshman team.

Howdie O'Dell

But no one hangs around a Pitt football field for three years without absorbing a lot of gridiron savvy. And O'Dell, for all his mere 155 pounds, can perform all the mechanical stunts. However, if Howdie flivvers, there is Leo Malarkey, a versatile young sophomore, who is a triple-threat back, and who lacks only experience. He may prove to be another Welch or Heller in the making and grab himself a regular job his first year out. One of these two, O'Dell or Malarkey, will have to do. There is hope, in the light of past events at the position, that one or the other will come through, and Pitt will keep right on having good left halfbacks—and good football teams.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

High spot in the Pirates' 6-1 victory over the New York Giants in the first game of their series at Forbes Field yesterday. With the bases full and two out in the fifth inning, Peel hit a hard grounder down the first base line, and, when Pitcher French failed to get over to cover the bag, with all of the base runners moving around the paths, Suhr had to dash for first base and slide in to beat the batter and retire the side, as pictured. Suhr's work saved at least two runs and possibly the game, for the Giants were rallying hard and had filled the bases after the first two batters had been retired. The defeat was charged against the Giants' brilliant southpaw hurler, Carl Hubbell, who has 20 victories and 10 shutouts to his credit. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

PANTHERS NOT TO TRAIN AT WINDBER

By JESS CARVER

The University of Pittsburgh football squad will not train at Camp Hamilton, its mountain retreat outside of Windber, Pa., this year.

During the early part of the summer, the field at Camp Hamilton was graded and resurfaced, but heavy rains, causing three washouts, completely ruined the setup. Yesterday, Director of Athletics Don Harrison and Coach Jock Sutherland inspected the field and decided to pass it up as a training site.

Efforts will be made to arrange for another camp site outside the city, but, if arrangements fail, the Panthers may train on the practice field on the campus.

JOE GATES STARS

If Joe Gates, latest gridiron hope and pride of Windber, turns out to be the quarterback Elmer Layden hopes, the situation with the Dukes will be right hotsy-totsy, to say nothing of hunky-dory, swell, okie-oke and even spiffy.

If he doesn't . . . well, that will be another story.

Right now, Coach Elmer is just about set on a first team lineup. He had better be, for the Dukes' opening game, with Waynesburg's tough Yellow Jackets only, let's see, 10 days away, and when you are only 10 days away from your opening game, you practically are EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THIRTY TIMES GOVERNOR—Samuel Cranston, son of Governor John Cranston and nephew of Governor Clarke, was born in Newport in 1659. As a young man he went to sea, was captured by pirates and was given up as dead by his young wife. On the evening set for his wife's remarriage to another man, Cranston made a dramatic reappearance. He was first elected Governor of Rhode Island in 1698 and then was re-elected 29 times in succession, the largest number of times any man ever has successfully competed for elective office. He died in his thirtieth term, in 1727. A REAL LIFE SAVER—Frank Siler, who is working his ninth season as life guard in Chicago, has saved more than 400 people from drowning in the Lake Michigan surf in these nine years, 130 of them during his first year at the Oak Street Beach, Chicago, when he was only 14 years old.

PIRATES EAGER TO CUT LEAD OF TERRYS

of the Bucs in the National League pennant fight.

FIRST INNING

NEW YORK—Moore was thrown out by Traynor. Critz singled to center. Terry singled to center, Critz going to third. Ott singled to center, scoring Critz. Terry taking second. O'Doul fanned as Terry and Ott worked a double steal. Traynor threw out Jackson. One run, three hits.

PITTSBURGH—Jensen singled to left. Lindstrom singled to right, Jensen going to third. P. Waner flied to Ott, Jensen scoring after the catch. Traynor flied to Moore. Vaughan singled to center, Lindstrom going to third. Suhr fouled out to Jackson. One run, three hits.

SECOND INNING

NEW YORK—Mancuso singled to left. Ryan popped to Thevenow. Fitzsimmons flied to P. Waner. Moore singled to left, Mancuso taking second. Critz forced Moore, Vaughan to Thevenow. Two hits.

THIRD INNING

FOURTH INNING

NEW YORK—Jackson flied to P. Waner. Mancuso singled to left. Ryan singled to center. Mancuso taking second. Fitzsimmons grounded into a double play, Traynor to Thevenow to Suhr. Two hits.

PITTSBURG—Suhr flied to Moore. Critz threw out Thevenow. Grace singled to right. Ryan threw out Swetonic. One hit.

FIFTH INNING

Wheeling Wins Second Half Flag

Associated Press.

At the top of the heap in the second half of the Mid-Atlantic League's pennant chase, Wheeling's sparkling Stogies will open a series with Zanesville Saturday for the circuit's 1933 championship.

Wheeling nailed down the second half flag yesterday with an 8-to-4 victory over Charleston. With only two games to play, the Stogies cannot be headed.

Zanesville, winner of the first half, gained a game on Dayton, beating the second-place Ducks, 7 to 6. By defeating the Ducks today and tomorrow, Zanesville can move into the second position.

Wheeling Races Flop, Meeling Off

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 6.—Today's program of the West Virginia State Fair racing meet was called off and it was indicated no further effort would be made to run here.

Lack of patronage and financial straits led to the action, the Wheeling Driving Club officials said.

FOUR SCHOOLS OPEN GRID SEASON FRIDAY

SCOTT TO PLAY UNIONTOWN IN NIGHT FRAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Four high school football teams will get the jump on their rivals Friday when they usher in their 1933 gridiron campaigns with regularly scheduled contests.

Out at Scott Field, North Braddock, Johnny Reed's Scott High eleven will face its first test of the season when A. J. Everhart brings his Uniontown High aggregation for a night battle with the Blue and White machine, while at Elizabeth, Coach Byler's newly-built eleven goes into action against South Huntingdon, a newcomer in W. P. I. A. L. competition.

The North Braddock fray brings together two of the topnotchers in the fight for the class A championship, while the Elizabeth-South Huntingdon battle involves two class B schools.

School Notes

Zadroga, who starred at basketball for Elizabeth High last winter, is making a determined bid for a regular position at halfback on the football team. He may play against South Huntingdon in the opener on Friday.

One of the non-league games arranged for Perry High School, city champion last year, is that with Shady Side Academy at Shady Side on October 5. Trixie Bennett, former Princeton star, is coach at Shady Side. While Perry has lost several sterling performers from last year's squad, Coach Chester Smith should not have any difficulty making replacements.

Coach A. Markley Barnes, popular mentor at Jeannette High School, co-champion in the Class AA division last season, is not pleased with the showing of his squad after a week in camp and some strenuous workouts have been ordered to eradicate the mistakes. Filling vacancies caused by the graduation of stars appears to be Barnes' main problem this fall. His present squad is a green one and will require a lot of attention before it is ready for the opener.

Two boys who are going to bear watching at Ford City this season are Joe Michaux at quarter and Johnny Thomas at half. Both boys were subs on the 1932 squad. Odeal Pryor, brilliant Negro flash at Ford City for four years, is gone, having enrolled at Wilburforce, and Coach John Ronse will look far and wide before he finds another like him.

Ted Rosenzweig, former Carnegie Tech star and now coach at Vandergrift High, has a squad of 36 candidates out for his 1933 team. Five of them are lettermen from last fall.

Freddie Lane and Charley James, two of the outstanding ball carriers on this year's New Castle High eleven, are showing their old form in the pre-season workouts, according to reports from the Lawrence County seat.

Owing to the fact he has obtained employment, Gizzi Winstone, one of the mainstays of the Monessen High eleven, has decided not to return to school. His loss is a blow to Coach Preston Ditty's backfield plans.

Prospects for a winning team at Shady Side Academy are bright as only four lettermen from last season are absent. Six tough games have been scheduled by Capt. William Palmer, athletic director.

Carnegie High School, under the coaching of Dick Schumacher, will play a tough schedule of 10 games this fall. The majority are with class A opponents. Fifteen lettermen from last season have departed.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Maybe you think that movie scrap between Primo Carnera and Max Baer in Hollywood the other day didn't mean anything . . . Maybe it was just for the dough that was in it, and a lot of fun . . . But can you imagine either Carnera or Baer overlooking the opportunity to get a line on each other for their battle next summer? . . . With Baer mentally making a note of just how tall the other guy is and Primo figuring out how to beat the other gent's roughness in the clinches? . . . Yeh, that movie fight didn't mean anything—MUCH.

If Bill Terry's New York Giants win the National League pennant this season—and who's going to stop them?—it will be the first time since 1924 that the flag has gone to an Eastern team. . . And this after New York had won four pennants in a row, from 1921 to 1924, inclusive . . . It's been a long time between drinks for the East. . . St. Louis, which never had won a National League pennant prior to 1926, has won four of them since the Giants last copped, and Pittsburgh and Chicago have won two each. Cincinnati being the only Western club to remain out of the running. . . Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati have won only one pennant each since the league was reorganized in 1900.

Ted Yarosz and his manager, Ray Foutts, went to more trouble getting to and from the County Fair to appear gratis at the amateur bouts last Saturday than they did for Teddy's bout with Vince Dundee, for which he received in excess of $4,500 . . . They were stymied in the traffic, as who wasn't?

James (Red) Mason writes from Chicago that he's picking Barney Ross to repeat his victory over Tony Canzoneri when they meet at the Polo Grounds in New York, next week, and Jack Sharkey to beat King Levinsky in Chicago . . . He thinks Sharkey has a chance to knock out the Kingfish, which is something none of the other fellows are doing, and says this bout ought to draw a tremendous gate, since Sharkey never has boxed in Chicago and Levinsky is a big card in his home town. —HARRY KECK.

PIRATES CHECK HUBBELL

The Pittsburgh Pirates were six and one-half games behind the league-leading Giants as the two clubs battled in a doubleheader at Forbes Field this afternoon.

Beaten yesterday, 6 to 1, with Carl Hubbell up, it was but natural that the Giants were worried this morning. Bill Terry came to town with the idea of giving the Buccos the Hubbell diet in two of the five games scheduled. Boss Gibson, however, had Larry French primed for Hubbell, and there is nothing French loves more than a good fight. He made the Giants jump through in the opener and he probably would have reeled off a shutout had it not been for a miscue.

Fred Lindstrom had some satisfaction yesterday as he personally shelled his former bunkmate off the slab. Lindy's scorching double to left in the fourth scored French with the fourth Pirate run and it shook Carl from cellar to attic, and that is a long distance.

The Giants scored their lone run in the fourth. Critz reached base on Vaughan's high throw. Terry forced him, but Peel singled and Ott doubled to score Terry. Ott's blow was almost a homer into the right stands.

The Pittsburgh Pirate management last night announced a change in the method of handling the women and girls invited to the parks Thursday of each week. Beginning with tomorrow, the ladies will be admitted to the park at the Schenley Park entrance, which is the same entrance used to admit the children on their days. Sections 1 to 7 in the right field stands will be allotted to the ladies.

Eddie Casey Outlines Grid Rule Changes

Member, All America Board of Football
(Reg. U. S. Pat. Office)

This is a year of changes and, as might be expected, the Rules Committee hands us a "new deal." The rule changes for 1933 are not many, but important and interesting.

There has been a deletion of words in some of the other rules to clarify and simplify the meaning, but actually there have been only two major changes which will effect the player and attract the spectators.

EDDIE CASEY

When the ball is within 10 yards of the sideline it shall be ruled as dead. That is the outstanding change. In other words, whenever the ball, in play, crosses this line or goes out of bounds, the ball will be brought in to a point 10 yards from the sideline. You will observe the official pace-off of the allowed 10 yards and place the ball in position for the next play. However, it is important to remember that unless the ball goes out of bounds, time will not be taken.

The football fan may ask what this means to the spectator. There will be one thing you will no longer see, the play near the sidelines where teams in the past have run the ball out of bounds purposely in order to gain the strategic position on the field.

NO WASTED DOWNS

In other words, the offensive team will not have to waste a precious down in the future. But, on the other hand, it will make quarterback strategy in this position a little easier, and in that respect save the signal-caller many embarrassing moments.

The other major change is in regard to clipping, and the penalty to be inflicted for the offense. Every folower of the game knows that clipping is dangerous and sometimes very injurious to a player. Heretofore clipping was defined as blocking a man from behind and hitting him from the knees down. This year's rule lists clipping as hitting him from behind, regardless of what place on his body.

Formerly, the penalty was 25 yards, but this was so severe that officials hesitated to call it when they saw it. The penalty now is changed to 15 yards, and the hope of the Rules Committee is that officials will be stern in stopping this abuse.

PROS TRY NEW RULE

Speaking of changes, professional football will introduce a new ruling all its own, in connection with the forward pass. The passed in pro games will be permitted to hurl the ball from any point behind the line of scrimmage. This is distinctly different from the college game in which a forward pass cannot be made unless the passer is five yards back of the line.

My opinion is that the pro football people anticipate free-scoring games, because this forward passing privilege will be a tremendous help and in my opinion will multiply the number of passing opportunities.

SHIELDS GIVES LOWDOWN ON COMEBACK

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Frank X. Shields, 6 feet 3 inches of former playboy, stretched out on a rubbing table at Forest Hills after winning his second round match in the men's national tennis championship, groaned as the masseur dug into a sore muscle, then grinned:

"So you want to know what happened to me, eh? What do you want to know that for?

"Well, I'll tell you. Do you remember the Jackson Heights tournament? That was where Gilbert Hall beat me in straight sets. That was where the 'cure' set in.

"I decided then and there that if I was going to make a career of tennis, I'd better get serious about it. I got serious, and that's all there is to it."

In today's third round, Shields faced a promising youngster in Don Turnbull, of Australia. Vines, seeking his third straight championship, went against Ted Avory, of England. Crawford, champion of England, France and Australia, was paired against Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, intercollegiate champion.

Other pairings pitted George Lott against R. Nunoi, of Japan; Gregory Mangin, national indoor titleholder, against John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, and Wood versus Gene Mako, of Los Angeles.

Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, of Pittsburgh, an unseeded entrant, scored the outstanding upset of yesterday's play when he eliminated Eikichi Itoh, of Japan, seeded seventh among the foreign stars, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. O'Loughlin meets Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, in the third round today.

DUKES WORK FOR OPENER

DE COSTER FIRST CHOICE

Frank DeCoster, bum toe and all, figures to get the first call for the varsity job, due to his experience. But, with the schedule they have in front of 'em, the Dukes hardly figure to get by with only one quarterbacker, unless DeCoster turns out to be a super man and you don't find many super men weighing 160 pounds and only five feet, nine inches or so tall. So Gates had better come through, and as far as that goes, speedy Joe Cutrona, the Freedom hopeful, isn't to be counted out. It's too bad Elmer can't play all three at once.

Tech's gridders went through their initial workouts of the season yesterday, with every member of the varsity squad, save Joe Brewer on hand. Coaches Harpster and Lovewell gave the squad both morning and afternoon workouts, with the greater part of the afternoon being spent in having the boys pose for the picture takers.

SQUAD DIVIDED

The squad has been split into two teams of 17 men each for the duration of training camp. These teams will indulge in various and sundry conditioning contests, with a prize of half a day's vacation awarded the winner later on. Colin (Lorain) Stewart, varsity captain, is the boss of one gang and Bernard O'Brien Burzio, veteran guard, the boss of the other.

The Tipoff

Hart Morris, one of the most underrated footballers ever to don a Pitt uniform, a star guard in 1930 and '31, is to assist Jack Harding at St. Thomas College, Scranton, this fall, succeeding Eddie Hirschberg, who has been added to the Pitt coaching staff.

Red Maban, line coach at West Virginia, took time out from trying to pick a winner at the Wheeling races Monday to report that the Mountaineers were figuring on having a snappy eleven; that Greasy Neale was out to beat Pitt and Harry Adam Stansbury had the depression licked.

Ub Lewis, Tech's rejuvenated end, has aspirations to do the kicking for the Plaid. He drilled several long ones in a workout yesterday. According to Red Stewart, however, the only kicking Lewis can do consistently is at the table.

CITY TOURNEY FAVORITES ADVANCE

By TOM BIRKS

Carl Kaufmann, six-times champion who won medalist honors yesterday with a 36-hole score of 133, won and helped to keep the ranks of the favorites intact for second round dueling. True, Pat McDonough and S. Walter Phillips, former champions, were defeated, but they lost to Francis Lally and Dr. C. S. Brandom, respectively, two stars who have been conceded strong title chances.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

E. Miller won by default from R. Och.
J. Andrews won by default from H. Hartzell.
L. Schwartz defeated M. Halahyak, 6 and 5.
A. Fineman won by default from J. Schulgold.
J. Rosenberg defeated J. Szels, 2 and 1.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Over in the National League squirrel cage the Atlantic seaboard may be blistered and bothered about the Giants and the Braves, but, personally, I would paste the poison label on the Chicago Cubs. And there isn't any antidote for them, either, the way the schedule reads.

Nick Altrock

The Cubs will spend practically the rest of the season at home, and if you think they're a soft proposition on Wrigley Field, your're climbing up the wrong stick of gum.

In the meantime, the Braves and Giants will be leaping about the Middle West, grabbing their meals at depot pie counters. And if they can stop the Cubs from whittling away their lead, it'll be a new feat in wood carving prevention.

I don't say the Cubs will snatch the National Loop rag. But, as a connoisseur of food, from artichoke to zweiback, I know what home cooking will for athletes. So watch out for another Grimm's fairy tale this season, when Charley has everything coming out lovely at the end.

Three Willow Club Boxers Get Wins

Three Willow Club boxers turned in victories and one met defeat last evening in the amateur boxing show staged by the St. Peter's A. A. in the Allegheny Stadium. Frankie Wingo, Phil Tumminelli and George Julius all won, while Patsy Contillio was beaten.

The card of six bouts was free of knockouts. The summary:

CITY LEAGUE NINES OPEN TITLE PLAY

The Books clash with Dormont at the Dormont High School Field this evening in the first game of the post-season series for the City League championship.

Dormont, first-half champions, is entitled to the first game, with the second battle scheduled for Olympia Park tomorrow evening.

On Sunday afternoon, at Greenlee Field, the Scott Morgan nine is booked to clash with the Immaculate Heart team in the final round of the Greater Pittsburgh elimination series. The winner will represent this district in the National Baseball Federation championship scheduled here September 15.

"Did he sock it! And is he safe! Boy, and won't I enjoy my Iron City after this game!"

CRONIN'S CREW 9½ GAMES IN FRONT

Associated Press.

While the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates were knocking the mighty Giants loose from their hats yesterday, the remainder of the National League was idle, and with only four teams seeing action in the American circuit.

The American League program was limited to a pair of doubleheaders which saw the Washington Senators increase their lead over the second place New York Yankees to 9½ games.

Washington took two games from the Boston Red Sox, winning the opener, 5 to 4, in 11 innings when Bill Werber's fumble gave them the odd run, and the second, 9 to 6, by bunching their hits in the late innings to better Boston's 18-hit attack.

The Yanks split a pair with the Philadelphia Athletics as home runs figured prominently. Jimmy Foxx walloped his fortieth in the opener as Roy Mahaffey pitched three-hit ball to give the A's a 6-to-1 triumph. Lou Gehrig's twenty-third started the Yanks off in the second game and they battered out a 9-to-6 triumph.

MAUREEN SETS COURSE MARK

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Living up to her reputation as a medal player, Maureen Orcutt, of the White Beeches Country Club, Hayworth, N. J., yesterday shot a 75 to win qualifying honors from a brilliant field in the annual Mason and Dixon women's golf championship.

Mrs. C. I. Wendt, of Pittsburgh, qualified for the championship flight with a 90 and today meets Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C. Mrs. L. G. Riley and Mrs. F. H. Stephens, both of Pittsburgh, qualified for the second-division play.

Two Soccer Loops Plan for Season

Two soccer organizations gathered last night at two special meetings. At Van Vooris, a confab of teams from the Marianna district was held with Cokeburg, Van Vooris, Ellsworth and Marianna on hand. Indications point to a first class circuit being organized.

A meeting of the Monongahela League has been set for Friday night at Broggi's at Gallatin, Monongahela, Victory Hill, Dunlevy, Manown and Roscoe have promised to attend.

The Keystone League had its first meeting at Bridgeville, and while organization plans are far from being completed, it was indicated that eight clubs would be in the fold.

2 Millvale Boxing Prelims Signed

Two five-round preliminaries have been signed for the boxing card at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night. They will pit Texas Kid, of Braddock, against Young Antonucci, of Oakland, and Jack Daleberone, of Springdale, against Dick Ambrose, of Bloomfield. One more five-rounder will be arranged.

In the two 10-round bouts, Mose Butch boxes Antol Kocsis, of Hungary, and Anson Green meets the Alabama Kid.

"So this is Pittsburgh," says Paul Moss, Purdue all-America end, as he arrives in town to join the local professional football squad. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

A new star player arrived at the Pennsylvania Station this morning from Terre Haute, Ind., to join Art Rooney's Pittsburgh team in the National Professional League. He is Paul Moss, all-America end at Purdue University last fall.

Dick Guy, business manager of the local pros, was on hand to greet Moss and arranged for his departure soon afterward for Newell's Grove, 55 miles from Pittsburgh, where the local squad is in training under the direction of Coach Jap Douds.

Cardinals, Chicago Pro Grid Team, Sold

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—The Cardinals, Chicago's pioneer professional football team, were under the ownership today of Charles W. Bidwill, a part owner of the Chicago Bears, following a deal in which Dr. David L. Jones sold his control of the older club.

The sale was announced last night and was said to have involved more than $50,000. Bidwill said he would dispose of his interest in the Bears at once, but that Dr. Jones would remain as president of the Cardinals during the coming season.

TROTTING MARK CLAIMED AT EBENSBURG

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—A world trotting record for a mile from a barrier start of 2:09¾ was claimed today for Great Atlantic, a chestnut gelding owned by Van Duren, of Lexington, Ky.

The mark of 2:10 was set in the second heat of the Charles F. Schwab handicap at the Cambria County Fair yesterday by Great Atlantic, who finished second in the event, however, to Winnie Dale.

Nora Scott, driven by Earl Pitman, at Mansfield, O., last year, held the former record of 2:10¼.

Starting Judge Joseph M. McGraw, of Washington, Pa., said the four heats were the fastest he recalls ever having been run in a similar event. The summary:

Winnie Dale, Charles Luber, York, Pa.	3	3	1	1
Great Atlantic, Van Buren, Lexington, Ky.	2	1	3	2
Nancy Nap, Harry Pickings, York, Pa.	1	2	4	3

Time—2:12¼, 2:10, 2:14, 2:09¾ (last heat paced).

The doubleheader will get under way at 8:15 o'clock. The Homestead Millers and Manhattan teams are in the championship fray, and the Grays will take on the McKees Rocks Hunting and Fishing Club team.

CALIFORNIA OIL HITS DOLLAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Standard Oil Company of California today had announced a boost of 15 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil paid at the Signal Oil Field. The new price is $1 a barrel on 27-degree gravity oil.

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Oil prices in the Mid-Continent crept closer to the dollar mark today as two of the most powerful private price-making agencies announced a top figure of 82 cents a barrel for best grades of Oklahoma and Kansas crude.

South Penn Oil Company announces an advance of 10 cents per barrel in Pennsylvania grade crude oil. New prices are South West Penn Pipe Lines, $2.02; Eureka Pipe Lines, $1.97; Buckeye Pipe Lines, $1.82.

Tide Water Oil Company, Ltd., announces a 10 cent advance in crude in New York Transit Lines and Bradford crude in National Transit Lines to $2.35 per barrel in both cases.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 35,000 barrels in the week ended September 2, totaling 2,721,400 barrels.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Crude oil production in the Bradford-Allegany fields last week increased 2,639 barrels, to 37,563 daily, as compared with the previous week, the Era says.

BUSINESS :: Investment Counsel—Racket or Boon To Thrifty?

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

(This is the first of a series of articles discussing the rise of investment counselors, their value to investors, and the weaknesses and abuses threatening this form of financial service.)

THE DEPRESSION with its disruption of the business of investment banking taught at least two lessons. It taught investors that they knew little of the science of employing their surplus funds. It taught many bond salesmen that they would have to find new jobs.

The events of recent years dried up a large share of the available new capital at the source. They destroyed public confidence in the organizations engaged in the business of underwriting new issues of stocks and bonds. Investment bankers who formerly did business on a nation-wide basis found themselves faced with a chorus of howls from their former customers. Accordingly they closed branch offices on a wholesale scale.

It became apparent that the ordinary investor was compelled to devote so much of his time to his immediate business that he could not properly handle the investment of his money. It was obvious that the average individual did not have the background or the knowledge to employ his funds to advantage outside of his immediate field of endeavor.

Investment Counsel Offers Solution

FOR MANY YEARS a few firms of established reputation have been providing investment counsel service in Europe as well as in this country. Following conservative principals the organizations in this field, where they were directed by men of experience and judgment, have been able to show good results. Institutions and individuals numbered among their clients escaped many of the pitfalls which spelled ruin to the average investor between 1929 and the present time.

Obviously this field was ripe for cultivation. Badly burned investors were ready to admit that they needed advice. The way was opened for the development of a business which was almost unheard of a few years ago.

The established investment counselors expanded their operations and a host of new organizations entered the field. Firms and individuals formerly engaged in the marketing of securities transferred their activities to the development of this almost new type of business. Out-of-job stock and bond salesmen began to hang out their shingles as investment counselors.

New Fields Usually Attract Charlatans

NEW FIELDS, unfortunately, attract charlatans. There is reason to believe that investment counsel service has not been an exception. Many firms in this type of endeavor are doing a good job. They are deserving of an important place in the field of finance and they are making every effort to be worthy of that place. Along with them are questionable organizations which threaten to make a racket of a type of service greatly needed by investors.

In this column an attempt will be made to assist investors in separating the worthy from the unworthy in selecting investment counsel.

Packard Advances New Model Price

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—Packard Motor Car Company announces its new line of 1934 models, ranging in price from $2,350 to $4,750, compared with the previous range of $2,150 to $4,650.

RESERVE BANK LOANS GAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement as of August 30 shows an increase for the week of $49,000,000 in net demand deopsits and of $28,000,000 in loans. Holdings of United States government securities decreased $24,000,000. Borrowing from reserve banks rose $2,000,000.

Loans on securities totaled $3,766,000,000 an increase of $29,000,000. All other loans aggregated $4,767,000,000, a decrease of $1,000,000.

CORPORATE FINANCING

AN investment organization, with facilities for handling corporate offerings, will consider the distribution of stock or bond issues. This organization can distribute meritorious securities on an attractive basis to the issuing company as well as to the investor.

This is an opportunity for a successful going concern with limited capital to secure the additional funds necessary for the further expansion of its earning power or for other legitimate purposes. Correspondence will be held in confidence.

"$3500 SAVING A YEAR WITH IRON FIREMAN," says Columbia Hospital

• The two Iron Fireman Automatic Coal Burners shown above have proved real money-makers for the Columbia Hospital. We estimated that the installations would cut former hand firing fuel bills $3000 a year. Actual savings were 20% greater —$3500 for the first year's operation, or 43%. A third Iron Fireman was installed and the fuel saving went to 50%.

Such savings should not be ignored. If you pay fuel bills for an institution, business, home, or factory, you owe it to yourself to check Iron Fireman economies and betterments against your present method of firing. A survey of your heating or power plant by one of our engineers will tell you, quickly and completely, what Iron Fireman can do for you. Write or telephone for this free service. Iron Fireman is quickly installed in commercial boilers up to 250 h. p., and in homes. Purchase can be made on easy monthly payments.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER NOON DECLINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Skeptics of the advance were in the stock market saddle today, and leading equities, while not especially weak, retreated to somewhat lower levels.

From the start of the session stocks displayed a noticeable lack of enthusiasm for a resumption of the upswing. Dribbling sales depressed quotations moderately until just before noon, when the ticker tape speeded up under a brief liquidating spurt which brought losses of 1 to around 3 points. The sharp sell-off lasted only about half an hour and a mild recovery movement began. Trading volume, however, lagged on the rally. Grains were a trifle easy, but cotton and other commodities were fairly steady. Bonds were listlessly lower. The dollar did little in foreign exchange dealings.

Issues of Homestake Mining, McIntyre Porcupine, Standard Oil of New Jersey, National Distillers, Ohio Oil and some others were up fractionally to around a point. The rails were rather heavy. Union Pacific dropped 5, Delaware and Hudson 3, and Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York Central yielded 1 to 3 points. Others off 1 to 2 included Western Union, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Goodyear, American Tobacco B, Case, United States Smelting, United States Industrial Alcohol and United States Steel.

Estimates of a sizable decrease in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation for August did not aid steel shares. In some quarters the decline in the backlog was placed at nearly 200,000 tons. The company's report on unfilled business will be made public at noon Saturday.

Despite the apparent lack of support for various pivotal stocks, trading sentiment was not too pessimistic. The more conservative operators were of the opinion that, in the absence of any unusual news, the market probably would drift over the next week or so, with considerable irregularity prevailing in the more speculative groups.

Although the Street was pleased with the Vermont vote on the repeal question, there was no great rush for the alcohol shares. Notwithstanding the July break in the so-called "wet" section, market analysts point out that the shelving of the Eighteenth Amendment probably has been discounted to a large extent by some of the distillery stocks.

The decline in business failures for the last week of August, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, was cheering to financial quarters. The general upturn in trade, it was felt, accounted for the fact that in the week ended August 31, there were only 311 reported failures compared with 326 and 312, respectively, in the two preceding weeks and 549 in the same period a year ago.

That the public seemingly is still in a buying mood was shown by the August reports of the large chain stores. Sales of the W. T. Grant Co. were more than 13 per cent above those of the 1932 month, while the F. W. Woolworth Co. enjoyed an increase of 11.5 per cent. Sales of both companies showed a sharp gain over those of July.

Telephone Income Rises By Million

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—American Telephone and Telegraph Company report for July and seven months, covering operating activities only and excluding non-operating income, compares with like 1932 periods as follows:

	1933.	1932.
July gross	$ 7,700,538	$ 6,463,718
Seven months' gross	49,805,306	53,620,184
Net operating income	5,962,214	5,058,489

Bankers, Steel Officials, NRA Offered Tips

By B. C. FORBES

"AFTER LABOR DAY" did not immediately bring miracles. Both the security and the commodity markets yesterday were weakish.

READERS LATELY have been particularly active as letter-writers. Since public opinion, in the final analysis governs this democracy, it is interesting as well as important, to know how voters think and feel. Therefore, extracts are in order.

Mr. Forbes

"A constant reader for years" writes:

"After many years of practical banking, I can tell you that the reluctance of banks to make loans often is due to the attitude of the bank examiners. A bank will accept a loan which in its judgment is sound but which cannot be liquidated at any moment. A bank examiner, on finding the loan has been renewed, issues this ultimatum: 'Collect or charge off.'

"The NRA and R. F. C. should urge on the banking authorities a liberal policy to modify this policy."

H. B. BLAKE writes, in part:

"I wish to thank you for your column on old employes. I am one of the victims.

"Do you not miss the main point in age, which is experience? Is not experience actually our only guide to success? Bradstreet's once estimated that about 60 per cent of failures were caused by lack of experience.

"I have always been against old-age pensions. But I am being forced to the conclusion that if industry will not allow its old men to earn a living, which in most cases is their most intense desire, then industry should support them.

"Pity for old men is not going to solve the problem, but, rather, appreciation of the real value of their experience."

"YOURS IN disgust, J. L. R.," writes:

"Say, you blankety-blank son-of-a-gun, somebody ought to take you for a ride. You must be a Republican. Be a booster, not a knocker."

FROM C. L. Goodwin:

"I am glad that someone dares to say something in behalf of the small business man. I am an officer of a small manufacturing company which has run at a loss for three years, though before that it was profitable.

"We employ an aged, decrepit Negro as night watchman. All he is capable of doing is to punch the watchman's clock and in winter keep up the fire to keep himself warm. His wages under the NRA code must be $37.10 per week! . . ."

L. C. WARREN writes, in part:

"My, what a yell the slackers are making about profits. Little do the slackers care about profits or incomes of the unemployed. My hope is President Roosevelt will show them their place.

"Tell the steel industry, especially Big Steel (U. S. Steel Corporation) to place their own house in order and to go along with the President instead of using every avenue of opposition and creating suspicion.

"The object of NRA is to share work, not increase profits."

FROM another reader:

"I own three companies, employing altogether approximately 500 men. The one thing the government seems to have forgotten is, 'Where are the small businesses that employ the bulk of the people going to get the money to comply with the President's code?'

"Although my assets are large and my quick assets are many times my indebtedness, it has simply been impossible to borrow any money to carry on our business. There are thousands in the same condition. The government should allow small companies access to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

ONE READER asking that his name be not used says, in part:

"Bank inspectors, receivers, conservators have given cowardly bankers the jitters, so that instead of being 30 per cent liquid, they are from 75 to 110 per cent 'dripping wet,' yet they are reluctant to lend a dime on listed collateral.

"People need patience and kindness from government representatives, including bank inspectors, conservators and receivers."

ISN'T IT true that all of us need not only patience, but pluck, perseverance, faith?

Investment Trust Sues N. Y. Markets

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—Gene McCann & Co. today had started civil action in Federal Court to sue the governors of the New York Stock Exchange, Richard Whitney as president, the New York Stock and Curb exchanges as organizations, and the 7 members of the New York group of the Investment Bankers 'Association, for $15,000,000, charging conspiracy to boycott an investment trust sponsored by McCann & Co.

MARKET KEPT INACTIVE BY UNCERTAINTY

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—As nearly as one can guess under such artificial uncertainties as now prevail, it seems that another week or two of hesitation and dullness are likely. It would be logical, therefore, if the stock market should merely back and fill for a while.

Financial and investment forces at the moment appear to be on a sort of dead center again. Further inflation seems to many to be the chief factor to watch. But the administration seems unwilling to take any immediate step in this direction.

MORE LOANS NEEDED

The reasons for this hesitation seem fairly clear. The government has been considering refunding certain bond issues, and will have to do further borrowing. But any uncertainty as to a possible decline in the dollar would make new financing difficult.

Furthermore, the action of the pound sterling last week shows that if we depreciate the dollar further, we are likely to find ourselves competing with England in a race to reduce the exchange values of our currencies.

Such a development could easily have extremely disturbing results, and neither Washington nor London probably desires it.

Of course, the bad results of the summer's sharp inflationary rise are now apparent in the shape of a reaction in prices and business. The administration is therefore trying to "create purchasing power" by pushing the NRA program. It hopes to raise up buying to take care of the excess production which was stimulated by the rapid depreciation of the dollar.

CONSUMER INCOME DOUBT

Pending the outcome of this campaign, some hesitation is natural. Will the incomes of consumers catch up with production at the higher prices?

This question has an obvious bearing on the stock market, for it suggests the possibility that the profits of corporations may be disappointing. Labor costs have been increased. Raw material prices have been raised faster than the prices of finished goods in many cases.

And consumers who are not too deeply in debt have either anticipated requirements or are likely to curtail buying as prices are raised.

After all, stocks are equities in the earnings of producers, and if many corporations are to operate at small profits, stocks are left too dependent upon "inflation psychology" to be attractive at higher prices.

FEARS NEW DIFFICULTIES

The market should, however, await either the outcome of government control over business as affecting earnings, or a shot of real inflation as affecting sentiment. These are likely to remain uncertain, at least until mid-September.

Hopes that underneath all the manipulation a real natural recovery in business has begun, are entertained by some. I myself had expected recovery this fall, and now am afraid only that our haste has produced new maladjustments which may prolong the period of unsettlement, and delay our return to normal prosperity.

MARKET PROFESSIONAL

The market of late has seemed highly professional, with little public following. Its performance last Tuesday and subsequently suggests that both buyers and sellers are timed. The sagging trend of the bond market suggests that speculative bonds have fully discounted inflation, and that investors fear a depreciated currency too much to buy high-grade issues.

I would continue to hold good gold mining shares as a hedge against the dollar, and the better oils should be able to make some response to higher prices for petroleum and gasoline. In the main, however, the market should hesitate for a while.

CURB SPOTTY, TRADE DULL

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP.)—A further trickle of selling affected the Curb in spots today. Trading was again dull in most departments and it was apparent that the market was still in a waiting mood.

Thinness characterized the movement of a number of issues. Among these, New Jersey Zinc lost several points on a few sales. Philip Morris "A," on which dividend accumulations are being paid off, rallied nearly 4 on a couple of early transactions. The first transfer in Aluminum Ltd. found the price 3 points lower.

Utilities were quiet and fairly steady. Oils moved narrowly as further price advances in crude were announced. Vermont's repeal vote had little effect on alcohol issues, which made small changes.

New Gold Edict Boosts Mining Profits

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The first evidence of the effect of gold orders on mining companies is afforded by Alaska Juneau Gold Mining Company's August estimate of operations, showing a profit before charges of $216,500. Of this amount, $110,000, or 50.8 per cent, represents estimated premium on production based on current market and exchange quotations. The August showing compares with $111,700 in July and $101,700 in August, 1932, and brings the total for the first eight months this year to $939,500, compared with $759,500 in the like 1932 period.

It's hard to describe the view on the bottom, though in general contour the floor of the sea is like the ground ashore. If it is clean sand, there will be ripples on it, formed by the currents.

A mud bottom is a smooth, slimy plain with little rises and hollows, just as on land, and the smooth, slick surface of the mud is unbroken except where a torpedo may have burrowed in and left a hump behind it, or a ship may have dragged its anchor and cut a furrow.

Seaweed grows only near the shoreline, and eel grass only where fresh water comes down some river and mixes with the salt.

I hated eel grass more than any other marine growth. It's terribly tough and grows as long as 20 feet. It fouls your life lines and holds you back, and you exhaust yourself trying to force your way through it.

Diving at night is almost entirely by feeling. Though we had powerful submarine lamps, they were slight help. Sand and mud would stir up all around you wherever you moved, and the water was so full of drifting particles that they looked, in the bright lamplight, like a blinding snowstorm.

But night diving is a colorful job when the water is "firing," as seafaring people say; that is, when it's phosphorescent. Wherever you move your hands you carve streaks of flame in the water.

Terrors of the Deep

If you move your hand in a circle it's like whirling a glowing camp fire ember, or a Fourth of July sparkler in the dark.

I was terrified by the fish that used to swim around me on the bottom, the first few times I went down. I have already told you that sharks were thick along the coast that summer, and every time I saw a haddock or codfish coming toward me, it looked like a shark through the thick glass in my helmet.

After a while I got so used to them that I even fed them by hand, whole schools of them.

I stepped on a waterlogged beam on the bottom, one time. It was thickly coated with tiny blue mussels, a miniature shellfish, and the heavy soles of my diving suit crushed a lot of them.

Instantly a huge school of fish swarmed around me, attracted by the particles of meat from the mussels. I was waiting for some tools to be lowered from the diving boat, so I sat down on the beam and crushed handfulls of shells in my fists, and the fish ate out of my hands.

Speaking of fish, funny things happen to divers sometimes. Jay Surratt, a diving companion of mine, was working on the submarine S-5, after she had sunk in 150 feet of water 40 miles off Cape May.

He was sitting on the stern of the sunken S-boat, waiting for some tools to be sent down from the diving boat, and flapping his arms to keep up his circulation.

A Puzzled Fish

He didn't pay much attention to it for a while, thinking it was the end of a rope or something, but presently leaned forward to see what it was, and caught a glimpse of a tremendous fishtail going by, just below his feet. The tail happened to be the propelling gear of a huge, man-eating shark!

Surratt jumped to his feet and jerked the double-edged diver's knife, as long as a bayonet, out of the sheath on his belt, and tested its blade with his thumb. He later told me that no knife ever seemed so dull.

Meanwhile, the shark made three circles around Surratt, apparently trying to make up his mind where to bite him first. The monster would stop once in a while and stare at Jay, with his small, piggy eyes. His ugly mouth would open and close, showing his wicked, killer's teeth (which was simply his way of breathing) and Jay said that the display of teeth was exactly like the fiendish laugh of the old-time movie villain.

Evidently the shark decided that the strange looking diver was too much of a puzzle for him, for he finally spiraled toward the surface and disappeared.

The torpedo station is at Newport, as I have said, and the testing range nearby in Narragansett Bay. Firing practice goes on incessantly, and a force of Navy divers is kept busy recovering torpedoes that have sunk to the bottom of the bay.

I found a torpedo, once, that had sunk stern-fast to the bottom. It has eased down gently in 60 feet of water, stern-first, and stood upright in the mud, like a submarine monument.

I tried to push it over, to bend a salvage line onto the ring in its nose, but the mud held it fast, and there was nothing to do but try to shinny it up.

Torpedoes are heavily greased, to slide through the water the more easily, and protect them from rust, and most of the grease was still on this one.

It was like climbing a greased pole, and the going was pretty slippery. While I was working on it, my foot tripped the starting lever.

There was still considerable pressure in the air flask, and the propellers behind me began to spin in the mud. If I let go, she would start for the surface like a rocket, and on the way up spinning propellers would rip me open clear up to my metal breastplate.

So, I hung onto it like a leech. It washed itself clear of the mud and started for the surface, and I stayed right with it until it reached the top. The diving boat hurried to my rescue, and took my seagoing rocket out of my terrified clutches.

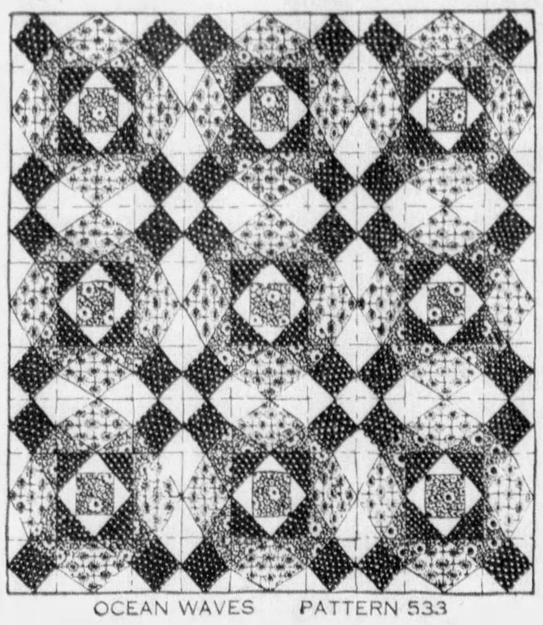
OLD-TIME FAVORITE



OCEAN WAVES PATTERN 533

By LAURA WHEELER

Among the old-time quilts there were certain favorites which are winning the heart of the quiltmaker today just as they did that of the needlewoman of long ago. These quilts invariably are outstanding in beauty of design and simplicity of structure. Ocean Waves, known in some localities as Rolling Stone, is one of these. Though all the pattern pieces are in straight lines, their clever arrangement gives the effect of waves, adding a flow of line to the pattern that is most attractive. This quilt is handsome made of four materials as illustrated. Color suggestions for this arrangement are included in the pattern.

Pattern 533 comes to you with complete, simple, instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

What are you planning for fall, fellows?

A good captain will be thinking up some wonderful good times for his members these days. Fall is really one of the best times of the whole year to go on hikes and to have corn roasts and outings.

The weather is usually pleasant during September and October. Let us know here at Headquarters any good times you have. But we want to remember too that fall is a time when we want to begin to help others more than ever.

For one thing, 500,000 kids are going back to school. That makes the highways and streets more dangerous. For another thing, winter and cool fall weather coming on makes lots of poor people need warm clothes again—and the need for food is greater. Food is never quite so plentiful during the fall and winter as it is during the summer. Suppose you and your family have a lot of old clothes that aren't any good to you anymore—well, it is likely that lots of poor people could make mighty good use of them to keep warm. Take your old clothes to welfare agencies, fellows—that's one way to help others.

Is there a Junior Patrol chapter in the neighborhood of Liverpool street, North Side? Today, we got pledges from Norma King, Raymond King, and Jean Burton, all of 1219 Liverpool street, North Side. If a chapter meets near their home, please look them up, captain.

What is to happen to the 1,258 former prohibition agents who have been pried loose from the government payroll?

SHIRT

This is the song of the shirt:
Growl and guzzle and flirt;
Rave to the frenzy of prize fights;
Gamble and gambol and stay out nights;
Gather your amours where you may;
Marry a wife and do her dirt,
That is the song of the shirt.

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Dear A. Bella—
Explain, if you will, the lunar parallax, and make it snappy.
Professor.

Ans.—Aunt Bella does not consider the question, phrased as it is, to be a mandate from a bona fide subscriber. Her answer is, therefore, "Nuts to you, professor!" And she might add, "Nuts to the lunar parallax."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Do you realize that the fat woman is disappearing from the face of the earth? 'Tis true. What the gels are striving for now is slenderness and that is not scrawniness. It is the ideal figure. It can be acquired by any woman who is in good health, be she fat or thin. The formula? A balanced diet, daily exercise out of doors, plenty of water inside and out, regular hours for sleep. This same formula makes for health and well-being.

Gooseflesh is a worry to some of the candidates for good looks. Tiny red points deprive the skin of smoothness and velvety appearance. After the bath, friction the skin surface with coconut oil. Don't forget that the rubbing is an important part of the treatment. While the oil remains on, dust the flesh with borated talcum. Do a light tapping! The oil and powder will form a beautifying pack, be productive of surprising and satisfactory results.

Never clean nail eaves with a metal instrument which so roughens the under surface that dust and grime sticks stubbornly. The proper medium is the orange wood stick which should be whittled fairly flat with a rounded end.

How to Butter Bread

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

From your slice of bread break off a small piece, rest it on the edge of the bread-and-butter plate, butter it, and eat this piece before you break off the next piece. If no bread-and-butter plate is provided, rest the small piece of bread on the edge of the regular plate.

Don't, please, butter the whole slice of bread at once. You can see for yourself how awkward this looks—and how greedy!

The Highest Education

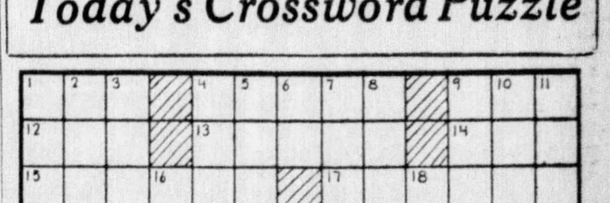
Colleges are again opening up under the old management. The football season raises its shy head and the dean is dusting off the stadium.

Where shall we send the boy where he will get the maximum of photographs with the minimum of wallops on the bean? Every boy can't go to Notre Dame or Southern California. Some boys are born to be crushed unseen and waste their sweatness on the deserted air.

Harvard? Well, that was a husky old huddle they had last year. Even the umpire couldn't penetrate it. Yale? Well, if you can't get a diploma you are sure of an autographed copy of Boola Boola.

Princeton? Harvard claims the Tigers are ruffians. They have an unpleasant habit of jumping on your face and establishing a legal residence there.

Notre Dame? Too many football players in that institution of science and research. If you cannot make the fifteenth team you might as well buy a saxaphone and go back to Yale.



West Point? They're going to play football in their full dress uniforms. Their opponents are sure of a chance to bite off plenty of buttons. The Navy ain't a bad place for an earnest young lad who was sent there by a senator because he was the terror of the senator's neighborhood.

You can't go to Oxford unless you win a Rhodes scholarship. That means classrooms, cramming and books. Why bother to study when the alphabet has been condensed to NRA?

Nebraska and Minnesota are pleasant little alcoves. The football players weigh 200 pounds each and think a load of oyster shells is a downy couch. They have big feet and wear cleats on their soles. A worm's eye view of the bottom of a Nebraska shoe looks exactly like a plank road. Send your pretty boy there and there will be a tough looking stranger dropping in home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Stanford and California are neat little educational garages. Those boy marble champions knuckle down with cannonballs. Every play inside the five-yard line is a shave, shine, shampoo, singe and massage. The weak fall by the wayside and the strong flee to the hills. If your boy ain't got a chest like a bear you had better keep him home.

The Neglected Point

It Is Gratifying to Learn of Plans to Improve the Appearance of This Historic Neighborhood.

If there is any spot in Pittsburgh that should be hallowed ground it is the Point at which the Allegheny and Monongahela meet to form the Ohio.

Here is the gateway to the West, the portal through which passed the pioneers that made the United States a nation stretching from coast to coast.

Here history was made that altered the course of the world; here the French were turned back and the decision reached that the civilization of North America should be predominantly Anglo-Saxon and not Gallic.

The soil at the Point may well be regarded as sacred, bathed as it is in the blood of the many who lost their lives there in that epoch-making struggle.

Yet, strange as it seems, this historic spot, to which we would naturally take out-of-town visitors with pride; this Point from which a superb view of the rivers, the hills of Mt. Washington and of the North Side may be had, and which should be one of the most attractive places in the city, has an unspeakably shabby and neglected environment.

No Pittsburgher with a sense of civic pride can guide a visitor to the Point without feeling shame at having to conduct his guest through such a run-down neighborhood.

Let him take the guest along Duquesne way. The wharf, instead of being tidy and well kept, is overrun with weeds and strewed with rubbish. The old Exposition buildings are going to wrack and ruin. Burdock and ailanthis trees have sprung up wherever they can get a foothold. The place is infested with rats.

A wooden ramp has been built over Duquesne way at this point, leading to the Manchester Bridge. The street under the ramp apparently has been taken over by tramps. It is littered with fragments of food, and old newspapers, and filth. When this foul place has been passed one reaches the Point, where a little park of about one-fourth of an acre has been established—a little oasis of a quarter of an acre of tidiness surrounded by neglect and decay.

Our purpose in describing the environment of the Point is to call attention to the imperative need of improvement and to record our gratification over the announcement that plans are being formulated for the establishment of an auditorium seating 14,000, and amusement center in that neighborhood.

The plans seem to be rather shadowy as yet. The City Council, which controls the land involved, has not been consulted. But it is very encouraging just to know that someone is seriously thinking of trying to reclaim this historic spot from the ruin and decay into which it has fallen.

Regardless of what may be the outcome of the auditorium project, the wharf improvements contemplated by the city should be sufficiently comprehensive to permit of the redemption of the Point.

Be Sure to Register

The Polls Will Be Open for the Purpose Tomorrow—Better Not Put It Off.

Citizens of Pittsburgh may register for the primary election tomorrow, or on next Tuesday, or on Saturday of next week. The best plan is to attend to the duty tomorrow. There is an element of risk in putting it off; something may arise to prevent registration on the succeeding days.

The polls will be open for registration from 8 to 11 o'clock in the morning and from 5 to 11 in the evening, daylight saving time. You cannot register unless you have a tax receipt.

There seems a strong likelihood that many persons who ordinarily vote Republican will register as Democrats this year. Some of the Republican leaders are urging such persons to remain in the party in order that they may participate in the Republican primary next year, when the party's candidates for Governor, United States Senator, the Legislature and Congress are to be named. The answer to that is that a citizen may vote in the Democratic primary this year and then, by changing registration next spring, vote in the Republican primary, or vice versa, if he so desires.

An Unfair Code

Danger Is Seen in the Number of Hours That Airplane Pilots May Be Required to Work.

As submitted to the National Recovery Administration, the code for the air transport industry appears to be unfair to American pilots, unsafe for Americans who travel by air, and, therefore, unworthy of the President's approval.

Unless this proposed code is revised in several vital particulars, it ought to be rejected that this new and rapidly-developing industry may be put under a code drafted by the government, which will be fair to the public, the pilots and the industry.

The pilots protest the proposed code on two grounds:

First, that the minimum wage for pilots is too low.

Second, that the maximum work hours for pilots per month is too high.

Representatives of the air transport industry defend the code, partly upon the ground that the Department of Commerce, by its recent curtailments of essential aids to air navigation on federal airways, has increased the expense of operation and maintenance of American air transport.

To meet these additional costs, the industry apparently has felt it necessary to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of labor which commercial pilots contend are UNFAIR TO THEM AND DANGEROUS TO TRAVELERS BY AIR.

This protest of the pilots is reinforced by an eminent flight surgeon, Dr. Ralph Green, of Florida, former president of the Aero-Medical Association and holder of a transport license.

If the proposed code is not revised along the lines urged by the pilots, Dr. Green declares that it "WILL MERELY MEAN THAT LIVES ARE TO BE LOST IN ORDER THAT DOLLARS MAY BE SAVED."

A fortnight ago, the Hearst newspapers appealed to the Roosevelt administration "to end the raid of pork-barrel politicians upon the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce before the fatuously incompetent assistant secretary of commerce and his wrecking crew of peanut politicians have put in jeopardy the life of every American who flies."

The first bitter fruits of the "penny-wise and pound-foolish" economies, which the incompetents of the Department of Commerce threaten to apply to its aeronautics branch, are to be found in the unsatisfactory code for the air transport industry against which American pilots have so justly and fearlessly protested.

Feed the Birds!

By Nelson Harding

Start in this first month of Autumn,
In the early days of September,
To provide well for the Eagles,
For these birds depend upon you.

With good nourishment supply them
In the coming Fall and Winter,

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Happily Divorced

That charming writer, Adela Rogers St. Johns, doubts that a divorced couple can remain perfectly good friends. She suspects that lots of these "happily divorced" couples out in Hollywood are just kidding us when they declare that they have only the friendliest feelings for each other.

* * *

But, why not? If there is anything that would make you fond of a misfit mate, it would be the relief of getting RID of him—or her. You never see a man's good qualities or a woman's charms so clearly as when he—or she—is vanishing into the glamorous past!

* * *

The mere fact that you have once been married to a person shouldn't make you hate him. Just THINK of all the delightful men you know and with whom you enjoy talking, dining or even flirting, but who would be simply headaches or heartaches as husbands!

Or, if you are a man, think of all the girls you like to dance with and would like to kiss, but who would get on your nerves around the house!

* * *

Many a man who borrows your cigarets and has never earned a dollar in his life makes a charming friend and an ideal escort, but would be a complete FLOP as a husband and "provider." And many a man who always takes too many cocktails at parties is quite lovable and jolly good company if YOU are not the wife who has to take him home and put him to bed.

* * *

Oh, yes; the world is filled with delightful, interesting, lovable people that you or I might not care to be married to. But there is no reason to HATE anybody, just because you can't stand being married to him. There are lots and lots of gorgeous paintings and beautiful statues in Florence and Rome that you wouldn't have around the house and garden.

Of course, some of this post-divorce love-bird stuff out in Hollywood may be box-office hooey, or the publicity idea. But in Hollywood, where pulchritude and glamour and stage-kisses make the head so dizzy, people should be particularly generous toward their ex-husbands and ex-wives, after a marital mistake.

* * *

A fine friendship, as Miss St. Johns opines, is the best basis for a happy marriage—but it far oftener accompanies a happy divorce. Because it's far, far easier to feel friendly toward a man who is taking his toast and eggs out in Reno, than toward one who is growling about them just across the dinette table.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Not many American writers today are writing more realistically than Christopher Morley. If he writes of a woodland thing there is the crackle of twigs and the slither of mothers licking their young. His whimsical prose is the delight of nurseries as well as grown ups!

Morley does not run with the literary pack. He comes to the offices of the Saturday Review of Literature daily, which he helps edit, and is a commuter to a nearby suburb at sundown. No one sees him after nightfall. His most constant companions are his wife, four children and pipe.

He is a graduate of Haverford College in Pennsylvania, of which his father was president, and was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. No other person has discovered so many unusual lunching places off beaten byways. But when the path becomes worn he finds another. He founded the Three Hour for Lunch Club.

His sly experiment in re-discovering Hoboken and launching melodramas with hissing villains and virtue triumphant in 1928 nearly wrecked the Rialto. In his middle 40's, he has written more than 30 books, turned out newspaper columns in New York and Philadelphia and given literature much form and color.

People who live on thither side of the gulf and acquire reputations for coldness and rigidity always interest me. Eugene O'Neill is the most pronounced of the isolationists. Not once has he truckled to the mob. Those who know him well say he is far from being a snob. Among the few he likes he is warm and pliable. He simply has no interest in meaningless back-pats.

* * *

The archtype of a casting director's dream of a rich clubman in real life is Col. Anthony J. Drexel. His clothes are magnificent, running to violent striped trousers with morning jackets and white dinner clothes at night, each lapel delicately threaded with the ribbon of the Legion. His white mustaches are a triumph of cultivation and he is yet to be seen without a rimless monocle clapped in his right eye. As a topper off, his voice is of that rich port and Stilton quality and his anecdotes miraculous. O, yes! Ralph Adams Cram, architect of Princeton and St. John the Divine, is an ardent Jacobite. He lifts his glass "to the King over the water" nightly.

Down around Washington street is a section where old radios are deposited in last desperate effort of salesmanship—radios in extremis, radios suddenly pawned and radios up to the minute. Sidewalks are overflowing, as all the business seems outside. On Cortland street are the pert shops in a dazzle of bright lights and a hundred and one radios bleating full blast.

* * *

I wonder why it is that any show of life, no matter how fluttery, on a barge is so significant to those on land. The charm of Holland is watching its barges. Now and then browsing the water front I come suddenly upon a barge and idle a half hour—just peeping. This dusk I saw a large woman come out of the little cabin and hang an intimate bit of laundry on the line. She had that important air women have of making you feel her work is the hinge on which life turns. There are no swashbuckling or silly Spanish Main ideas about the barges. Everything is nice and tidy with a wipe-your-feet air.

Much of the charm of the Childs restaurants is gone for me because indifferent young women or white-capped young smart alecs no longer turn flap jacks in their windows. This was the most definite stirrer-up of hunger outside a long walk or stiff cocktail. It provided wholesome intimacy, too, a sort of look behind scenes. We all like to stand or sit leisurely and watch the other fellow work. The eminent Dr. Freud intimated it made our superiority complex purr.

There is, for example, a gentleman high up in the Chatham who has a back view of me, pajama clad, at my typewriter. He doesn't know I know that often when friends call in the late afternoon and conversation dips, he points me out. Now when I catch a flush of peering faces I try to be amusing. For instance just now, as they gathered I grabbed my throat and choked myself until my tongue hung out. Then I began yanking my hair and feigning to scream for help. As a finale, I unbelted a sock from the carpet to my jaw and drooped over the desk—out! It is doing much to enhance my reputation as a loon.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You want to do something big! Really big!

You're so weary of your old, shabby chores! How often you have drudged through them, until you know their every tiresome detail by heart! How you hate them and pity yourself because you have to do them!

Once you had such wonderful dreams—dreams of "really amounting to something," of doing splendid things which would make all the world applaud. Those dreams were like secret fire through your blood.

But now the fire has gone out and you're cold. Now the days mean nothing—only a succession of dreary chores—potatoes to boil—socks to mend—a car to clean—a bill to enter in the ledger.

If only you could do Something Big! Really Big! Something that would bring back the fire and song to life! You know you've got it in you. You could hang up a record, too, if only you had a chance. But what chance have you, drudging away like this? Who cares how you boil potatoes, how you enter that bill? What's the use?

Are you asking those questions? I've asked them, too, many a time. And once Pierre gave me an answer which has comforted me ever since.

Do you know Pierre's Place, with its small white tables, half way along that hill where the fog swirls up and the sun swoops down in San Francisco? A quiet place, but potent. For many a time Pierre's good soup and Pierre's wise words have put strength into the faltering soul as well as the hungry body. And so it was, at such a time, that Pierre told me the story of Giotto's O.

Giotto, as you probably know, was a famous painter of the fourteenth century, the greatest in all Italy. Even while he lived the world rang with his praises. Now at this time the Popes ruled with the magnificence of Czars, and Pope Benedict XI desired to adorn his palace with noble frescoes. So messengers were sent, commanding all leading artists to submit samples of their best work. And a great rivalry arose.

Splendid beyond description were the paintings which poured in, blazing with jeweled color, ruby and amethyst, topaz, sapphire and pearl—set in a wonder of carved and beaten gold—wrapped in trailing lengths of embroidered velvets! Splendid and proud as a procession of trumpets, in came the paintings of Italy's famous artists.

And then alone, and last of all, came an amazed and indignant messenger, bearing Giotto's offering.

What marvel would Giotto send? For days the envious had speculated. But, behold, there was no marvel at all. Only a simple piece of parchment, and on it, made with one sure stroke of his sensitive hand, a perfect circle.

But surely a thing like that could not triumph over those assembled glories? Yet it did. For so perfect was that circle—so marked with the assured craft of the master—that it outshone the magnificence of all the other exhibitions. And today, when Italians wish to symbolize perfection, they speak of "Giotto's O."

You want to do something big; really big? You should. You wouldn't be a healthy human if you didn't. But don't hate that small job because "it's keeping you down." Don't waste your life waiting for some splendid opportunity which will "give you your chance."

YOU ARE HAVING YOUR CHANCE TO SHOW WHAT'S IN YOU RIGHT NOW!

YOU CAN "MAKE YOUR MARK" BY THE SIMPLE CHORE AS WELL AS BY THE MOST THRILLING ADVENTURE.

For it isn't some quality in a job that will make you great. IT'S SOME QUALITY IN YOU.

You prove whether you're a Master, or a Mutt, as surely in your commonest task, as though you harnessed the stars. And IF YOU HAVE THE STUFF, you'll find as much pride and content in the plainest thing you do, as in the most eye-filling gesture.

The Human Side of the News

An Appeal From a Sentence of Exile Imposed on a Dog—Convicted of Killing Sheep—Canine Trials

By EDWIN C. HILL

THE GOVERNOR of Virginia is pondering over a rare petition, an appeal from the decision of the courts in the case of the Commonwealth of Virginia against one black and white setter dog. The dog's name is Don and his owner is Mrs. Marion J. Belk.

Don has been found guilty as a sheep killer, and the verdict entered against him is that he be expatriated from the confines of the state under the pain of death. Mrs. Belk says that Don is not a killer, and begs Gov. Pollard to grant a pardon, promising that if she is permitted to keep the dog she will enter into any guarantee or bond to see that he won't attack or molest live stock.

It used to be once in a blue moon that we happened upon a dog trial in this country. But the last few months have given us a few. There was the case in Baltimore of the famous Chow, Ming Toy, a show dog which, convicted of biting, was sentenced to die and later a commutation to life exile from the city. When an appeal was made to Gov. Ritchie to permit Ming Toy to re-enter Baltimore for an exhibition, the Governor referred the matter to the courts. Judge George A. Solter, in the Criminal Court, after due consideration decreed that Ming Toy would be permitted "to enter the city in a cage, remain in the cage during her entire stay in the city, and thereafter remain in the cage until her return to her original place of exile, excepting during such period as she is being exhibited in the show ring in direct charge of a competent attendant."

Three Dogs Cheat The Hangman

AT LEAST three canines have cheated the hangman in Atlantic City, N. J., where there is the death penalty for dogs that use their fangs on humans. A pair of beautiful twin Russian wolfhounds, Barney and Bridget, which were petted and admired by visitors to the steel pier, and Jiggers, a wirehaired terrier, are the trio which, in some mysterious fashion, got wind of the verdicts entered against them and escaped beyond the city limits before the arrival of the arresting officers.

But old Kentucky gets the palm for the dog's day in court. In John Fox's novel, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," one finds the moving story of the little boy Chad and his dog Jack, and the trial of the dog as a sheep killer, with court sitting out in the open at the prayer-meeting ground, and armed feudists as the audience. Fox's fiction was to be outdone by an actual trial, a few years back, where the death sentence was passed on a shepherd dog and the Court of Appeal had to intervene to prevent it being carried out.

Collie Saves Girl From Flames

UP IN Ontario is a itle town named Bigwood. The schoolteacher in the little white schoolhouse is a 22-year-old girl, Laurette Page. She was guiding her children through the three R's when fire swept the school like a blast from a furnace. It came so suddenly there was little time to plan escape. Desperately she rushed the children toward the exits and got them out. Then, blinded by smoke and with her own clothing ablaze, she staggered to a window and with her last gasp of consciousness threw herself out. Stunned and sorely hurt she lay, barely conscious, while her clothing burned on her insensible body. In two minutes she would have been so badly burned—so much of her body seared—that death would have been inevitable.

Even in her unconsciousness she must have screamed, and from a long way off her collie, Lady, heard the cry of agony and came like an arrow from a bow. She was all over her mistress in a whirlwind of action. She rolled on her, pawed at her, turned her over and over, until there was no more fire left in the girl's clothing. All alone, with only her sagacity to prompt her, the collie fought off death and saved the life of her mistress by seconds.

The Dog Cemetery In Paris

ONE THINKS of such stories roaming about one of the loveliest plots of ground anywhere to be found, the dog cemetery, "Cimitiere des Chiens," on the Seine, near Clichy, in France. Here are buried 25,000 of the friends of man. There stands, among many such memorials, the monument to the dog, Barry, "who saved the lives of forty people and was killed by the forty-first."

Barry belonged to the monks of St. Bernard, in the Alps. His work was to go out on the high trails, in the terrible winter storms, and look for lost travelers. That was his work for seven years, succoring such unfortunates, warming them with his great, shaggy coat, driving them ahead of him down the passes to the monastery, or else speeding ahead of them to summon aid.

And then, one day, he came upon a traveler lost in the snow. The man was dazed by hunger and numb with cold. His mind was not working intelligently. When he saw a great dog rushing toward him in the winter dusk he raised a bar of iron, which he had been using as his staff, and brought it down with all his strength upon Barry's head. Mortally wounded, barely able to crawl, the great dog retreated down the mountain and with his last strength barked the alarm.

IT WAS the great Pascal who wrote: "The more I see of men, the more I love my dog," and Victor Hugo who put his love for dogs into this striking sentence: "The dog is virtue which is unable to take the form of man."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Do you not often complain about the way people perform the work for which they are trained and which affords them a living?

You set yourself up as a judge about something in which you have had no special training.

You may even go so far as to say that you could do better than they.

The way certain ones do their work may not please you, but it does not prove that they are necessarily wrong.

You would object very strenuously to criticism from anyone who is not in your line of work, wouldn't you?

Do you not unjustly criticize those who are far your superior in the very work from which they derive a livelihood?
